By this Act,

After reciting that by 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. cxviii., and by certain other Acts therein recited, certain Commissioners therein named were authorized and empowered to improve and render more commodious certain parts of the county and city of Dublin, and for that purpose to purchase certain lands, buildings, and hereditaments, and (amongst other improvements) to complete the opening of the quay on the north side of the river Anna Liffey, between West Liffey Street and George the Fourth's Bridge in front of the Royal Barracks: And that by 4 & 5 Vict. c. 16, reciting (among other things) that, in pursuance of the powers in the said last-recited Act contained, the said Commissioners of Wide Streets, out of the funds appropriated or available for the purposes of the said Act, did purchase the inheritance in fee simple of a plot of ground extending from West Liffey Street, along the north bank of the river Anna Liffey, and lying between the said river and the Royal Barracks, to King George the Fourth's Bridge, on which were formerly standing certain houses and buildings forming the streets called Park Gate Street, Barrack Street, Windmill Court, West Liffey Street, and Flood Street respectively; and reciting, that all the said houses and buildings, with the exception of eleven dwelling houses, which were specified in the second division of the schedule to the Act now in recital annexed, had been taken down and entirely removed, and the space on which the same formerly stood was then vacant; and reciting, that the said eleven dwelling houses with the appurtenances were subject to the residue of a term of years, of which twenty-seven years or thereabouts were then unexpired, and the interest of the parties entitled thereto under the said lease had not been purchased or taken by the said Commissioners of Wide Streets; and reciting, that as the Commissioners of Wide Streets were, under the powers vested in them, directed to apply all ground to be purchased by them for effecting the improvements they were authorized to make as and for building ground and other specific purposes, "

was expedient, with a view to the improvement of the property of the Crown in the vicinity of the ground so purchased as aforesaid by the Commissioners of Wide Streets, and to the general improvement of the said city of Dublin, that the said ground should be purchased, and form part of the land revenues of the Crown; it was enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners of Wide Streets, mentioned in the said Act, 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. cxviii., to sell unto Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, with the consent of the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three of them, to purchase, on the behalf of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, (at a price to be fixed by a valuation to be made in manner hereinafter directed,) the fee simple and inheritance of all that piece of ground thereinbefore mentioned, and more particularly described in the first division of the Schedule to the Act now in recital annexed, and the eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, described in the second division of the said Schedule, subject nevertheless, as to the said eleven dwelling houses with the appurtenances, and the site on which the same stood, to such term of years or other interest as was then outstanding therein; and it was enacted, that the said hereditaments, when purchased, should be conveyed to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, as part of the possessions and land revenues of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in right of the Crown; and it was enacted, that for enabling the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings to effect such purchase as aforesaid, and to defray all expenses relating thereto, and also for the purchasing the leasehold interests of any parties for the time being entitled to the said eleven houses and buildings as aforesaid, it should be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to raise any sum not exceeding 43,000*l.*, by sale of a competent part of the sum of 83,851*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* Bank 3½ per centum annuities in Ireland, then standing in the names of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and which was purchased with monies which arose from the sale of certain of the Crown land revenues in Ireland: And that by 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv., after reciting that an Act was passed, 31 Geo. 3. (1.), intitled, 'An Act for making a wide and convenient Way, Street, and Passage from Essex Bridge to the Castle of Dublin, and for other Purposes therein mentioned,' and that several subsequent Acts were passed as well in the Parliament of Ireland as in the Parliament of the United Kingdom, whereby certain powers were from time to time given to the Commissioners of Wide Streets for the purpose of widening and improving certain streets, ways, and passages in the county and county of the city of Dublin, the last of which Acts was passed 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. cxxvii., and was intitled, 'An Act to extend, alter, and enlarge the Powers of several Acts for enabling the Commissioners of Wide Streets in Dublin to widen and improve certain Ways, Streets, and Passages in the said City and County of Dublin, and for raising further Funds to enable the said Commissioners to carry the same into execution;' and reciting, that several of the improvements and alterations specified and set forth in the said Act, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. cxxvii. were in progress and others yet remained to be perfected, but it had been found impossible to complete the same within the time for that purpose limited by the said last-mentioned Act; it was enacted, that the said Act, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. cxxvii., and the Acts therein recited or referred to, and all and every the powers, provisions, matters, and things in the said Acts contained, (save and except such parts thereof as might be varied, altered, or repealed by the Act now in recital, and subject to the provisions hereinafter contained,) should be as effectual for carrying the Act now in recital into execution as if the same had been re-enacted in the body of the Act now in recital, and should (save as aforesaid) extend, among other purposes, to the purpose following; (that is to say,) to complete the opening of the quay on the north side of the river Liffey, between West Liffey Street and King George the Fourth's Bridge, in front of the Royal Barracks; and it was enacted, that the powers of the Commissioners for the compulsory purchase or taking of messuages, houses, buildings or lands for the purposes of the Act now in recital should not be exercised after the expiration of four years from the passing thereof: and that, in pursuance of the powers of the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv., the said Commissioners of Wide Streets contracted to sell, and the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, contracted to purchase, on behalf of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, at a price to be fixed by a valuation to be made in manner by the said Act directed, the fee simple and inheritance of all that the said plot of ground extending from the west side of Liffey Street, along the north bank of the river Anna Liffey, and lying between the said river and the Royal Barracks, to King George the Fourth's Bridge, more particularly described in the first division of the Schedule to the said Act annexed, and the eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, described in the second division of the said Schedule, subject nevertheless, as to the said eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, and the site on which the same now stand, to such term of years or other interest as was then outstanding therein: And that the price to be paid for the said plot of ground and premises so contracted to be sold and purchased (subject, as to the said eleven dwelling houses, to such term of years or other interest therein as aforesaid,) has been fixed, by a valuation made in the manner by the said Act directed, at the sum of 16,631*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.*; but in making such valuation it has been considered that, to give value to the said ground, a quay wall must be constructed along the north bank of the river Anna Liffey, and a roadway formed on the south side of the said plot of ground, at the expense of the purchasers thereof, and a sum of 2,279*l.* 10*s.* has been allowed or deducted from the price of the said premises as the estimated cost of constructing the said quay wall and roadway: And that the interests of the parties entitled to the said eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, for the residue of the terms unexpired therein, have not yet been purchased or contracted to be purchased; but it is estimated that the sums necessary to be reserved for the purchase of such interests, and also for the construction of the quay wall and roadway hereinbefore mentioned, after payment of the said sum of 16,631*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.*, the ascertained price of the fee simple and inheritance of the said plot of ground and premises so contracted to be purchased, subject to such interests as aforesaid, will not wholly exhaust the before-mentioned sum of 43,000*l.*, which by the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv. the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury were authorized to raise for the purpose of effecting such purchases as aforesaid; and it is expedient that the surplus of the said sum of 43,000*l.* should be appropriated to improvements upon or in the vicinity of the said plot of ground, as hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by sale of a competent part of the Bank 3*l.* 10*s.* per centum annuities in Ireland standing in the names of the said Commissioners, and which annuities were purchased with monies which arose from the sale of certain of the Crown land revenues in Ireland, to raise and pay to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings such sum or sums of money as, with the monies already raised and paid to the said last-named Commissioners under the authority of the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv., will make up in the whole the full sum of £3,000*l.* authorized to be raised by the said recited Act.

II. That the said sums of money so paid and to be paid as aforesaid, amounting in the whole to the sum of £3,000*l.*, shall be applied by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, in the first place, in payment of the price fixed to be paid for the fee simple and inheritance of the said plot of ground and premises so contracted to be sold by the Commissioners of Wide Streets, and to be purchased by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, on behalf of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, under the authority of the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv. as aforesaid, and in defraying all expenses incident to such purchase, and, subject thereto, in purchasing the leasehold or other interests of the parties entitled to the eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, now standing on part of the said ground and premises, and defraying the expenses of such last-mentioned purchases, in straightening and completing the opening of the quay, and constructing a quay wall along the north bank of the river Anna Liffey between West Liffey Street and King George the Fourth's Bridge, in front of the Royal Barracks, in forming a convenient roadway on the south side of the said plot of ground and premises so contracted to be purchased as aforesaid, and in levelling, inclosing, laying out, and planting the said plot of ground or otherwise improving the same, and in improvements immediately connected therewith, and in defraying the expenses of obtaining and passing the said recited Act 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv. and this Act, and of carrying the same respectively into execution, and all other expenses relating thereto; and the surplus (if any) of the said sum of £3,000*l.* which shall remain after answering the purposes aforesaid shall be applied to such purposes as monies to arise from the sale of land revenues of the Crown in Ireland are now by law applicable.

And after reciting that powers have been given to the Commissioners of Wide Streets in Dublin by the several Acts hereinbefore recited or referred to, and by other Acts now in force, for the compulsory purchase of the said eleven dwelling houses, with the appurtenances, hereinbefore described, for completing the opening of the quay on the north side of the river Anna Liffey, for forming, stopping up, and diverting roadways, streets, and passages, and for otherwise improving the plot of ground and premises so contracted to be purchased on the behalf of Her Majesty as aforesaid, and the immediate vicinity thereof:—

It is Enacted,

III. That all and singular the same powers and authorities which, by the several Acts hereinbefore recited or referred to, or by any other Act or Acts now in force, have been given to or are vested in the Commissioners of Wide Streets in Dublin, for the compulsory purchase or taking of the eleven dwelling houses with the appurtenances, hereinbefore described, for completing the opening of the quay on the north side of the river Anna Liffey, for forming, stopping up, or diverting streets, ways, or passages, and for otherwise improving the plot of ground and premises so contracted to be purchased on behalf of Her Majesty as aforesaid, and the immediate vicinity thereof, shall, so far as the same powers and authorities are applicable to the objects and purposes of this Act and the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv. be given to and vested in the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings; and the said last-named Commissioners shall have and enjoy the like rights, privileges, and immunities in the execution of this Act and the said recited Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. lxiv. as the said Commissioners of Wide Streets have and enjoy or are entitled to exercise in the execution of their Acts or any of them.

IV. Provided and enacted, That none of the said works and improvements shall be undertaken, commenced, or carried on by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings without the previous approval or consent of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being.

V. That all sums of money to be raised and paid by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury under the authority of this Act shall be placed to the credit of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings in the Bank of Ireland, and that all payments to be made by the said last-named Commissioners in pursuance of this Act shall be made by drafts on the Bank of Ireland.

CAP. LXVII.

AN ACT for the better regulating the Number of Prisoners admitted to the General Prison at Perth.
(30th July 1842.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Peremptory orders for commitments to Perth prison suspended.
2. No sentence to contain a special order for commitment to Perth prison.
3. Prison board to have power to remove prisoners to the general prison.
4. And shall select those sentenced to long terms of imprisonment.
5. Prisoners may be confined for one year or upwards in any other lawful prison.
6. Prison board may remove prisoners from the general prison to the local prisons.
7. Return of sentences of imprisonment to be transmitted to the general board.
8. Orders of prison board subject to controul of Secretary of State.
9. Term of Act.
10. Act may be amended.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 2 & 3 Vict. c. 42, provision is made for the erecting of a general prison at Perth, and other prisons, to be so constructed, fitted up, and regulated as to afford the best means for training the prisoners therein confined in good and industrious habits, by effecting their complete separation from vicious society, and by affording them religious and moral instruction, and employing them in useful labour; and provision is also made for the appointment of a general board of directors of prisons in Scotland, and local boards to carry into effect the purposes of the said Act: And that it is by the said Act enacted, "that after the said general prison shall be declared by the said general board to be ready to receive prisoners, it shall be lawful for the said general board to cause all prisoners sentenced to imprisonment, the expiry of whose sentences shall not occur for a period of not less than six months, to be conveyed to the said general prison, and when any criminal court shall, after such declaration, sentence any person tried by such Court to a period of imprisonment for one year or upwards, such Court shall insert in the sentence a special order that the prisoner shall be forthwith conveyed to the said general prison at Perth; and where such sentence shall award imprisonment for a period of less than a year, but not less than six months, such Court may either order the prisoner to be conveyed to the said general prison, or to any other lawful prison which the Court shall think fit, and it shall also in such case be competent to the said general board to order the prisoner to be conveyed to the said general prison at Perth, if they shall think fit: And that by virtue of the said Act a general prison has been erected at Perth, and was declared by the said general board to be ready to receive prisoners from and after the 30th of March in the present year, and many prisoners who were then under sentences were removed thereto, and since then many persons have been sentenced to be confined therein, and have been removed thereto and confined therein: And that, from the great number of prisoners who were under sentence at the time when the said general prison was declared to be ready to receive prisoners, and also from the great number who have since been sentenced, there is great danger that the said general prison may be overcrowded, and that the important purposes of the said recited Act will be frustrated, unless the provisions above recited for sentencing prisoners to be confined in the said general prison be modified and suspended:—

It is Enacted,

- I. That from and after the passing of this Act so much of the said recited Act as enacts, "that when any criminal court shall sentence any person tried by such Court to a period of imprisonment for one year or upwards, such Court shall insert in the sentence a special order that the prisoner shall be forthwith conveyed to the said general prison at Perth, and where such sentence shall award imprisonment for a period of less than a year, but not less than six months, such Court may either order the prisoner to be conveyed to the said general prison, or to any other lawful prison which the Court shall think fit," shall be and the same is hereby suspended.
- II. That it shall not be lawful for any criminal court after the passing of this Act to insert in any sentence of imprisonment a special order that the prisoner shall be conveyed to or confined in the said general prison at Perth, or to order any prisoner to be conveyed to or confined in the said general prison; and any sentence containing such an order shall only be effectual to the extent of confining the prisoner in the local prison in which he would have been legally confined if no such special order had been inserted in his sentence of imprisonment.
- III. That it shall and may be lawful for the said General Board of Directors of Prisons, during the continuance of this Act, and such board is hereby required, to order and cause to be removed, from time to time, to the said general prison at Perth, such number of prisoners sentenced to imprisonment in any other prison, the expiry of whose sentences shall not occur for a period of not less than six months, as the said general prison may be capable of containing, but in no ways to overcrowd the same.
- IV. Provided and enacted, That the said General Board of Directors shall, as far as may be practicable, select for the purpose of such removal as aforesaid those prisoners whose sentences of imprisonment shall then have the longest time to run before their expiration; and no such order for the removal of any prisoner to the said general prison shall be valid unless the same be signed either by the Lord Justice General of Scotland or by the Lord Justice Clerk of Scotland.

v. That during the continuance of this Act nothing contained in the said recited Act or this Act shall be held to preclude any criminal court of competent jurisdiction from sentencing to imprisonment for one year or upwards, in any lawful prison other than the said general prison, any prisoner for whose crime such imprisonment shall be held to form a suitable punishment.

vi. That during the continuance of this Act it shall be lawful for the said General Board of Directors of Prisons, at any time or times when they may deem it necessary for the proper accommodation of prisoners in the said general prison at Perth, to order and cause to be removed from the said general prison to the several local prisons from which they may have been removed such number of prisoners as to the said General Board of Directors shall appear to be expedient; and such removal shall be made under similar regulations and conducted in the same manner in which the removal of prisoners previous to the expiration of their sentences from the said general prison to the prison nearest their residence, or in the county where their crimes may have been committed, is by the said recited Act directed to be made.

vii. That during the continuance of this Act, when any criminal shall have been sentenced to imprisonment for any period not less than six months, the clerk of the High Court of Justiciary if such sentence shall have been pronounced by the said High Court, or the clerk of the Circuit Court of Justiciary if such sentence shall have been pronounced by the Circuit Court of Justiciary, or the sheriff clerk of the sheriffdom if such sentence shall have been pronounced by a sheriff, shall, within ten days after such sentence shall have been pronounced, make a return thereof to the secretary of the General Board of Directors of Prisons in Scotland, which return shall be in the form of the Schedule hereto annexed.

viii. That all orders made by the said General Board, in regard to any of the matters aforesaid, shall be subject to the direction and controul of any one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

ix. That this Act shall continue in force until the 1st of December in the year 1843, and from thence to the end of the then next session of Parliament.

x. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

AN ACT to amend, and continue to the Twenty-seventh Day of July One thousand eight hundred and forty-three, and to the End of the next Session of Parliament, an Act of the Third and Fourth Years of Her present Majesty, for the more effectual Prevention of Frauds and Abuses committed by Weavers, Sewers, and other Persons employed in the Linen, Hempen, Union, Cotton, Silk, and Woollen Manufactures in Ireland, and for the better Payment of their Wages.

(30th July 1842.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. 3 & 4 Vict. c. 91. and this Act continued for one year from 27th July 1842, and thenceforth until the end of the next session.
2. Certain enactments in the said Act referring to the unlawful disposal of materials, &c. to extend and apply to cloths, tools, and apparatus.
3. In proceeding under search warrant, proof not to be deemed necessary, where oath has been made of reasonable suspicion of purloining, &c.
4. The chief constable's power of seizing without warrant, yarns, &c., suspected to be stolen, repealed: and in lieu thereof power given to place a constable in charge of the premises, to prevent the removal of suspected property.

5. If upon conviction the embezzled property be restored to the owner, expenses of the prosecution, unless previously paid by the party convicted, must be first paid thereout.
6. Landlord or other person seizing for rent due from weaver may give notice to manufacturer to remove his cloths, yarns, &c., and in default the manufacturer to lose his remedy.
7. Act may be altered this session.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 91, and that by 5 Vict. c. 7, the said Act was continued for a certain time, therein limited: And that it is expedient to amend and further continue the said Act:—

It is Enacted,

I. That the said Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 91, and this Act, shall be and continue in force for one year from the 27th of July in this present year, and thenceforth until the end of the next session of Parliament.

And after reciting that by the said last-mentioned Act it was enacted, that if any person should sell, pawn, pledge, exchange, or otherwise unlawfully dispose of, or offer to sell, pawn, pledge, exchange, or otherwise dispose of, any such materials, tools, or apparatus as therein are mentioned, knowing them to have been purloined or embezzled, or received from persons fraudulently disposing thereof, he should upon conviction be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and it was also enacted, that on proof on oath of there being just cause to suspect that any such materials, tools, or apparatus as aforesaid had been fraudulently sold, pawned, purloined, or embezzled, by the person to whom intrusted, or that such materials, tools, or apparatus had been purchased or received, or sold, or pawned, pledged, or exchanged, or otherwise fraudulently disposed of, or offered for sale, pawn, pledge, exchange, or other disposal, by any person knowing the same to have been purloined or embezzled, or received from some person fraudulently disposing thereof, such proceedings might be taken as in the said Act are mentioned: And that by the said Act it was enacted, that any person who should be deemed and adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, agreeably to any of the previous sections of the said Act, should, in addition to being deprived, without compensation, of any stolen or embezzled materials or goods which should have been found in his possession, forfeit the sum therein mentioned: And that it is expedient that the aforesaid enactments should extend to cloths made of such materials as in the said Act is mentioned: And that doubts are entertained whether all the provisions of the said enactments extend to tools and other apparatus, as well as to materials, and it is expedient to remove such doubts:—

It is Enacted,

II. That the said Act shall extend and apply to cloths made of linen, hempen, cotton, silk, or woollen yarns, or cloths made of any one or of any mixture of these materials, and also to such tools and apparatus as in the said Act are mentioned, in such and the same manner as if the words "cloths, tools, and apparatus" had been inserted and mentioned throughout the said several enactments, together with and in addition to "materials."

And after reciting that by the said Act it is enacted, that if any credible person should make oath before a Justice of the Peace that there is reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession or on his premises any purloined or embezzled cloths, yarns, materials, tools, or apparatus, such Justice is thereby authorized and required to grant his warrant to search the dwelling-house and premises of such person; and the said enactment now in recital authorizes such proceedings as therein are mentioned to be taken against such person, in case any such property should be found in his possession or in such dwelling-house or premises; and that doubts are entertained whether, in proceeding against any party under the said enactment, it is necessary to prove that such cloths, yarns, materials, tools, or apparatus as therein are mentioned have been actually purloined or embezzled, and it is expedient to remove such doubts:—

It is Enacted,

III. That it shall not be necessary, in any proceedings under the lastly hereinbefore recited enactment, to prove that the cloths, yarns, materials, tools, or apparatus in respect of which such proceedings shall take place have been purloined or embezzled, in case the party making oath before a Justice of the Peace that there is reasonable cause to suspect that a person has in his possession or premises any purloined or embezzled cloths, yarns, materials, tools, or apparatus, do likewise make oath that he suspects the same to have been purloined or embezzled.

And after reciting that the said Act contains a provision empowering any chief constable or chief of police, upon receiving information that stolen or purloined and embezzled linen, hempen, cotton, silk, or woollen yarns or cloths, made of any one or any mixture of these materials, or tools or apparatus for manufacturing the same, or that such yarns or goods suspected of being stolen or purloined and embezzled are deposited in certain specified premises, and that there is reason to apprehend that such yarns or goods will be removed before a warrant can be obtained from a Justice to search the said premises, and to seize such yarns or goods, and to proceed thereupon in a certain manner by the said Act directed: And that it is expedient to repeal so much of the said enactment as authorizes such seizure in the first instance by such chief constable or chief of police:—

It is Enacted,

IV. That so much of the said Act as authorizes any such chief constable or chief of police to in the first instance make such seizure shall be repealed; and that in lieu thereof it shall be lawful for such chief constable or chief of police to place a constable or peace officer in charge of such premises, in order to prevent the removal of such property, for such reasonable time as he may consider necessary for the obtaining of such warrant as in the said Act mentioned.

And after reciting that provision is made by the said Act for the restitution of property found in the possession of a person convicted under the said Act, when, after advertising the same, as thereby directed, the ownership thereof shall be proved, upon payment of the reasonable cost of removing, depositing, and advertising and giving notice of the same: And that it is just that the expenses of the prosecution shall also be paid by such owner, in case of such restitution:—

It is Enacted,

v. That no such property shall be restored until the expenses of the prosecution shall also be paid by the owner, if not previously paid by the person convicted.

And after reciting that provision was made by the said Act restraining any landlord or other person from seizing or selling, by virtue of any distress warrant, execution, or other proceeding for rent in arrear or money due or alleged to be due by a weaver or worker, or on any other account whatever, any cloths, yarns, materials, or tools or apparatus for manufacturing the same, belonging to a manufacturer or agent, and intrusted by him to such weaver or worker for the purpose of manufacture, or any tools or apparatus actually employed in manufacturing such cloths or yarns: And that it is expedient to amend the said provisions:—

It is Enacted,

vi. That if the landlord or other person making such seizure shall give the manufacturer or agent a notice in writing of such seizure having been made, and requiring him to have all such cloths, yarns, materials, or tools or apparatus removed off the premises, and he shall refuse or neglect to have the same removed within three days (exclusive of Sunday) from the time of service of such notice, then in such case such manufacturer or agent shall be deprived of any remedy he would otherwise be entitled to for the recovery of the same under the said Act, from such landlord or other person.

vii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

ii. That in all suits which may be so instituted under the authority of this Act, touching any honour, title, dignity, or office, or any other matter or thing, in which Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, may have any estate or interest, it shall be lawful to make the Attorney General for the time being a party defendant thereto; and that in all proceedings in which the depositions taken in any such suit in which the Attorney General for the time being was so made a defendant may be offered in evidence, such depositions may be admissible notwithstanding any objection to such depositions upon the ground that Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, were not parties to the suit in which such depositions were taken.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 55 Geo. 3. c. 125, 55 Geo. 3. c. 136, and 7 Geo. 4. c. 16, and that by the said Acts it was directed that the payments to the out-pensioners should in future be made quarterly in advance; but such payments in advance have in some instances, through the imprudence of the pensioners, produced great inconvenience, and it is therefore expedient that other provisions should be made in relation to such payments:—

It is Enacted,

I. That the first two recited Acts, and also so much of the last-recited Act as requires that payments shall be made to the out-pensioners of the remaining number of days of the current quarter upon admission, and thereafter in advance in quarterly payments, shall be repealed, but not so as to revive or give effect to any Act or part of any Act repealed by the Acts herein repealed or either of them.

II. That from and after the 1st of October 1842 it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Chelsea Hospital for the time being, with the advice and consent of the Secretary at War and of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to make such regulations in relation to the payment in advance to out-pensioners of the said Royal Hospital, upon their first admission on the pension list, of any such proportions of their pensions at the time of admission as they shall see fit; and the Secretary at War, with the advice and consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall be authorized to direct all subsequent payments of such pensions to be made either quarterly, monthly, or weekly in advance accordingly, as shall appear to him best calculated for the advantage of the pensioner and the interest of the public: Provided always, that if at the time of the death of any out-pensioner any part of the pension of the then current quarter shall have been unpaid, the same, or so much thereof as shall remain after payment of his funeral expenses, shall be accounted for and paid to such person as the said pensioner shall have appointed to receive the same by any writing under his hand, made and delivered in such form and manner as shall be directed from time to time by the Secretary at War, and in default of such appointment shall be accounted for and paid to such person as, by reason of kindred, or as a creditor, or otherwise, shall appear to the Secretary at War best entitled thereunto; and no such appointment shall be liable to any stamp duty, nor shall any probate of will or letters of administration be needed on making such payment under the authority of the Secretary at War.

And after reciting that the more frequent payment of the pensioners can be better and more regularly made by officers on half pay, or others appointed or to be appointed for that purpose by the Secretary at War, with the consent of the Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury:—

It is Enacted,

III. That in every part or district of the United Kingdom for which the Secretary at War, with the consent aforesaid, shall have appointed any officer on half pay or other person to pay the pensions, the payment of all pensions, allowances, and relief granted or to be granted to disabled, invalid, and discharged soldiers, payable in that district, shall be made by the officer or other person so appointed, under such regulations as shall be made by the Secretary at War.

IV. That whenever advances of money shall be required by the officers or persons so appointed, for the payment of the pensioners, or for other disbursements connected with their several duties, the Secretary at War for the time being shall certify under his hand to the Lords and others, Commissioners of the Royal Hospital at Chelsea, the sum or sums of money which shall be respectively required for the purposes aforesaid, and the names of the officers to whom and of the districts in which the issue is to be made; and the said Commissioners of Chelsea Hospital shall thereupon direct the agent for the payment of out-pensions of the said Hospital to make such advance or issue accordingly, or to repay any advances which may have been made for this purpose by revenue officers or others under the authority after mentioned.

V. That it shall be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury aforesaid to order and direct that any sum or sums of money required by the said officers as aforesaid for payment of the pensioners in the several districts under their charge shall be paid by any receiver general of the land tax or collector of the cess in Scotland, or any collector of duties of Customs or Excise, or any collector of the duties under the management of the Commissioners for the Affairs of Taxes, or any other public officers, out of any public money in their hands respectively, and that the vouchers and receipts of the said officers for the payment of such money shall be taken as cash in the accounts and in part of the duties collected by such receivers general or collectors or other public officers respectively; and all such sums of money so advanced under any such rule or regulation for any such payment shall be, by the agent for the payment of out-pensions for the time being, repaid to the account of the duties out of which the same shall have been paid, or in such other manner as the said Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct.

VI. That the Commissioners for auditing the Public Accounts shall give allowance in the account of the agent for paying the out-pensioners of Chelsea Hospital of all such sums advanced by him on certificates of the Secretary at War to the officers or others to be so appointed, upon production of the warrants of the Commissioners for the Affairs of Chelsea Hospital, of the above-mentioned certificates, and of the receipts of those officers, without other account or vouchers for such advances, the detailed application of which is to be accounted for to the Secretary at War according to such rules and instructions as shall be laid down by him for that purpose, with the consent of the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

VII. Provided and enacted, That in every part of the United Kingdom or elsewhere for which no such officer or other person shall have been appointed as aforesaid by the Secretary at War the payments of pensions shall take place and be accounted for in all respects as if this Act had not been passed.

VIII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

After reciting the passing of 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 88, whereby it was among other things enacted, that every person whose name should be continued upon the books of the University of Dublin, for the purpose of entitling him to vote at the election of members to serve in Parliament for the said university, should be liable to pay to the College of the Holy and Undivided Trinity near Dublin an annual sum of 1*l.*, and that upon the refusal of any such person to pay the said annual sum of 1*l.* within one month after the same should have been demanded his name should be removed from the said books, and should not be again replaced thereon: And that the said annual payment has been found inconvenient, and doubts have arisen as to the effect of the provisions of the said Act in respect of the demand therein mentioned, and it is expedient to amend the said Act in those respects:—

It is Enacted,

1. That so much of the said recited Act as makes every elector of the said University liable to pay to the said College an annual sum of 1*l.*, shall be and is hereby repealed, without prejudice, nevertheless, to any such payment heretofore made or accrued due under the provisions of the said Act.

And after reciting that in some cases the said College has compounded with the persons liable to the said annual payment of 1*l.* under the provisions of the said Act for a gross sum of 5*l.* for their respective lives:—

It is Enacted,

II. That all persons having made such composition shall be entitled to have their names continued on the books of the said university for their respective lives, and to vote at any election for members to serve in Parliament for the said University, without any further payment.

III. That every elector whose name shall at the passing of this Act be upon the books of the said university, and who shall not have so compounded, who shall be desirous of the right to vote at any such election, shall, on or before the 1st of December in the present year, pay to the said College the sum of 5*l.*, together with all arrears due to the said College in respect of the said annual payment of 1*l.*; or every such person may, at his option, pay to the said College such sum as together with the sums already paid by him in respect of such annual payment shall amount to the sum of 10*l.* in the whole; and in default of such payment, and without any demand thereof, the name of such person shall be removed from the books of the said University, and shall not be replaced thereon unless it shall first have been replaced upon the said college books, conformably to the rules and statutes of the said college: Provided always, that if any person whose name shall have been so removed from the books of the said University shall not have been within the United Kingdom from the time of the passing of this Act until after the said 1st of December, such person shall, upon making such payment as is herein required for electors who have not compounded, and who shall be desirous of the right to vote at any such election within six calendar months after his return to the United Kingdom, have his name replaced on the books of the said University: Provided also, that no person whose name shall have been so removed on account of the default of any payment required by this or the said recited Act, and shall have been afterwards replaced on the books of the said University, shall be entitled to vote at any such election until after the lapse of six calendar months from the time his name shall have been so replaced.

IV. That every person whose name shall be upon the college books of the said University, and who shall have obtained a fellowship or scholarship, or the degree of Master of Arts, or any higher degree in the said University, and every person who shall hereafter obtain a fellowship or scholarship, or the degree of Master of Arts, or any higher degree in the said University, and who upon the removal of his name from the said college books, or after he shall have taken such degree, shall be desirous of having his name placed or retained on the books of the said University, for the purpose of voting at any such election, shall, before the 1st of December next after his name shall be so removed from the said college books or have taken such degree, pay to the said College the sum of 5*l.*, and thereupon his name shall be placed or retained upon the books of the said University, and he shall be entitled to vote at any such election for his life without any further payment; providing always, that no person shall be entitled to vote at any election of a member or members to serve in any future Parliament for the said University by reason of any degree of a purely honorary nature.

v. Provided and enacted, That every person having his name on the said college books shall be considered for all purposes as having his name on the books of the said University, but that the payments to be made by such person shall be regulated by the rules and statutes of the said College.

vi. That in the month of December in every year after the passing of this Act the registrar of the said College shall make out an alphabetical list of the names of the electors entitled to vote at any such election; and the said registrar shall cause copies of such list to be printed in the month of January in each year, and shall give a copy of such list to any elector applying for the same, upon being paid 2s. 6d. for each copy; and the said registrar shall each year publish a copy of such list in the University Calendar, when such calendar shall be published, or in some one or more of the public journals having general circulation in Ireland.

vii. That the said registrar shall annually revise and correct such list, and shall expunge therefrom the name of every elector whom the said registrar shall be informed and believe to be dead, and the name of such elector shall be removed from the books of the said University: Provided always, that in case the name of any elector shall have been expunged upon the supposition that he was dead, and it shall appear that such elector is still living, his name shall immediately be restored, and again placed upon the books of the said University and such list, and he shall thereupon be entitled to vote at any such election as fully as if his name had not been so removed.

viii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXV.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to remove Doubts touching the Law relating to Charitable Pawn or Deposit Offices in Ireland. (30th July 1842.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Managers, &c. of charitable pawn societies exempted from penalties for acting as unqualified persons, provided the societies are entitled to the benefit of 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 55, and a licence be taken in the name of a manager or clerk.
2. Licence to enure for six months after the death of the clerk, or his ceasing to be employed, but his sureties to remain liable.
3. Bonds, &c. of managers, servants, and agents shall remain in force for six months after their deaths or ceasing to act.
4. Nothing herein to exempt the managers of pawn societies or other persons from any penalty for mal-practices.
5. Not only the party licensed but the property of the institutions to be liable for penalties for mal-practices.—Act not to be construed to vest any property in the person licensed, except to render it liable to forfeiture for any penalty incurred in the trade.
6. Public Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 26 Geo. 3. (I.) and that accordingly by virtue of such Act the trade or business of a pawnbroker was established in Ireland; and it is provided and enacted, that after the 1st of May 1786 every person purposing to become a pawnbroker shall enter into and execute a bond, as therein mentioned, in the penal sum of 300*l.* sterling, conditioned for the due and faithful discharge of all trusts, matters, and things committed to his or her care or to him or her relating in consequence of becoming or being a pawnbroker, and of the said duties thereby required of such pawnbroker, and is also required to procure three or more proper and sufficient persons also to enter into and execute a separate and distinct bond, as therein mentioned, in the penal sum of 100*l.* sterling, for the security of all persons who should have any dealing with such person following the business of a pawnbroker pursuant to that Act that such pawnbroker shall duly and faithfully discharge the several duties thereby required of him or her; and by the said Act certain penalties and forfeitures are imposed upon all persons whomsoever who shall after the 1st of May 1786 commence to follow the said business of a pawnbroker, who shall not have entered into and given such securities as thereinbefore and also as hereinbefore mentioned; and the said Act contains divers provisions touching the mode in which the trade or business of a pawnbroker is to be carried on, and imposes divers penalties and forfeitures upon persons guilty of any mal-practices in the said trade: And that an Act was passed, 28 Geo. 3. (I.) and thereby it is enacted, that if any person or persons, not being duly qualified and licensed, shall in any manner presume to use, exercise, or carry on the said trade or business of a pawnbroker, every such person so offending shall forfeit and pay, for each and every such offence, the further penalty therein mentioned, recoverable as therein mentioned; and the same Act contains certain provisions requiring certain certificates to be obtained and additional security to be given by all pawnbrokers residing within the district of the metropolis of the city of Dublin, or within three miles thereof, and requires a certain oath to be taken by every pawnbroker so residing as last mentioned; and the said Act contains divers other enactments inflicting pains and penalties upon persons guilty of mal-practices in the said trade or business of a pawnbroker: And that certain charitable institutions or societies have been formed in Ireland, commonly called charitable pawn offices, or Monts de Piété, the object of which institutions or societies is to lend money to poor persons on the pledge or deposit of goods; and the profits arising from such institutions or societies, after the payment of necessary expenses, are devoted to charitable purposes: And that it is expedient that such institutions or societies should be encouraged and aided by legislative enactments, provided that due and proper precautions be taken to secure such profits as aforesaid for charitable purposes, and prevent their being applied by the projectors for their own benefit; and such proper precautions may be insured by a compliance, by or on behalf of such institutions or societies, with the provisions in that behalf contained in the Act of Parliament next hereinafter recited or referred to: And that an Act was made and passed, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 55, and by that Act divers provisions are made for the establishment and management of certain institutions called loan societies or loan funds, which institutions were formed for the purpose of raising from time to time, by loans from the members of such societies or from other persons, at a rate of interest not exceeding six per centum per annum, or by donations, a stock or fund for the purpose of granting loans to the industrious classes in sums not exceeding 10*l.* to any one individual at any one time, but at a rate of interest higher than is allowed by law to be taken on ordinary loans; and by the said Act proper provisions are made for the enrolment of such societies, and full and proper provision is made for securing for charitable purposes the net profits of every society established under the provisions of that Act, or which may become entitled to the benefit thereof; and it is by the said Act enacted, that if any society or societies, then or thereafter to be formed, for the purpose of establishing charitable pawn or deposit offices at which money may be lent to the industrious poor upon pledge, shall be desirous of having the benefit of that Act, such society or societies shall in like manner cause the rules framed or to be framed for their management respectively to be certified, deposited, and enrolled in manner thereinbefore directed with reference to loan fund societies desiring the benefit of that Act, and thereupon such societies respectively shall be deemed and entitled to and shall have the benefit of the provisions contained in that Act, so far as the same are applicable to the objects of such charitable pawn or deposit offices: And that in consequence of the provisions touching the qualifications and licence required for pawnbrokers respectively contained in the said two several Acts of Parliament first hereinbefore recited or referred to, doubts have arisen whether the directors, trustees, and managers of, and other persons conducting or assisting in the conduct of, the said institutions or societies called charitable pawn or deposit offices, do not incur penalties for and as acting as pawnbrokers without a proper qualification or licence, notwithstanding they may be enrolled under and entitled to the benefit of the last hereinbefore recited Act, and notwithstanding such persons may have caused their manager, clerk, agent, or servant to be licensed as required by the said two first-recited Acts for carrying on their said business, it being held and considered that a compliance with the forms required by the said two first-mentioned statutes, in the name of a manager, clerk, agent, or servant not beneficially and substantially personally interested in the said business, is not sufficient to exempt the said directors, trustees, managers, conductors, and other persons from the penalties imposed by the said two first-mentioned Acts upon unqualified persons acting as pawnbrokers: And that for the encouragement of the said charitable institutions or societies, it is expedient that such doubts should be removed; and it is expedient also to provide for the inconvenience that may from time to time arise from the death of the person who may be licensed or authorized to act as a pawnbroker, or from his ceasing to act on behalf of the society on whose behalf he may have been originally licensed, in the interval before a successor can be licensed and authorized to act, and it is expedient also to make such other provisions as hereinafter contained touching the person to be so licensed or authorized to act:—

It is Enacted,

I. That none of the clauses or provisions touching or requiring any securities, licence, or qualification to be given, taken, or acquired, or other forms to be complied with on the part of any person or persons commencing or carrying on the business of pawnbrokers, respectively contained in the said two several Acts first hereinbefore mentioned or referred to, or either of them, shall be held or construed to subject or render liable any director, trustee, manager, or subscriber of, or any manager, clerk, agent, servant, or other person in any way connected with, or conducting or assisting in the conduct of any institution or society now or hereafter to be formed in Ireland for the purpose of establishing in Ireland a charitable pawn or deposit office, to any penalty, forfeiture, or punishment whatever in respect of any act, deed, or thing at any time heretofore, or to be at any time hereafter done or omitted to be done by any director, trustee, manager, or subscriber of, or any agent, servant, or other person connected with or conducting or assisting in the conduct of any such institution or society, at the usual place or places of conducting the business of the said institution or society; provided that such institution or society shall, by having complied with the provisions of the said recited Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 55, have become and for the time being continue entitled to the benefit of the provisions of that Act; and provided that some manager, clerk, servant, or agent of the said institution or society shall, on behalf of the said institution or society, have complied with the forms and requisites of the said two first-recited Acts, or such of them as may be applicable to the place or places respectively where the business of the said institution or society may be conducted, in such and the same manner as would enable such manager, clerk, servant, or agent to act as a pawnbroker on his own behalf.

II. That whenever it shall happen that a licence or authority shall have been once obtained by or on behalf of any manager, clerk, servant, or agent of any such institution or society as aforesaid, the whole business may be conducted in his name in all respects as if he were beneficially interested; and such licence or authority shall be and enure for the benefit of the said institution or society, and the directors, members, managers, and subscribers thereof, and all persons conducting and assisting in the conduct thereof, so as to save them from all penalties for acting as pawnbrokers without proper qualification or licence at their usual places of business respectively, not only during such time as such manager, clerk, servant, or agent shall be actually employed for or on behalf of the said institution or society in the management or conduct of their business or in assisting therein, but for the space of six calendar months from and after the death of such manager, servant, or agent, or from and after the time when such manager, servant, or agent shall cease to act or be employed for or by the said institution or society, whichever shall first happen, but not for a longer period than six calendar months from such time as aforesaid.

III. Provided and enacted, that all bonds and securities given or procured to be given by, for, or on behalf of such manager, servant, or agent, pursuant to the said two several first hereinbefore recited Acts or either of them, shall extend to and be deemed to be in force for securing during the said period of six months the observance and performance, by and on behalf of all persons acting for and on behalf of the said institution or society on whose behalf the said person shall have acted, of every act, matter, and thing which the said person so licensed would or ought to do or perform, or omit to do or perform, if living, and acting on his own behalf in the conduct of the business of the said institution or society, in like manner to all intents and purposes as if such person were living and actually personally carrying on the business of a pawnbroker, at the usual place of conducting business by the said society, for and during such period of six months from such death or ceasing to act as aforesaid.

iv. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to exempt the managers of any such institution or society as aforesaid, or any other persons whatever, from any penalties or forfeitures by reason of any mal-practices in the trade or business of a pawnbroker, it being the true intent and meaning of this Act to confine the exemption of the parties hereby exempted solely to the want of licence or qualification, or non-compliance with the forms required by the said two first-recited Acts.

v. That not only shall the person so licensed as aforesaid, or in whose name the business of a pawnbroker shall be conducted on behalf of any such institution or society as aforesaid, be liable to every penalty and forfeiture for mal-practices contained in or imposed by the said two first-mentioned Acts, in like manner in all respects as if he were conducting the business of a pawnbroker on his own account, and his sureties be liable as hereinbefore provided, but the goods, property, and effects of the said institution or society on whose behalf he shall be so licensed or act shall be liable to seizure and distress for all forfeitures and penalties which may be incurred by him, or by any other person assisting in the management of the said business, at the place where the business of the said institution or society shall be carried on, in like manner as if such funds and property were the funds and property of the person so licensed or authorized as aforesaid: provided always, that nothing herein contained shall in any way be deemed to vest in the said person, or give him, or his executors, administrators, or assignees, any estate, right, or interest in the goods, property, or effects of the said company, or render such goods, property, or effects of the said company in any way subject to claims by the creditors of such person, or any other persons claiming through him, save only in respect of forfeitures or penalties incurred in the trade of a pawnbroker at the usual place of conducting the business of the institution or society for or on whose benefit he shall be licensed to act.

vi. That this Act shall be deemed a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Justices, and other persons, without the same being specially shewn or pleaded.

IV. That it shall be lawful for the Governor and the said Legislative Council of the colony of New South Wales, by any Act or Acts to be hereafter passed, to alter the divisions and extent of the several districts and towns which shall be represented in the Legislative Council, and to establish new and other divisions of the same, and to alter the number of members of the Council to be chosen by the said districts and towns respectively, and to increase the whole number of the Legislative Council, and to alter and regulate the appointment of returning officers in and for the same, and make provision in such manner as they may deem expedient for the issuing and return of writs for the election of members to serve in the said Legislative Council, and the time and place for holding such elections: Provided always, that such number of the additional councillors as is equal to one-third part of the whole increase, or, if such increase shall not be exactly divisible by three, such whole number as is next greater than one-third of the whole increase, shall be appointed by Her Majesty, and the remaining additional members of the Council shall be elected by the inhabitants of the colony in like manner as the elective members first constituted under this Act.

XXII. That the first writs for the election of members of the said Council shall issue at some period not later than twelve calendar months after the proclamation of this Act within the said colony.

XXIII. XLIII. Provided and enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any such district council as aforesaid to levy any rate or assessment whatever on any lands or tenements, goods or chattels, real or personal estates, belonging to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors.

XLIV. That a copy of every bye law made by any district council under the authority of this Act shall be transmitted by the warden of the district, within fourteen days after the making thereof, to the Governor of the colony of New South Wales; and it shall be lawful for the said Governor, with the advice of his Executive Council, at any time within two calendar months after the receipt of such copy, to disallow such bye law, and such disallowance shall without delay be signified to the warden of the district where such bye law shall have been passed, and thenceforward such bye law shall be void and of no effect; and no such bye law shall have effect until the expiration of the said period of two calendar months, unless the said Governor shall have given his assent thereto before the expiration of that period.

XLV. That, subject to the provisions herein contained, it shall be lawful for the said Governor to specify in writing, and by the said several charters of incorporation, the metes and bounds of the said several districts, and the number of councillors which shall be for every district, and the time and manner of their election, and to fix the qualification of the councillors, and to nominate, among the persons qualified to vote in the election of councillors, the councillors, being duly qualified, who shall form the first Council in every such district, and to appoint the order and manner in which they shall go out of office, and to fix penalties for qualified persons refusing to take office in the Council, and to make all other necessary provisions for establishing such district councils, for defining their powers, and enabling them to exercise their functions: Provided always, that, notwithstanding any such charter, it shall be lawful for the Governor and Legislative Council of the colony of New South Wales to make further or other provisions respecting the constitution of the said councils, and to extend or limit the powers of such councils in any way which may be found expedient, so that it be not repugnant to this Act or to the law of England, and to alter the number and boundaries of the districts, and to establish a council in each of such new districts.

XLVI. That in every case of vacancy of the office of district councillor if a new election shall not be made within the time prescribed by the charter of incorporation, or by any law of the Governor and Legislative Council of the colony respecting the constitution of such district council, the Governor shall nominate a person duly qualified to fill the vacancy.

XLVII. That one-half of the expense of the police establishment of the said colony (exclusive of the convict establishment) shall be defrayed out of the general revenue arising from taxes, duties, rates, and imposts within the said colony, and the other half shall be defrayed by assessment upon the several districts of the colony, in such proportions as shall be from time to time fixed by the Governor and Legislative Council; and as soon as any bill shall have passed the Legislative Council, and shall have been assented to by the Governor, for appropriating any sum to the service of the police for the year then next ensuing, and for apportioning an equal sum among the several districts of the said colony, it shall be lawful for the Governor to issue warrants under his hand, directed to the treasurers of the several district councils, requiring them within two calendar months from the receipt of the warrant to pay an amount equal to the sum assessed upon that district to such person as the Governor shall appoint to receive the same, out of any monies in their hands belonging to the district.

XLVIII. That the treasurer of each district council to whom any such warrant shall come shall pay the amount mentioned in the warrant out of any monies in his hands belonging to the district, or if there be no monies or an insufficient sum in his hands, the district council shall assess and levy the amount by a fair and equal rate upon all property within the district, which the Legislative Council, or, until a bill for that purpose shall have been passed by the Legislative Council, and assented to by the Governor, with the advice of his Executive Council, shall declare to be liable thereunto.

XLIX. That if the amount ordered by such warrant to be paid by the treasurer of any district shall not be paid, within two calendar months after the receipt of the warrant, to such person as the Governor shall appoint to receive the same, it shall be lawful for the public treasurer of the said colony, or other proper officer appointed by the Governor for such purpose, to issue his warrant for levying the amount, or so much thereof as shall be in arrear, with all costs and charges of such proceeding, by distress and sale of the goods of the said treasurer of the district, and of all or any of the members of the said district council, and if no sufficient distress can be thereby made, then by distress and sale of the goods of any of the inhabitants of the said district.

L. That the amount so contributed from each district, and an equal sum out of the amount appropriated out of the general revenue for the service of the police, shall be expended for the service of the police in that district, under the direction of the Governor; and the surplus, if any, remaining over and above the expenditure in each year, shall be carried forward in diminution of the charge for the next year.

And after reciting that the said colony of New South Wales is of great extent, and it may be fit that the territories now comprised within the said colony should be divided into separate colonies, and provision should be made for the temporary administration of the government of any such newly-erected colony as, not being comprised within the limits hereinafter mentioned, may not possess a sufficient population for the immediate establishment therein of the form of government hereinbefore provided:—

It is Enacted,

LI. That, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by letters patent, to be from time to time issued under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to define, as to Her Majesty shall seem meet, the limits of the colony of New South Wales, and to erect into a separate colony or colonies any territories which now are, or are reputed to be, or hereafter may be comprised within the said colony of New South Wales: Provided always, that no part of the territories lying southward of the twenty-sixth degree of south latitude in the said colony of New South Wales shall by any such letters patent as aforesaid be detached from the said colony.

LII. That in case Her Majesty shall, by any such letters patent as aforesaid, establish any such new colony or colonies as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by any such letters patent, to authorize any number of persons not less than even, including the governor or lieutenant governor of any such new colony or colonies, to constitute a Legislative Council or Legislative Councils for the same; and that every such Legislative Council shall be composed of such persons as shall from time to time be named or designated by Her Majesty for that purpose, and shall hold their places therein at Her Majesty's pleasure; and that it shall be lawful for such Legislative Council to make and ordain all such ordinances as may be required for the peace, order, and good government of any such colony as aforesaid, for which such Legislative Council may be so appointed; and that in the making all such ordinances the said Legislative Council shall conform to and observe all such instructions as Her Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council, shall from time to time make for their guidance therein: Provided always, that no such instructions, and that no such ordinances as aforesaid, shall be repugnant to the law of England, but consistent therewith, so far as the circumstances of any such colony may admit: Provided also, that all such ordinances shall be subject to Her Majesty's confirmation or disallowance, in such manner and according to such regulations as Her Majesty, by any such instructions as aforesaid, shall from time to time see fit to prescribe: Provided also, that all instructions which shall in pursuance hereof be made by Her Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council, and that all ordinances which shall be made in pursuance hereof by any such Legislative Council of any such newly-erected colony as last aforesaid, shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within one calendar month from the date of any such instructions, or from the arrival in this kingdom of the transcripts of any such ordinances, if Parliament shall then be sitting, or if not, then within one calendar month from the commencement of the next ensuing session of Parliament.

And after reciting the passing of 9 Geo. 4. c. 83, continued by 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 46, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 42, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 50, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 70, and 3 & 4 Vict. c. 62: And that so much of the said first-recited Act as relates to the constitution of a Council in New South Wales will be superseded by this Act:—

It is Enacted,

LIII. That so much of the said Acts or any of them as relates to the constitution, appointment, and powers of a Council in New South Wales, therein mentioned, shall continue until the first writs shall issue for the election of members of the Legislative Council under this Act, and from and after the issue of such writs shall be repealed, and that, subject to the provision hereinafter contained, the other parts of the said recited Acts which, but for the passing of this Act, would expire at the end of this session of Parliament, shall become permanent, both with respect to the said colony of New South Wales and the said colony of Van Diemen's Land: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to repeal or abrogate any law or ordinance made in pursuance of the said recited Acts or any of them, but that every such law or ordinance shall hereafter be as valid and effectual as if every part of the said recited Acts had been hereby made permanent: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Governor and Legislative Council of the said colony, in exercise of the powers to them respectively granted by this present Act, and in the manner and subject to the rules hereinbefore prescribed, to repeal, vary, or alter all or any part of the said recited Acts or any of them, or any law or ordinance made in pursuance thereof.

LIV. That by the word "governor," as employed in this Act, shall be understood the person for the time being lawfully administering the government of the said colony of New South Wales.

LV. That this Act shall be proclaimed by the Governor of New South Wales within six weeks after a copy of it shall have been received by him, and shall take effect within the said colony from the day of the proclamation thereof.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 3 & 4 Vict. c. 108, it was enacted, that the boundaries of the several boroughs named in Schedule (A.) to that Act annexed should, for the purposes of that Act, be taken to be according to the description of such boundaries set forth in Schedule (C.) to that Act annexed; and by 3 & 4 Vict. c. 109, it was enacted, that for the purposes of the said first-recited and of that Act all places locally situate or included within the boundaries of any of the boroughs of Cork, Dublin, Kilkenny, Limerick, Waterford, and Drogheda, as defined under the said first-recited Act, should, from and after the time when the said Act secondly above mentioned should come into operation, be deemed and taken to be part or parts of the county of the city or county of the town of such borough respectively, and of no other county; and every portion, place, or precinct of every county of a city or county of a town, not under the said Acts included within any such borough, should, until provision in that behalf should be otherwise made under and by virtue of the said last-mentioned Act, be one barony in itself, and should, for all purposes of grand jury presentments, and of criminal jurisdiction, and also of civil jurisdiction of the superior courts of common law in Dublin, be part of the county at large which was adjacent to it, or with which it had the largest common boundary: And that the said Act secondly above recited came into operation in some of the said boroughs after the Summer Assizes of the year of our Lord 1841: And that under the said recited Acts certain parts or portions only of the old liberties of some of the cities and towns therein mentioned, and certain parts of parishes and other denominations, are included within the boundaries of the counties of such cities or towns or boroughs as defined under the provisions of the said Acts; and other parts or portions of the liberties of the same cities or towns, and of such parishes and other denominations, not being within such boundaries, have, for the purposes of grand jury presentments, among others, become part of the adjoining counties; and difficulties have been found to exist in respect of the making presentments, and of assessing and applotting the public money, within the same respectively: And that contracts have been entered into by the grand juries of the same cities and towns, or some of them, for keeping in repair roads in the liberties thereof, some portions being within and other portions being without the boundaries of the said boroughs as defined under the said Acts; and doubts have arisen as to the manner in which monies to be presented by the grand juries of the counties of the same cities and towns, and of the adjoining counties respectively, in respect of such contracts, should be apportioned: and that the respective grand juries assembled at the assizes in the present year, holden for certain of the said counties of cities or counties of towns, made divers presentments for monies justly chargeable, in the whole or part, on the whole of such counties of cities or towns as existing previous to the coming into operation of the said Act, but the warrants of the respective treasurers of the counties of such cities or towns under such presentments would not extend to any part of the liberties or suburbs of any of the said cities or towns annexed under the provisions of the said Acts, or either of them, to an adjoining county, and it is expedient that provision should be made to remedy such difficulty:—

It is Enacted,

I. That all presentments made at the Spring or Summer Assizes in this present year in and for any county of a city or county of a town in Ireland in respect to which the Act secondly before recited came into operation after the Summer Assizes for the year 1841, together with such sum as might have been legally added thereto by the treasurer of such county of a city or town before the passing of the said recited Acts, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 108, and 3 & 4 Vict. c. 109, and which presentments have not been hitherto levied, shall and may be levied and raised off such county of a city or town, as the same is defined under the said recited Acts: Provided always, that if such presentments, or any of them, shall include any sum or sums of money, or portions of any sum or sums of money, not being money payable in advance, to which, if the said recited Acts had not been passed, any place or precinct, not being under the provisions of the said Act part of any such borough, would be liable to contribute, it shall and may be lawful to and for the senior Judge of Assize who shall have presided as such at the Summer Assizes of the present year for such county of a city or town, upon the application of the council of such borough, to direct the persons who shall have served on the respective grand juries of such county of a city or town, and of the adjoining county to which such place or precinct has, for the purposes and under the provisions of the said recited Acts or one of them, been annexed, at the Summer Assizes of the present year, to assemble, at such time and place as he shall direct, for the purpose of settling and agreeing upon the proportion of the sum or sums, not being money payable in advance, which ought to be paid and contributed in respect of such place or precinct; and the presentment or presentments so made at the last Spring and Summer Assizes shall be reduced by the amount of such contribution as may be so settled and agreed upon, and the residue only levied upon such county of a city or town as defined under the said Acts, and the warrant of the treasurer made out or amended accordingly; and such sum or sums so agreed upon to be raised off such place or precinct shall be inserted in the warrant of the treasurer for the county to which such place or precinct shall have been annexed, and levied off such precinct or place as if the same had been duly presented, and when raised shall be by him paid to the treasurer of the county of the city of which such place or precinct had been part; and any instrument under the hands of a majority of the persons who shall be so assembled, and attested by the secretaries of such grand juries respectively, shall be conclusive evidence of such agreement, and of the proportions settled thereby.

II. That in case the members of the said respective grand juries so assembled shall not agree respecting the amount or proportion of the said sum or sums which ought to be allowed, paid, or contributed in respect of such place or precinct, or concerning the instalments by which, or otherwise concerning the manner in which, the same ought to be allowed, paid, raised, levied, or apportioned, it shall be lawful for the said senior Judge of Assize who shall have presided as such at the Summer Assizes of the present year to appoint, by writing under his hand, a barrister, not having any interest in the question, to arbitrate between the parties, and by his award, under his hand and seal, to assess the amount and proportion, if any, of such sum or sums which ought to be allowed, paid, or contributed in respect of such place or precinct, and to determine the manner in which the said sum or sums ought to be apportioned between such borough and such precinct or place respectively; and such award shall be conclusive between the parties; and such arbitrator shall also assess the costs of the arbitration, and shall direct by whom, and in what proportion, and out of what fund, the same shall be paid; and the sum or sums awarded by such barrister to be paid in respect of such place or precinct shall be raised and levied there-off by the warrant of the treasurer of the county to which such place or precinct shall have been annexed, and, when levied, paid over by him to the treasurer of the county of the city of such borough.

III. That if any contract has been entered into by the grand jury of any such county of a city or town for making, widening, repairing, or keeping in repair the whole or any part of any public way or ways of the former liberties of such city or town, the grand jury of the county of such city or town shall from time to time present, to be raised off the county of such city or town, and to be paid unto the person or persons who shall be entitled to receive the same respectively, such portion of the monies appointed by such grand jury to be paid to the contractors in such contracts named respectively as ought to be paid in that behalf in respect of the portion of the public ways included within the boundaries of the county of the city or town as defined under the said recited Acts; and the grand jury of the adjoining county shall from time to time present, to be raised in like manner as grand jury cess off the portion of the said liberties not included within the boundaries of the county of the city of the said borough, such portion of the monies appointed to be paid to such contractors as ought to be paid in that behalf in respect of the portion of such public ways not included within the boundaries of such county of a city or town as defined under the said recited Acts; and where no part of the streets, ways, passages, or roads in respect of which such contracts shall have been entered into shall be included within the boundaries of the county of the city of the said borough, then the whole of the sums payable thereunder shall be presented by the grand jury of the adjoining county, to be raised in like manner as grand jury cess off the portion of the said liberties not being within the county of the city of the said borough; and in case of any breach in the performance of any such contracts, it shall and may be lawful to sue upon such contract, or proceed upon any recognizance conditioned for the performance thereof, or to make void such contract, as effectually as might or could have been done if the said Act for annexing certain parts of certain counties of cities to adjoining counties had not been passed.

IV. That at every assizes to be holden for any such county of a city or town in Ireland it shall and may be lawful to and for the grand jury of such county of a city or town to present all and every such sum and sums as might be lawfully presented pursuant to any Act in force in Ireland relating to grand jury presentments previous to the said Acts coming into operation within each such county of a city or town respectively: Provided always, that all and every such sum or sums when so presented, and all sums which might be or have been legally added thereto by the treasurer of such county of a city or town if the said recited Acts had not passed, and all sums duly presented at the last spring or Summer Assizes, and not heretofore levied, shall be assessed, apportioned, levied, and raised off such county of a city or town as the same is defined under the said recited Acts, without reference to previously existing exemptions or compositions for any particular parish, district, or other denomination.

And after reciting the passing of 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116: And that by the said last-mentioned Act provision is made for the choosing of applotters by the landholders and inhabitants of the manor, parish, or other denomination of land contained in the treasurer's warrant, for applotting the grand jury cess, to be levied thereon; and by the said Act it is enacted, that the persons so chosen shall, within thirty days from the time they shall be so chosen, applot the sum so to be levied on such manor, parish, or denomination, fairly and justly, according to the relative annual value of the several subdivisions of the lands and tenements therein contained, stating as accurately as they can the name of the occupier of each portion of such lands, and shall make oath before any Justice of the Peace for the county that they have made the said applotment justly, according to the best of their skill, without favour, affection, or malice, the jurat of which oath shall be indorsed on the applotment; and such applotters shall deliver such applotment, so verified upon oath, to the person empowered to collect such grand jury cess, under the penalty of forfeiting, for every day they shall omit to deliver the same after the said thirty days, the sum of 10s., to be recovered by civil bill by any person who shall sue for the same; and the collector, on receiving such full and sufficient applotment, is by the said Act required and authorized to levy the said money according thereto; and in case no full and sufficient applotment shall be returned within thirty-six days after the time fixed for the appointment of the applotters, it is by the said Act enacted, that then and in such case it shall be lawful for such collector to levy the full sum required by the treasurer's warrant off such manor, parish, or denomination, according to or in the like proportions as the sum levied under the last previous applotment of such manor, parish, or denomination, or according to the rate or applotment pursuant to which it was paid or levied: And that in some places it has happened that applotments have been made not in conformity with the said recited enactments, and difficulties have arisen in the collection of grand jury cess by reason thereof, and by reason of doubts entertained as to what is the last legal applotment according to which grand jury cess ought be collected, and by reason of informalities in proceedings for such applotment; and it is expedient to provide for determining without delay in what manner grand jury cess, and arrears thereof, shall be collected, where any such difficulties exist in any county of a city or county of a town:—

It is Enacted,

v. That it shall be lawful for any ten or more persons holding, occupying, or owning lands or tenements liable to grand jury cess in any county of a city or county of a town, or for the Attorney General of Ireland, if he should so think fit, to make application to the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland, or to any Judge thereof, whether in or out of term, informing the Court or Judge, by affidavits, that no applotters have been appointed in obedience to any warrant or notice issued by any treasurer or collector of grand jury cess, or that no applotment of such cess has been made by applotters appointed for that purpose, or that difficulties exist in, or that doubts exist respecting, the collection or proportions of grand jury cess, or respecting the liability thereto of any occupiers of land or tenements in any such county of a city or county of a town, or in any manor, parish, or denomination of land therein, by reason of defect in any applotment of grand jury cess, or by reason of doubts respecting the validity or fairness and justice of any such applotment, or by reason of some informality or defect in some proceeding in relation to any such applotment; and thereupon it shall be lawful for such Court or Judge to make an order, that such applotment, where any exists, and any other applotment, and any presentments, treasurers' warrants, notices, or other documents, shall be brought before such Court or Judge for inspection, at a time to be named in such order, and to direct such order to such person, and to direct the same to be served or published in such manner, as such Court or Judge shall deem fit, and, upon inspection of any such applotment, warrant, presentment, or other document, or upon such other evidence as shall appear satisfactory to such Court or Judge, to make such order as to such Court or Judge shall seem meet for making any such applotment, where none has been already made, or for quashing, confirming, or altering any applotment or any part thereof, and for directing a new applotment to be made of the whole or any portion thereof, by any two persons to be named in such order or any other order of such Court or Judge, or by two applotters for that purpose to be chosen at such time and in such manner as to such Court or Judge shall seem fit, and such Court or Judge shall make such order as he or they shall deem fit touching the proceedings of any such applotters, and the making of such applotment, and the manor, parish, or denomination of land, or manors, parishes, or denominations, whereon each such applotment is to be made, and all such other orders as such Court or Judge shall think necessary or effectual for the levy and payment of the sum or sums specified in any such warrant on and out of the respective subdivisions of land which would have been charged or chargeable therewith if a valid applotment had been made.

vi. That it shall be lawful for such Court or Judge, if they or he shall so deem fit, to order that the costs of any such application, or any portion thereof, shall be taxed, and that the amount of such costs, when taxed, shall be added to the sum to be apportioned under the order in that behalf of such Court or Judge, or shall be paid by the treasurer of the county of a city or county of a town in respect of which, or of any part of which, such application shall have been made, to such person and at such time as shall be specified in such order; and in case such costs shall be so directed to be paid by such treasurer, he shall pay the same as directed by such order, and the amount thereof shall be added to the sum to be inserted in the next treasurer's warrant to be levied off such county of a city, county of a town, manor, parish, or denomination, or such part thereof, as such Court or Judge shall order; and it shall also be lawful for such Court or Judge, in case they or he shall deem any such application, or the resistance thereto, to be made without just and reasonable cause, or to be in any part thereof vexatiously conducted, to order any costs of making or resisting such application, or any portion of such costs, to be paid by or to any owners, occupiers or holders of land who shall be parties making or resisting such application.

vii. Provided and enacted, That public notice, stating the objects and grounds of every such application, ten days before the making of the same, shall be posted at or near the court house in which the assizes for the county of a city or county of a town in respect of which, or any part of which, such application shall be made, are usually holden, and shall be once published in some newspaper circulating in such county of a city or county of a town; and it shall be lawful for any person owning, holding, or occupying any land or tenement liable to grand jury cess in such county of a city or county of a town to appear by himself, his counsel or agents, before such Court or Judge, and resist such application.

VIII. That the applotters appointed or chosen under or by virtue of this Act shall, within thirty days from the time when they shall be so appointed or chosen, or within such shorter time as shall be specified in any order of such Court or Judge, applot the sum or sums which in any and every treasurer's warrant specified in any such order shall have been inserted as the portion of grand jury cess which the manor, parish, or denomination was to pay; and such applotters shall so separately applot the same, fairly and justly, according to the relative annual value of the several subdivisions of the lands and tenements contained in such manor, parish, or denomination, stating, as accurately as they can, the name of the person who occupied each portion of such lands at the time when such warrant was issued, and of the person who shall occupy the same at the time of making such applotment, and shall make oath before some Justice of the Peace in and for the said county of a city and county of a town, that they have made the said applotment justly, according to the best of their skill, without favour, affection, or malice, and that the contents thereof are, as they believe, true, the jurat of which oath shall be indorsed on such applotment; and such applotters shall return such applotment, so verified upon oath, to such Court or Judge, or to the clerk of the rules of such Court, within thirty days after they shall be so chosen or appointed, or within such shorter time as shall be specified in such order; and such Court or Judge shall have such power to confirm, alter, or quash such applotment, and to order a new applotment, as is hereinbefore given in the case of any defective applotment.

IX. That in case the Court or Judge shall confirm or amend any applotment to be made under or in pursuance of any order made by virtue of this Act, it shall be lawful for such Court or Judge to direct the same to be delivered to the person empowered to collect grand jury cess, or arrears thereof, for or in such county of a city or county of a town, manor, parish, or denomination, or to such other person as such Court or Judge shall order, and the same shall be so delivered accordingly; and such person shall collect all arrears of grand jury cess remaining unpaid in respect of the county of a city, county of a town, manor, parish, or denomination of land for which such applotment shall have been made, according to the proportions specified in such applotment, giving credit for any sums paid on account of grand jury cess in respect of any subdivision of such lands, and shall pay the amount so collected to the treasurer of such county of a city or county of a town; and such grand jury cess, and all arrears thereof, shall be collected and levied accordingly by all the ways and means provided by the said recited Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4; and all the provisions thereof with reference to such collection, levy, or enforcement shall apply to such cess or arrears thereof (credit being given for such payments as aforesaid), and to such applotment, as if the same were hereby specially enacted, or as if such applotment had been in due time duly made under the said last-mentioned Act.

X. And after reciting that by 22 Geo. 3. c. 48, it is enacted, that no person shall insure or open any office for insuring houses, furniture, goods, wares, merchandizes, or other property, from loss by fire, in Great Britain, without first taking out a licence for that purpose from the Commissioners for managing the stamp duties, which licence it is enacted shall endure and have force for one year only; and it is thereby also enacted, that every person and body politic or corporate to whom any such licence shall be granted shall at the time of receiving such licence give security, by bond, to His Majesty, conditioned for making out and delivering the accounts of all monies received for duties granted by the said last-mentioned Act, and payment of the same, as therein mentioned: And that under and by virtue of 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 28, and 1 & 2 Vict. c. 61, any person from whom any security is required in respect of any matter relating to the revenues of the post office, land revenues, customs, excise, stamps, or taxes is enabled, in lieu of giving such security by bond, to give the same by transfer of stock or deposit of Exchequer bills, as therein mentioned: And that the giving of security every year by persons insuring property from loss or damage by fire, on taking out a licence for that purpose, is attended with great inconvenience, and it is expedient to provide a remedy for the same:—

It is Enacted,

XX. That every licence which shall be hereafter granted for insuring houses, furniture, goods, wares, merchandizes, or other property from loss by fire, under the said Act, 22 Geo. 3. c. 48, shall endure and remain in force from the day of the date thereof for and during all such time as the body politic or corporate to which the same shall be granted, or the persons therein named, or any of them, shall continue to insure or carry on the business of fire insurance, or, in the case of a company not incorporate, so long as the persons named in the licence shall be members or partners or a member or partner of the company named or described in such licence, and as and for the whole of which the same shall have been granted, anything in any of the said recited Acts or in any other Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that every person and body politic or corporate, to whom any such licence as aforesaid shall be granted, shall give security, by bond, to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in such sum as the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall think proper, with sufficient sureties to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, or by transfer of stock or deposit of Exchequer bills, in pursuance of the said recited Acts in that behalf, for duly and faithfully keeping, making out, signing, and delivering, in the manner required by any Act of Parliament relating thereto, all and every the accounts by any such Act required to be kept, made out, signed, and delivered by persons and bodies politic or corporate to whom licence is granted for insuring houses, furniture, goods, wares, merchandizes, or other property from loss by fire, and for duly and faithfully paying, as required by any such Act, to the Receiver General of Stamps and Taxes, or to such other person as the said Commissioners may require, for the use of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, the duties which shall appear to be due on such accounts respectively, and for truly and faithfully observing and performing all the directions, matters, and things contained in the said Acts on the part of such licensed person or body politic or corporate to be observed and performed; and every such security to be given under any of the said Acts, whether by bond or transfer, or deposit of stock or Exchequer bills, and in the case of any such transfer or deposit in or into whose name or names soever, together with the name of the chairman of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes for the time being, the stock or Exchequer bills shall be, or be transferred or deposited, shall continue and be a security for the due performance of all things required as aforesaid, not only during all such time as the licence to which the same shall relate shall be in force, but during all such time as the body politic or corporate, or the company not incorporate named or described in such licence, shall insure any such property from loss by fire, or shall carry on the business of such insurance, whether any such licence shall be in force or not, or otherwise according to the conditions of any such bond, or the terms or conditions of any declaration relating to any such stock or Exchequer bills; and such stock or Exchequer bills may, when the security for which the same was or were transferred or deposited shall be no longer necessary, be transferred or delivered up to any of the persons who for the time being shall be a partner or member or partners or members of the company for or on whose behalf the same was or were transferred or deposited, or otherwise according to the terms, if any, in that behalf mentioned and contained in any such declaration, as the said chairman for the time being shall think proper: Provided always, that every such security shall be renewed from time to time, as often as any such bond shall become forfeited, or any of the parties thereto shall die or become bankrupt or insolvent, or reside in parts beyond the seas, and also as often as the said Commissioners shall think fit, and in such amount as they or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct, whether the same shall be by bond or transfer or deposit as aforesaid; and in the event of any neglect or refusal to renew the same when required by this Act or by the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, it shall be lawful for the said last-mentioned Commissioners to revoke the licence which shall have been granted to the body politic or corporate, or company, or persons neglecting or refusing to renew such security to insure property from loss by fire, and thenceforth such licence shall cease and determine.

XXI. That it shall not be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or any of their officers, to stamp or mark any vellum, parchment, or paper upon which any bill of lading, or any charter-party, or any agreement, contract, memorandum, letter, or other writing by this Act chargeable with any duty as a charter-party, shall be engrossed, written, or printed, under any pretence whatever, after the same shall be executed or signed by any party, except as herein is provided; and if any person shall make or sign any bill of lading which shall be engrossed, printed, or written, or partly engrossed or written and partly printed, upon vellum, parchment, or paper not duly stamped according to law, every such person shall forfeit the sum of 50*l*.: Provided always, that if any charter-party, or any such agreement, contract, memorandum, letter, or writing chargeable with any duty as a charter-party, shall be brought to the head office of the said Commissioners, or to any of their proper officers, to be stamped, within fourteen days after the same shall bear date, and shall have been executed or signed by the party thereto who shall have first executed or signed the same, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to cause the same to be stamped, upon payment of the duty chargeable thereon, without any penalty; and if the same shall be brought to the said head office to be stamped at any time after the expiration of such fourteen days and within one calendar month after the same shall bear date, and shall have been first executed or signed as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to cause the same to be stamped upon payment of the duty chargeable thereon, and of the further sum of 10*l.* by way of penalty.

And after reciting that before any person is admitted to the degree of a barrister-at-law in England he is required to be admitted a member of one of the inns of court in England, as well as a student into the Society of King's Inns in Dublin, and it is expedient to relieve all such persons from the duty payable on such admission in England:—

It is Enacted,

XXII. That where any person shall be admitted a member of any of the inns of court in England, and also a student into the Society of King's Inns in Dublin, and shall have paid the stamp duties chargeable on both such admissions, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes to repay to such person the amount of the duty on such admission in England, after deducting the usual discount allowed on the purchase of stamps in England, provided application shall be made for that purpose within six calendar months after the last admission; and proof of both such admissions, and the payment of the duties thereon, shall be made to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, who shall be at liberty to make such regulations relating thereto as they shall think proper.

It is Enacted,

XXIII. That where it shall be proved by oath and proper vouchers, to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, that an executor or administrator hath paid debts due and owing from the deceased, and payable by law out of his or her personal or moveable estate, to such an amount as, being deducted from the amount or value of the estate and effects of the deceased for or in respect of which a probate or letters of administration shall have been granted in England after the 31st of August 1815, or which shall be included in any inventory duly exhibited and recorded after that day in a commissary court in Scotland, shall reduce the same to a sum which, if it had been the whole gross amount or value of such estate or effects, would have occasioned a less stamp duty to be paid on such probate or letters of administration or inventory than shall have been actually paid thereon, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes and they are hereby required to return the difference, provided the same shall be claimed within three years after the date of such probate or letters of administration, or the recording of such inventory as aforesaid; but where by reason of any proceeding at law or in equity, the debts due from the deceased shall not have been ascertained and paid, or the effects of the deceased shall not have been recovered and made available, and in consequence thereof the executor or administrator shall be prevented from claiming such return of duty as aforesaid within the said term of three years, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes to allow such further time for making the claim as may appear to them to be reasonable under the circumstances of the case.

XXIV. That all pecuniary penalties imposed by or which may be incurred under this Act may be sued or prosecuted for and recovered by the same ways and means, and in the same manner and form, and be mitigated and applied as any other penalty incurred under any Act relating to the stamp duties may be sued for, prosecuted, and recovered, mitigated and applied; and that all the powers, provisions, regulations, forfeitures, pains, and penalties contained in or imposed by any Act or Acts in force with relation to any of the duties under the management of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, so far as the same are or may be applicable in cases not by this Act expressly provided for, and so far as the same shall not be superseded by, and as the same shall be consistent with, the express provisions of this Act, shall be of full force and effect with respect to the duties by this Act granted, and to the matters and things charged or chargeable therewith, in respect of which duty is hereby granted, and shall be applied and put in execution for recovering, securing, and collecting the said duties hereby granted, and for preventing, detecting, and punishing all frauds, forgeries, and other offences relating thereto, as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if such powers, provisions, regulations, forfeitures, pains, and penalties had been repeated and specially enacted in this Act with reference to the duties by this Act granted and made payable.

XXV. That wherever in this Act, with reference to any person, matter, or thing, any word or words is or are used importing the singular number or the masculine gender only, yet such word or words shall be understood to include several persons as well as one person, females as well as males, bodies politic or corporate as well as individuals, and several matters or things as well as one matter or thing, unless it be otherwise specially provided, or there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction.

And after reciting that the penalties payable on stamping deeds and instruments chargeable with stamp duty in Ireland are in many cases of greater amount than such as are payable in England in cases of the like kind, and it is expedient that they should be of equal amount in all cases:—

It is Enacted,

xii. That in every case where a penalty is now by law payable in Ireland on stamping any deed or instrument of any description, such penalty shall, from and after the commencement of this Act, be in amount the same as any penalty or penalties by law payable in England on stamping any deed or instrument of the like description, in lieu and instead of the penalty or penalties in that behalf now payable in Ireland; anything hereinbefore or in any other Act contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding.

xiii. That all bonds and securities made or given by any officer or other person whatever before the passing of this Act, for the duly accounting for or paying any duty or duties by this Act repealed, or any composition in lieu thereof by this Act also repealed, or otherwise relating thereto respectively, shall remain and continue in full force and effect for securing the due accounting for and payment of the duties and compositions of the same kind and description respectively by this Act granted or imposed in lieu of the duties and compositions hereby repealed, and mentioned or referred to in such bonds or securities respectively, as well as any of such last-mentioned duties and compositions in respect whereof such bonds and securities shall have been made or given, which shall have accrued or been received, or shall hereafter accrue or be received; and such bonds and securities respectively shall be deemed to have been made and given in relation to such new duties and compositions, as well as to the former duties and compositions: Provided nevertheless, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or their proper officer, at any time, if they or he shall think proper, and from time to time as often as they or he shall think fit, to require any person who may have given any such bond or security to make and execute or give a fresh bond or security of the like kind or description in respect of the duties or compositions by this Act granted, under the like pains, penalties, forfeitures, and disabilities for any refusal to make and execute or give such fresh bond or security as are contained in any Act under or by virtue of or in compliance with which any such former bond or security may have been given.

xv. That nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed or construed to revoke or annul any certificate or licence which, before the commencement of this Act, shall have been granted to any person to practise any profession, or to use or exercise any trade, business, occupation, or calling, but that every such certificate and licence respectively which shall be unexpired and in force at the time of the commencement of this Act shall remain and continue in full force and operation until the expiration thereof by effluxion of time; anything in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

xv. That every person who shall act as a notary public in Ireland shall annually, before he shall so act, deliver or cause to be delivered to the proper officer at the Stamp Office in Dublin a paper or note in writing containing the name and usual place of residence of such person, and stating whether he has been admitted or enrolled, or authorized to act or has acted, as a notary public three years or not; and thereupon, and upon payment of the duty which shall then be by law imposed upon him in respect of such certificate as is herein mentioned, according to the place of his residence, and the time he shall have been admitted or enrolled, or authorized to act or has acted, as a notary public, as stated in such paper or note, every such person shall be entitled to a certificate, duly stamped, to denote the payment of the said duty by him, describing him in such certificate according to the description contained in the said note so given in by him, which certificate the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or their proper officer, shall cause to be forthwith issued under the hand of such officer, in such manner and form as the said Commissioners shall devise; and every such certificate shall bear date on the day on which the same shall be issued, and shall be in force from such day until the 25th of March next following; and if any person required by this Act to obtain such annual certificate as aforesaid shall, after the 25th of March 1843, act as a notary public, or do or perform any notarial act whatever, without having obtained and having such certificate then in force, he shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 50*l*., and be incapable of maintaining any action or suit in any court of law or equity for the recovery of any fee, reward, or disbursement on account of any business done by him as a notary public without having such certificate.

xvi. That if any notary public, or any attorney, solicitor, proctor, agent, or procurator, or any sworn clerk, clerk in court, or other clerk or officer required by law to take out an annual certificate, shall deliver in, or cause to be delivered in, to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or to their officer, at the Stamp Office in Dublin, any paper or note in writing containing a place of residence as the place of his residence, contrary to the directions of this Act, or any other Act requiring the same, or which shall not be the true place of his residence within the intent and meaning of this Act, or containing any statement, matter, or thing which shall not be true, with intent to evade the payment of the higher duty by this Act granted on certificates to be taken out by attorneys and others, every such person shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 50*l*.: Provided always, that, to prevent evasion of such higher duties, if any person required to obtain any such certificate shall ordinarily carry on his business within the city of Dublin, or within the distance of three miles therefrom, or shall, for the space of forty days or more in any one year, reside within the limits aforesaid, every such person shall be deemed to be resident within such limits within the true intent and meaning of this Act, and shall be liable to the higher duties hereby imposed on such certificates, notwithstanding he may at other times in such year reside elsewhere without the limits aforesaid; and provided that any certificate taken out by any person as aforesaid chargeable with or upon payment of a lower duty than is hereby required or ought to be paid shall not be deemed to be a certificate within the meaning of this or any other Act, but the same shall be null and void.

xvii. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or for any person duly authorized by them for that purpose, upon payment of the duty by this Act imposed in respect thereof, to grant licence to any person to use or exercise the trade or business of a pawnbroker in any city, town, or place in Ireland, or the calling or occupation of an appraiser in Ireland; and it shall not be lawful for any person whatever, from and after the commencement of this Act, to use or exercise the trade or business of a pawnbroker, or the calling or occupation of an appraiser in Ireland, without having a licence in force authorizing him so to do, within the intent and meaning of this Act; and every such licence which shall be granted at any time after the 31st of July and before the 1st of September in the present or any subsequent year shall be dated on the 1st of August in the year in which the same shall be granted; and every such licence which shall be granted at any other time than last aforesaid shall be dated on the day on which the same shall be actually granted; and every such licence, whatever may be the date thereof, shall have effect and be in force from the day of the date thereof until and upon the 31st of July then next following, and shall then cease and determine; and if any person, not having a licence in force so to do granted under this Act, shall receive or take by way of pawn, pledge, or exchange any goods or chattels for the repayment of money lent thereon in Ireland, he shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 50*l*.; and all persons in Ireland who shall receive or take by way of pawn, pledge, or exchange any goods or chattels for the repayment of money lent thereon shall respectively be deemed pawnbrokers within the meaning of this Act, and shall take out a licence for the same accordingly: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to any person who shall lend money upon pawn at any rate of interest not exceeding 5*l*. per cent. per annum interest, without taking any further or greater profit for the loan or forbearance of such money lent on any pretence whatever.

xviii. That no pawnbroker or other person receiving or taking by way of pawn, pledge, or exchange, any goods or chattels for the repayment of money lent thereon, licensed by authority of this Act, shall by virtue of one licence keep more than one house, shop, or other place for taking in goods or chattels to pawn; but for each and every house, shop, or other place which any person shall keep for the purpose aforesaid, a separate and distinct licence shall be taken out and paid for by such pawnbroker or other person: Provided always, that persons in partnership, and carrying on the trade and business of a pawnbroker in one house, shop, or tenement only, shall not be obliged to take out more than one licence in any one year for the carrying on of such trade or business.

And after reciting that by 46 Geo. 3. c. 43, certain stamp duties in Great Britain were granted for and upon every skin or piece of vellum or parchment, or sheet or piece of paper, upon which any valuation or appraisement or the amount of any valuation or appraisement therein mentioned, should be written or set down, and whereon any licence of any appraiser should be written, and provisions were contained therein for securing such duties; and it is necessary that the like provisions should be made for securing the duties by this Act granted in respect of appraisements or valuations and of licences to appraisers:—

It is Enacted,

xix. That all the powers, provisions, clauses, regulations, and directions, fines, forfeitures, pains and penalties, contained in and imposed by the said last-mentioned Act relating to valuations or appraisements and licences to appraisers in Great Britain, and to the duties thereon respectively, and to appraisers in Great Britain, shall be of full force and effect with respect to appraisements or valuations and licences to appraisers in Ireland, and to the duties thereon respectively by this Act granted, and to the vellum, parchment, and paper charged therewith, and to appraisers in Ireland, as far as the same are or shall be applicable, in all cases not otherwise provided for by this Act, or by any other Act the provisions whereof are hereby directed to be observed in relation to the duties by this Act granted, and shall be observed, applied, enforced, and put in execution for the raising, levying, collecting, and securing of the said duties on appraisements and on licences to appraisers in Ireland hereby granted and otherwise relating thereto, so far as the same shall not be superseded by and shall be consistent with the express provisions of this Act, as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if the same had been herein repeated and specially enacted with reference to such persons, duties, matters, and things in Ireland respectively.

And after reciting that the said Commissioners are authorized to grant licences to persons to deal in and retail stamps in Ireland, and also to persons to keep printing presses and types for printing in Ireland, all which licences are required to be taken out annually, and are chargeable with stamp duties: And that after the passing of this Act the said duties will cease and be no longer payable, and it is expedient that such licences hereafter to be granted should not be required to be renewed annually:—

It is Enacted,

xx. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, from and after the commencement of this Act, to grant licence to any person to deal in and retail stamps in Ireland, and also licence to any person to keep any printing presses and types for printing in Ireland, in the like manner and under the same terms, liabilities, conditions, and restrictions as they may now grant an annual licence for any such purpose as aforesaid; and every such licence so to be granted shall continue in force until the same shall be revoked and made void, or be surrendered or be determined by the death of the party to whom the same shall have been granted; and all the powers, provisions, clauses, regulations, and directions, forfeitures, pains, and penalties, contained in any Act or Acts of Parliament, and now in force, relating to any such annual licences as aforesaid, and to the persons to whom the same are granted or authorized to be granted, shall be deemed to relate and shall relate to the licences to be hereafter granted respectively, and to the persons to whom the same shall be granted, and shall be observed, applied, enforced, and put in execution accordingly, as if such powers, provisions, clauses, regulations, directions, forfeitures, pains, and penalties had been herein repeated and specially enacted with reference to such licences and persons respectively: provided that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, by notice in writing, at any time to revoke, annul, and make void any such licence as aforesaid.

And after reciting that under 55 Geo. 3. c. 101, the duties which are now payable in Ireland to Her Majesty for and in respect of sea insurances are not denoted, as in Great Britain, by a stamped impression upon the policy or other instrument of insurance, but are paid in the first instance to the underwriters or their agents, and are accounted for by them to Her Majesty at stated periods in each year: And that it is expedient to alter the mode of denoting and collecting such duties, and in lieu thereof to provide as hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

xxi. That so much of the said last recited Act as relates to the duties upon sea insurances, and to the collecting and accounting for the same, shall be and the same is hereby repealed, save as to such of the said duties as may be then due or unpaid, all which shall be recoverable by the same ways and means, and with such and the same penalties, as if this Act had not been made.

xxii. That the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes for the time being shall, out of the monies arising from the duties under their care and management, from time to time provide sufficient quantities of vellum, parchment, or paper adapted for policies of sea insurance, and shall cause to be printed thereon respectively the several forms for blank policies of insurance commonly used, and such other forms as they may think proper, and the same so printed to be duly stamped for expressing or denoting the duties by this Act granted, in order that all Her Majesty's subjects may buy the said forms adapted for policies of insurance, respectively stamped with such rate of duty as they shall respectively require, of the officers or persons employed by the said Commissioners, at the price of the said duty marked thereon, without any charge for such vellum, parchment, or paper, or for printing the same; or, at their election, may bring to the head office for stamps in Dublin any quantities of their own vellum, parchment, or paper, to be stamped as aforesaid, on payment of the duty payable thereon; and the said officers or persons employed by the said Commissioners shall and they are hereby required to write or mark thereon the day, month, and year when any such printed vellum, parchment, or paper so stamped shall be delivered by them to be used as aforesaid; and if any officer or person employed by the said Commissioners shall wilfully neglect to do or perform any matter or thing hereinbefore required with relation to the said policies of sea insurances he shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*, and shall be liable to be dismissed from his office: Provided always, that the said Commissioners or officers as aforesaid shall not be required to provide, at the public charge, any vellum or parchment stamped as aforesaid, where the sum to be insured thereon shall not amount to 5,000*l.* or upwards.

xxiii. That every contract or agreement which shall be made or entered into for any insurance in respect whereof any duty is by this Act made payable shall be ingrossed, printed, or written, and shall be deemed and called a policy of insurance; and that the premium, or consideration in the nature of a premium, paid, given, or contracted for upon such insurance, and the particular risk or adventure insured against, together with the names of the subscribers and underwriters, and sums insured, shall be respectively expressed or specified in or upon such policy, and in default thereof, every such insurance shall be null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

xxiv. That no policy of insurance upon any ship or upon any share or interest therein, shall be made for any certain term longer than twelve calendar months, and every policy which shall be made for any longer term shall be null and void to all intents and purposes.

xxv. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prohibit the making of any alteration which may lawfully be made in the terms or conditions of any policy of insurance duly stamped as aforesaid, after the same shall have been underwritten, or to require any additional stamp duty by reason of such alteration, so that such alteration be made before notice of the determination of the risk originally insured, and the premium or consideration originally paid or contracted for shall exceed the rate of 10s. per centum on the sum insured, and so that the thing insured shall remain the property of the same person, and so that such alteration shall not prolong the term insured beyond the period allowed by this Act, and so that no additional or further sum shall be insured by reason or means of such alteration.

xxvi. That no insurance made or entered into in Ireland, in respect whereof any duty is by this Act made payable, nor any contract or agreement for such insurance as aforesaid, shall be pleaded or given in evidence in any court, or admitted in any court to be good, useful, or available in law or equity, unless the vellum, parchment, or paper on which such insurance shall be ingrossed, printed, or written, shall be duly stamped, as by this Act is directed, to denote the amount of duty chargeable thereon, or some higher amount of duty; and it shall not be lawful for the said Commissioners, or any of their officers, to stamp any vellum, parchment, or paper with any stamp by this Act directed to be used for denoting the said duty on sea insurances at any time after any such insurance as aforesaid, or contract for such insurance, shall be ingrossed, printed, or written thereon, under any pretence whatever: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners or any of their officers, whenever they shall be thereto required, to stamp with any additional stamp any vellum, parchment, or paper which may have been previously stamped, upon which any policy of insurance, commonly called a mutual insurance, may have been ingrossed, printed, or written, whereby divers persons insure or agree to insure one another, without any premium or pecuniary consideration, from any loss, damage, or misfortune that may happen to any ship or vessel, or any goods, merchandize, or other property on board of any ship or vessel, or the freight of any ship or vessel, or any other interest in or relating to any ship or vessel, which may lawfully be insured, although such policy may have been previously signed or underwritten by any person or number of persons: Provided always, that at the time when any such additional stamp shall be required such policy shall not have been signed or underwritten to an amount exceeding the sum which the stamp previously impressed thereon will warrant.

xxvii. That every person who shall make or effect, or knowingly procure to be made or effected, any insurance on any ship or vessel, or on any goods, merchandize, or other property on board of any ship or vessel, or the freight of any ship or vessel, or any other interest in or relating to any ship or vessel, or shall give or pay, or agree to give or pay, or render himself liable to pay, any sum of money, premium, or consideration whatever in the nature of a premium, for or upon any such insurance, or shall enter into any contract or agreement whatever for any such insurance, unless the same insurance, contract or agreement respectively shall be ingrossed, printed, or written on vellum, parchment, or paper duly stamped for denoting the full and proper duty by law chargeable thereon, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l.*; and every broker, agent, scrivener, or other person negotiating or transacting any such insurance as is hereinbefore mentioned, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act, or ingrossing, writing, or printing, or causing to be ingrossed, written or printed, any agreement for any such insurance upon vellum, parchment, or paper, before the same vellum, parchment, or paper, whereon the same shall be ingrossed, written, or printed shall be so duly stamped as aforesaid, shall also for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l.*

xxviii. That it shall not be lawful for any broker, agent, scrivener, or other person, transacting, making, or negotiating any such insurance as aforesaid, to charge or set against his employer any sum of money for brokerage or agency, or for his pains or labour in transacting, making, or negotiating such insurance, or ingrossing, writing, or printing the same, or for any sum of money expended or paid by way of premium, or consideration in the nature of a premium, for such insurance, unless the same shall be ingrossed, written, or printed on vellum, parchment, or paper duly stamped according to the directions of this Act; and every sum of money paid by such employer on any such account to any broker, agent, scrivener, or other person aforesaid, transacting, making, or negotiating any insurance contrary to this Act, shall be deemed to be paid without consideration, and shall remain the property of such employer, or his executors, administrators, or assigns.

xxix. That if any person shall become an assurer upon, or shall subscribe or underwrite any such insurance as aforesaid, or shall receive a contract for any premium or consideration for any such insurance, or shall pay or allow in account, or agree to pay or allow in account, or otherwise, any sum of money upon any loss, peril, or contingency relating to any such insurance, unless such insurance shall be ingrossed, written, or printed upon vellum, parchment, or paper duly stamped as aforesaid, or if any person shall be concerned in any fraudulent contrivance or device with intent to evade the duties by law chargeable for in respect of any policy of insurance, every such person shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 600*l.*

And after reciting that by 54 Geo. 3. c. 133, certain provisions are made for allowing as spoiled or misused and cancelling the stamps on policies of sea insurance in Great Britain in certain cases, upon the terms and conditions therein mentioned, and it is expedient that the like provisions should be made in respect of the stamps on policies of sea insurance in Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

xxx. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes to allow as spoiled or misused and to cancel stamps on policies of sea insurance in Ireland, in the same cases and upon the same terms and conditions only as are mentioned and provided in the said last-mentioned Act in respect of policies of sea insurance in Great Britain; and for such purpose, and for the purpose of preventing frauds in relation thereto, all and every the powers, provisions, clauses, regulations, and directions, fines, forfeitures, pains, and penalties contained in the said last-mentioned Act, shall be of full force and effect with respect to the stamps on policies of sea insurance in Ireland, as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if the same had been therein repeated and specially inserted with reference to such last-mentioned stamps.

XXXI. That it shall be lawful for any banker who may by law issue promissory notes for money payable to the bearer on demand, and allowed by law to be re-issued, to re-issue any such promissory notes made after the commencement of this Act, and duly stamped with the duties by this Act granted, from time to time after payment thereof, as often as he shall think fit, without being liable to pay any further duty in respect thereof, all which promissory notes shall be good and valid, and as available in the law to all intents and purposes, as they were upon the first issuing thereof.

XXXII. That the duty (except the progressive duty) by this Act charged for and in respect of any bargain and sale or lease for a year shall, in every case where no such bargain and sale or lease shall be actually prepared and executed, be expressed and denoted upon the release in which any such bargain and sale or lease shall be mentioned or referred to; and no recital of any bargain and sale or lease for a year in or upon any deed of release, which shall bear date or be first executed by any party thereto after the commencement of this Act, shall be evidence of any such bargain and sale or lease for a year having been made or executed, unless and until such release shall be duly stamped or marked with the stamp or mark for expressing or denoting the duty hereby charged for and in respect of such bargain and sale or lease for a year (except the progressive duty), as well as with the duty or duties which such release may be otherwise chargeable with; anything in any Act or Acts to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by the said Act, 56 Geo. 3. c. 56. s. 99. it is enacted, that whenever any deed or instrument subject to any stamp duty shall be delivered for registry to the registrar or deputy registrar for registering deeds in Ireland, or for enrolment to any office of any of the superior courts in Dublin, or to any clerk of the peace or other person intrusted to enrol deeds in Ireland, such persons respectively shall examine such deed, and the stamp thereon; and if the same shall not be duly stamped such persons respectively shall not suffer the same to be registered or enrolled, under the penalty of 50*l.*: And that it is expedient to make other provision respecting the registry or enrolment of deeds or instruments which shall be subject to progressive duty under this Act:—

It is Enacted,

XXXIII. That before any deed or instrument subject to any stamp duty in Ireland under this Act shall be delivered to the registrar of deeds in Ireland, or either of the assistant registrars, for the purpose of being registered, or to any officer of the superior courts in Dublin, or to any clerk of the peace or other person intrusted to enrol deeds in Ireland, for the purpose of being enrolled, the attorney or other person who shall be employed to draw or prepare such deed or instrument, or, if there shall be no such attorney or other person so employed, then one of the parties to such deed or instrument, shall write upon some part of such deed or instrument, and sign a memorandum or certificate, that the words contained in such deed or instrument are less in number than a certain quantity therein specified, either in gross or in folios of seventy-two words each; and if such deed or instrument shall then be stamped with the proper progressive duty or duties to which the same may appear to be liable according to such memorandum or certificate, it shall be lawful for such registrar, assistant registrar, or officer, clerk of the peace, or other person, to suffer such deed or instrument to be registered or enrolled, notwithstanding the same may in fact contain a greater quantity of words than shall be specified in such memorandum or certificate; and such registrar, assistant registrar, officer, clerk of the peace, or other person, shall not be subject or liable to the said penalty of 50*l.* in respect thereof (provided such deed or instrument shall be duly stamped in other respects), anything in the said Act contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding; and if any attorney or other person shall write or sign any memorandum or certificate as aforesaid which shall specify any quantity of words which shall be less than the quantity of words contained in such deed or instrument, and in any schedule, receipt, or other matter put or endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, with intent to evade the payment of any duty to or with which such deed or instrument shall be liable, or charged or chargeable, he shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 50*l.*

XXXIV. That it shall not be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or any of their officers to stamp or mark any vellum, parchment, or paper upon which any bill of lading, or any charter-party, or any agreement, contract, memorandum, letter, or other writing by this Act chargeable with any duty as a charter-party, shall be ingrossed, written, or printed under any pretence whatever, after the same shall be executed or signed by any party, except as herein is provided; and if any person shall make or sign any bill of lading which shall be ingrossed, printed, or written, or partly ingrossed or written and partly printed, upon vellum, parchment, or paper not duly stamped according to law, every such person shall forfeit the sum of 50*l.*: Provided always, that if any charter-party, or any such agreement, contract, memorandum, letter, or other writing chargeable with any duty as a charter-party, shall be brought to the head office of the said Commissioners in England or Ireland, or to any of their proper officers, to be stamped within fourteen days after the same shall bear date, and shall have been executed or signed by the party thereto who shall have first executed or signed the same, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to cause the same to be stamped, upon payment of the duty chargeable thereon, without any penalty; and if the same shall be brought to the said head office to be stamped at any time after the expiration of such fourteen days, and within one calendar month after the same shall bear date, and shall have been first executed or signed as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to cause the same to be stamped, upon payment of the duty chargeable thereon, and of the further sum of 10*l.* by way of penalty.

And for better securing the duties on probates of wills and letters of administration by this Act granted,—

It is Enacted,

XXXV. That from and after the commencement of this Act if any person shall take possession of and in any manner administer any part of the personal estate and effects of any person deceased, without obtaining probate of the will or letters of administration of the estate and effects of the deceased within six calendar months after his decease, or within two calendar months after the termination of any suit or dispute respecting the will or the right to letters of administration, if there shall be any such, which shall not be ended within four calendar months after the death of the deceased, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*, and also a further sum at and after the rate of 10*l.* per centum on the amount of the stamp duty payable on the probate of the will or letters of administration of the estate and effects of the deceased.

XXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes and they are hereby required to provide a stamp, distinguishable from all other stamps, for the purpose of stamping any piece of vellum, parchment, or paper, whereon any probate of a will or letters of administration shall be ingrossed, printed, or written in relation to any estate in respect whereof any former probate or letters of administration shall have been taken out, and the full amount of the duties payable thereon by any Act or Acts then in force, according to the full value of such estate, shall have been duly paid and discharged; and in every case where any probate or letters of administration shall have been taken out, duly stamped according to the full value of the estate in respect whereof the same shall have been granted, then and in such case any further or other probate or letters of administration which shall be at any time thereafter applied for in respect of such estate shall and may be issued and granted upon any piece of vellum, parchment, or paper stamped with the stamp provided by the said Commissioners in pursuance of this Act, for such other probate or letters of administration as aforesaid; and every such other probate or letters of administration, which shall be duly stamped with such stamp as last aforesaid, shall be as available in the law, and of the like force and effect in all respects whatever, as if the vellum, parchment, or paper whereon the same shall be ingrossed, printed, or written had been duly stamped with the stamp denoting the full amount of the duties payable in respect of the probate or letters of administration taken out on the full value of such estate.

XXXVII. That the duties by this Act granted on legacies and on successions, and on residues and shares of residues, given by the wills or passing by the intestacies of persons deceased, and payable out of their personal estate, shall be accounted for, answered, and paid by the person having or taking the burden of the execution of the will or other testamentary instrument, or the administration of the personal estate of any person deceased, upon retainer for his own benefit, or for the benefit of any other person, of any legacy, or any part of any legacy, or of the residue of any personal estate, or any part of such residue, which he shall be entitled so to retain, either in his own right, or in the right or for the benefit of any other person, and also upon delivery, payment, or other satisfaction or discharge whatsoever of any legacy, or any part of any legacy, or of the residue of any personal estate, or any part of such residue, to which any other person shall be entitled; and in case any person, having or taking the burden of such execution or administration as aforesaid, shall retain for his own benefit, or for the benefit of any other person, any legacy, or any part of any legacy, or the residue of any personal estate, or any part of such residue, which such person shall be entitled so to retain, either in his own right or in the right or for the benefit of any other person, and upon which any duty shall be chargeable by virtue of this Act, not having first paid such duty, or shall deliver, pay, or otherwise howsoever satisfy or discharge any legacy, or any part of any legacy, or the residue of any personal estate, or any part thereof, to which any other person shall be entitled, and upon which any duty shall be chargeable by virtue of this Act, having received or deducted the duty so chargeable, then and in every such case the duty which shall be due and payable upon every such legacy, and part of legacy, and residue, and part of residue respectively, and which shall not have been duly paid and satisfied according to the provisions of this Act, shall be a debt of such person having or taking the burden of such execution or administration as aforesaid to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors; and in case any such person, so having or taking the burden of such execution or administration as aforesaid, shall deliver, pay, or otherwise howsoever satisfy or discharge any such legacy or residue, or any part of any such legacy or residue, to or for the benefit of any person entitled thereto, without having received or deducted the duty chargeable thereon (such duty not having been first duly paid, according to the provisions herein contained), then and in every such case such duty shall be a debt to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, both of the person who shall make such delivery, payment, satisfaction, or discharge, and of the person to whom the same shall be made; and that the duties by this Act granted upon legacies charged upon or made payable out of any real estate, or out of any monies to arise by the sale of any real estate, or upon residues, or parts or shares of residues, of any such monies, shall be accounted for, answered, and paid by the trustee to whom the real estate shall be devised out of which the legacy or share of any money arising out of the sale, mortgage, or other disposition of such real estate shall be to be paid or satisfied; or if there shall be no trustee, then by the person entitled to such real estate, subject to any such legacy, or by the person empowered or required to pay or satisfy any such legacy; and the said duties shall be retained by the person paying or satisfying any such legacy or share of money, and shall be accounted for, satisfied, and paid, at such times, in such manner, and according to such rules and regulations as are hereinbefore specified and prescribed in respect of the duties granted on legacies payable out of personal estate; and in case the said duties shall not be paid or satisfied according to the provisions herein contained, then and in every such case such duty shall be a debt to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, of and from the trustee of such real estate as aforesaid, or the person entitled thereto, subject to such legacy as aforesaid, and also of and from the person to whom the same shall have been paid, without the duty chargeable thereon having been first deducted.

XXXVIII. That every gift by any will or testamentary instrument of any deceased person, which by virtue of any such will, or testamentary instrument, shall have effect or be satisfied out of the personal estate of such person so dying, or out of any personal estate which such person shall have power to dispose of as he shall think fit, or which shall have been charged upon or made payable out of any real estate, or be directed to be satisfied out of any monies to arise by the sale of any real estate of the person so dying, or which such person may have the power to dispose of, whether the same shall be given by way of annuity or in any other form, shall be deemed and taken to be a legacy within the true intent and meaning of this Act; and every gift which shall have effect as a donation, mortis causa, shall also be deemed a legacy within the intent and meaning of this Act; and the value of any legacy given by way of annuity, whether payable annually or otherwise, for any life or lives, or for years or other period of time, shall be calculated, and the duty chargeable thereon shall be charged, according to the tables annexed to an Act, 36 Geo. 3. c. 52, intitled, 'An Act for repealing certain Duties on Legacies and Shares of Personal Estate, and for granting other Duties thereon, in certain Cases:' Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to the charging with the duties by this Act granted any specific sum of money, or any share or proportion thereof, charged by any marriage settlement or deed upon any real estate, in any case in which any such specific sum, or share or proportion thereof, shall be appointed or apportioned by any will or testamentary instrument under any power given for that purpose by any such marriage settlement or deed: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to charge with duty in Ireland any legacy given for the education or maintenance of poor children in Ireland, or to be applied in support of any charitable institution in Ireland, or for any purpose merely charitable.

XXXIX. That every receipt or discharge for any legacy or residue, or part thereof, shall be brought, within the space of twenty-one days after the date thereof, to the head office of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes in Dublin, or to some other office to be appointed by the said Commissioners for such purpose, to be stamped, paying the duty for the same; and upon such payment, either at the said head office, or any other office to be appointed as aforesaid, the Receiver General, or other proper officer to be appointed for that purpose by the said Commissioners, as the case shall require, shall write upon such receipt or discharge an acknowledgment of the payment of the duty so paid in words at length, and bearing date the day on which such payment shall be made, and shall subscribe his name thereto, and enter an account thereof in a book to be provided for that purpose, to the intent that he may be thereby charged with the sum so paid; and in case the duty shall be so paid at the said head office, then the receipt or discharge so brought to be stamped shall be forthwith stamped with such stamp as the case may require; and in case the duty shall be so paid at any other office to be appointed by the said Commissioners as aforesaid, the receipt or discharge whereon such acknowledgment of the payment of duty shall be so written and subscribed shall be transmitted, within the space of twenty-one days from the day of payment of such duty, to the said head office, to be stamped, and the same shall be stamped accordingly with such stamp as aforesaid; and in case the person paying such duty at any such office to be appointed as aforesaid shall be desirous that the same should be transmitted to the said head office by the officer to whom such duty shall be paid, and shall leave the same with such officer for that purpose, such officer shall thereupon sign and deliver an acknowledgment that such receipt or discharge has been left with him for such purpose, and shall transmit such receipt or discharge to such head office to be stamped as aforesaid, and the same shall be sent again to such officer as soon as conveniently may be after the stamping thereof; and such officer shall deliver back the same to the person entitled thereto, upon re-delivery to him of the acknowledgment which he shall have given for the same: Provided always, that if any such receipt or discharge shall not be so brought to any such office as aforesaid within such space of twenty-one days as aforesaid, it shall nevertheless be lawful to carry such receipt or discharge to the said head office, to be stamped in like manner, within three calendar months after the date thereof, paying the duty for the same, and also the further sum of 10*l*. per centum on such duty by way of penalty for not having before paid such duty; on payment of which duty and penalty the said Commissioners are hereby authorized and required to stamp such receipt or discharge in the same manner as if the same had been brought to the said office within the space of twenty-one days from the date thereof; and where any such receipt or discharge as aforesaid shall have been signed out of the United Kingdom, if the same shall be brought to be stamped within twenty-one days after being received in the United Kingdom, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to remit any penalty which may have been incurred thereon, and to cause the same to be duly stamped on payment of the duty payable in respect thereof.

XLII. That in all cases where no express provision is herein contained for the commencement of any of the clauses or provisions of this Act, the same shall commence and take effect on the 10th of October 1842.

XLIII. LXVII. That the treasurer of the said court shall allow and pay, out of the general fund of the said court, such reasonable sums as the Justices of the said county shall from time to time determine to be fit and proper for keeping and maintaining in prison the persons committed to prison under any such warrants as aforesaid.

LXVIII. That if it shall appear to the Judge of the said court, on application being made to him, that relief and maintenance are necessary for the support of any one or more of the prisoners who, from sickness, or some other cause, are then unable to maintain themselves, the Judge shall order the treasurer of the court to allow and pay out of the funds of the court to every such prisoner such sum of money, not exceeding 6*d.* per day, as shall appear to the Judge to be necessary for his relief.

LXIX. That no sale of any goods which shall be taken in execution as aforesaid shall take place until after the end of eight days at least next following the day on which such goods shall have been so taken, unless upon request in writing under the hand of the party whose goods shall have been taken, and, until such sale, the goods shall be deposited by the bailiff in some fit place, to be appointed by the clerk of the court; and it shall be lawful for the Judge from time to time, as he shall think proper, to appoint such and so many sworn brokers and appraisers for the purpose of selling or valuing any goods, chattels, or effects taken in execution under this Act, as shall appear to him to be necessary, and to direct security to be taken from each of them, for such sum and in such manner as he shall think fit, for the faithful performance of their duties without injury or oppression, and the Judge may dismiss any broker or appraiser so appointed.

is or are not to be found within the jurisdiction of the said court, but is or are believed by such officer to be within the county or place where such Justice acts, such Justice shall sign his name on the back of such warrant, and thereupon such bailiff shall have power to take the body or goods and chattels of such person (as the case may be) wheresoever the same shall be found within such county or place, and deal therewith in like manner as if the same had been taken within the jurisdiction of the said court; and all constables and other peace officers are hereby required to be aiding within their respective jurisdictions in the execution of the warrant so indorsed as aforesaid.

LXXVI. That the clerk of the said court shall cause a note of all complaints and summonses, and of all orders, and of all judgments and executions and returns thereto, and of all fines, and of all other proceedings of the court, to be fairly entered from time to time in a book which shall be kept at his office, and the clerk shall sign his name at the bottom of every page of such book; and entries so signed, or a copy thereof, purporting to be signed and certified as a true copy by the said clerk, shall at all times be admitted in all courts as evidence of such entries, and of the proceedings referred to by such entries, without further proof.

LXXVII. That the Justices of the said county in Quarter Sessions assembled shall from time to time make such rules as to them shall seem meet for securing the balances and other sums of money belonging to the suitors of the court, in the hands of any officers thereof, and for the due accounting for and application of all such balances and other sums of money, and also for keeping and auditing the accounts of the court, and shall direct such sums to be paid out of the general fund of the court for the expense of auditing such accounts, as to them shall seem proper.

LXXVIII. That the clerk of the court shall, in the month of January in each year, make out a correct list of all sums of money which shall have been paid into court, and which shall have remained unclaimed for the space of twelve calendar months before the making out of such list, specifying the names of the parties who paid such sums, and also the names of the parties for whom or on whose account the same were so paid into court, and such list shall be put up and remain in some conspicuous part of the court; and no person shall be entitled to claim any monies which may have remained in court unclaimed for the space of six years, but all such monies shall be applicable as part of the general fund of the court.

LXXIX. That the clerk and treasurer of the said court shall from time to time, as often as they respectively shall be required so to do by the Judge, deliver to him a full account in writing of the fees and monies received by them respectively under the authority of this Act, and a like account of all fines paid to the court under this Act, after deducting the reasonable expenses of levying the same, and any allowance which the Judge may have made out of any such fine in pursuance of the powers herein contained; and a like account of the monies paid into and received out of court by the defendants and plaintiffs under any orders or decrees of the court, or under any levy made under process of the court, and of the balance then remaining in court belonging to the plaintiffs or defendants in the said court.

LXXX. That the said clerk and treasurer shall also, on or before the 31st of January in every year, deliver into the office of the clerk of the peace of the said county a like account, verified by a declaration of the accuracy thereof, made before some Justice of the said county, of all such fees, fines, and monies as aforesaid, after making such deductions as aforesaid, which shall have been received or paid into court between the 1st of January and the 31st of December of the preceding year; and such last-mentioned account shall be laid before the Justices of the said county in Quarter Sessions assembled at the first sessions after the said 31st of January, and shall be examined by them; and in case it shall be found that the general fund is more than sufficient for defraying all charges upon it, or if the fees hereby given to the Judge, or the clerk or bailiffs of the court, shall appear to be more than sufficient, it shall be lawful for such Justices to lessen the amount of the sum of money to be paid for raising the said general fund, and the fees to be taken in the court, in such manner as to them shall seem fit; and it shall be lawful for the said Justices, in case such fund or fees, or any of them, shall be found to be insufficient for the respective purposes to which the same are applicable, again to increase such sums of money or fees, so that the said sums of money, or the scale of fees given in the Schedule to this Act, be not in any case exceeded.

LXXXI. LXXXII. That if any such penalties, forfeitures, and fines respectively shall not be paid forthwith upon conviction, it shall be lawful for such Justice to order the offender so convicted to be detained in safe custody until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless such offender shall give sufficient security, to the satisfaction of such Justice, for his appearance before him on such day as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of distress, such day not being more than eight days from the time of taking any such security, and which security such Justice is hereby empowered to take, by way of recognizance or otherwise, as to him shall seem fit.

LXXXIII. That if upon return of such warrant it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had thereupon, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justice, either by the confession of the offender or otherwise, that he hath not, within the jurisdiction of such Justice, sufficient goods and chattels whereon to levy all such penalties and forfeitures, costs and charges, such Justice may, at his discretion, without issuing any warrant of distress, commit the offender to the common gaol or house of correction of the county, riding, hundred, or place where such offender shall live or reside, there to remain for any time not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalties, forfeitures, and fines, and all reasonable charges attending the recovery thereof, shall be sooner paid and satisfied.

LXXXIV. That the monies arising from any such penalties, forfeitures, and fines as aforesaid, when paid and levied, shall (if not by this Act directed to be otherwise applied) be from time to time paid to the clerk of this court, and shall be applied in aid of the general fund thereof.

LXXXV. That in all cases in which by this Act any penalty or forfeiture is made recoverable before a Justice of the Peace, it shall be lawful for such Justice to summon before him the party complained against, and on such summons to hear and determine the matter of such complaint, and on proof of the offence to convict the offender, and to adjudge him to pay the penalty or forfeiture incurred, and to proceed to recover the same, although no information in writing shall have been exhibited before him; and all such proceedings by summons, without information in writing, shall be as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes as if an information in writing had been exhibited.

Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prejudice, make void, controul, diminish, or abrogate, or in any manner affect, the powers, duties, privileges, or authorities of the Swainmote or Swanmote Court of Her Majesty's Forest of Dean in the said hundred or county, or the court of Attachment Verderers or Forty-day Court, which hitherto hath or have been held in or for the said forest.

XCI. Provided and enacted, That at the expiration of six calendar months next after any general Act shall be passed, either in the present or any future session of Parliament, for the recovery of small debts, or for regulating the practice of the county courts of England, and the operation of which general Act shall be inconsistent with the powers given by this Act as to the said hundred of Saint Briavel's, everything in this Act which shall give to the said court hereby established, or the Judge thereof, any local or separate jurisdiction shall cease and determine; and no Judge or officer of the said court shall be deemed to be entitled to any compensation for the loss of his office by reason of the passing of such general Act; and it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order that the court hereby established shall, from a time to be mentioned in the order, be holden as for a district of the county court under such general Act; and it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, to assign the said hundred of Saint Briavel's as a district to such court, and from and after the time mentioned in the order such court shall be holden as a branch of the county court under such general Act in all respects as if it had originally been constituted under the provisions of such general Act: Provided always, that the clerks, bailiffs, and inferior officers who may be appointed to the said court established by this Act shall be the first clerks, bailiffs, and officers of the said court when holden as a branch of the county court under such general Act, and shall continue to execute their offices: Provided also, that all proceedings, acts, judgments, orders, or decrees to be made by order of any person holding the court by this Act established, and acting in execution of this Act, before the day herein appointed for the alteration of the constitution of the court by this Act established, and all acts, executions, distresses, imprisonments, penalties, proceedings, and forfeitures to be done, suffered, recovered, or executed in pursuance of such judgments, orders, and decrees, or any of them, shall be as valid to all intents and purposes as if the said court by this Act established had not been altered, and may be continued, executed, and enforced against all persons liable thereto by the Judge and his successors to be appointed under any such general Act for the district including the place or places in which such court may be holden, in the same manner as if such proceedings, acts, judgments, orders, and decrees respectively had been commenced, carried on, and made under the authority of such general Act.

XCII. That in case any such general Act as last aforesaid shall be passed, the Treasurer for the time being acting in the execution of this Act shall with all convenient speed after the passing thereof cause any messuages, lands, tenements, or hereditaments which may at that time be the property of the said court to be sold by public auction or private contract for the best price in money that can be reasonably gotten for the same; and the money arising from such sale, together with any money or securities for money, or other property of any description, then in the hands or under the controul of the said court or treasurer, shall be applied, under the direction of the said court, in paying and discharging all claims and demands to which such money or securities may be liable; and the surplus thereof shall, at or before the expiration of six calendar months from the passing of such Act, be paid or transferred to such persons and in such manner as by any such Act shall be directed; and in case any such messuages, lands, or hereditaments shall not have been sold within the said six calendar months, then the same shall at the expiration of that period cease to be the property of the said court, and shall belong to and absolutely vest in the persons who, under or by virtue of any such general Act as aforesaid, shall be entitled to the same, or to the proceeds arising from the sale thereof.

XCIII. Provided and enacted, That (except as regards the jurisdiction of Saint Briavel's court by this Act expressly abolished) nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to abrogate, make void, lessen, prejudice, or in any manner affect or impair any estate, right, title, liberty, privilege, franchise, royalty, jurisdiction, power, or authority or prerogative vested in or appertaining or belonging to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, her heirs or successors.

XCIV. That in this Act the following words and expressions shall have the several meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction; (that is to say,)

AN ACT for abolishing certain Offices on the Revenue Side of the Court of Exchequer in England, and for regulating the Office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer in that Court.

(5th August 1842.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Abolishing certain offices.—Saving rights to sworn and side clerks to practise as attorneys.
2. The Queen's Remembrancer to perform the duties heretofore performed by the first and second secondaries and sworn and side clerks of his office; subject to regulation by the orders of the Court.

4. Table of fees to be established.

7. Attornies of Queen's Bench, &c. to practise on revenue side of the Court of Exchequer.
8. Writs and other process to be made returnable without delay, when necessary or proper.
9. Certain revenue orders may be made by a single Judge.
10. This Act not to affect jurisdiction of the Court of Exchequer.
11. Act may be amended, &c. this session.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 Vict. c. 5, the jurisdiction of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer as a court of equity was transferred to the Court of Chancery, and provision is by the said Act made for compensating the secondaries, sworn clerks, side clerks, and other persons in the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer, in respect of their fees and emoluments of the equity business of the said Court of Exchequer; and by the same Act three of the said sworn clerks and two of the said side clerks were appointed to offices in the Court of Chancery, and they are now severally in the exercise of the functions of the same offices respectively: And that provision has been made by statutes now in force for compensating most of the said officers in respect of the other fees and emoluments of their said offices in the Exchequer, the duties of which may be more conveniently performed by Her Majesty's Remembrancer: and it is therefore expedient to abolish the offices hereinafter mentioned, and to provide for the performance of the duties of such offices:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the 1st of January 1843 the several offices or employments of first and second secondaries, of sworn and side clerks, of register, and of bagbearer, in the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer in the said court, shall be and the same are hereby abolished, and shall wholly cease and determine: Provided always, that this Act shall not abridge, lessen, or in anywise affect the right or privilege heretofore enjoyed or held by the said sworn and side clerks to practise as attorneys on the revenue side of the Court of Exchequer, in the same manner as other attorneys practise therein.

II. That from and after the said offices are abolished, all process and other proceedings, acts, matters, and things, usually issued, done, had, received, filed, recorded, or taken by the first and second secondaries, and sworn and side clerks, and register of the Queen's Remembrancer's Office, which shall be by law required or needful to be issued, done, had, received, filed, recorded, or taken, shall and may be issued, done, had, received, filed, recorded, and taken by Her Majesty's Remembrancer in the said Court of Exchequer, as fully and effectually, to all intents, constructions, and purposes, as the same might or could have been issued, done, had, received, filed, recorded, or taken by the said first and second secondaries, and sworn and side clerks, and register, before the passing of this Act; subject nevertheless to all such orders and directions as shall or may be made from time to time by the Lord Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court, for regulating the proceedings and practice of the remembrancer's office; and all records, books, papers, and documents, of and concerning the duties and business of the several offices hereby abolished, shall, on or before the said 1st of January 1843, be delivered by the said officers respectively into the custody of Her Majesty's Remembrancer, to be by him kept and preserved.

III. That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three or more of them, shall be and they are hereby authorized and empowered by their warrant to regulate the establishment of the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer; and the said Commissioners shall and they are hereby empowered to fix the salaries of the Remembrancer, and of his clerks and other persons whom it may be necessary in employ in the said office.

IV. That the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court of Exchequer shall and they are hereby required, before the 1st of January 1843, to settle and establish a table of the fees which in their judgment are proper to be demanded and taken in the said office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer, and such table of fees shall be recorded in the remembrancer's office, and shall be deemed to be the lawful fees to be thenceforth demanded and taken in the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer; and it shall be lawful for the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court of Exchequer to add to, reduce, alter, or amend the said table of fees whenever they may deem it necessary and proper so to do; and the fees so revised and altered shall in like manner be deemed and taken to be the lawful fees of the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer: Provided always, that no such fees shall be charged or be payable for any of the business transacted in the Queen's Remembrancer's office for and on behalf of the crown relating to any of the public departments of revenue or otherwise, except in cases where parties are required by law to pay the costs incurred by the crown upon any proceedings taken against them.

V. That Her Majesty's said Remembrancer shall cause all fees received in his office, and all disbursements made thereout for salaries and other necessary expenses, to be duly entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, distinguishing the fees received under their several heads, and the particulars and amount of every disbursement, and shall render a true and faithful account thereof to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in such form and with such particulars, and at such times, as the said Commissioners shall think fit to require and direct.

VI. That it shall be lawful for any officer or other person who may suffer loss through the operation or effect of this Act, within six calendar months from the passing of the same, to make a claim for compensation to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, and the said Commissioners shall investigate such claim by such means and in such manner as they may think necessary; and if such claim shall be established to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, they or any three of them are hereby authorized and empowered to award to the claimant, by warrant under their hands, such compensation as they shall, under all the circumstances of the case, think him entitled to, either by a gross sum or by way of annuity; and such compensation shall be issued and paid and payable out of and be charged and chargeable upon the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: Provided always, that a copy of every such award for compensation shall be laid before the Commons House of Parliament within fourteen days next after the date thereof, if Parliament shall be then assembled, and if Parliament shall not be assembled, then within fourteen days after the meeting of Parliament then next following.

VII. That all persons admitted or admissible to practise as attorneys in the Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, or Exchequer of Pleas shall be admissible in like manner as attorneys of the Court of Exchequer on the revenue side, and be allowed to practise there as such accordingly; and that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chief Baron and other Barons of the said court, and they are hereby required, by rule of court, to settle the amount of fees to be taken and received by attorneys practising on the revenue side of the said court, for the duties and services to be performed by them, and which fees, so settled, shall be allowed on the taxation of costs.

And after reciting that there is often inconvenient delay and great expense incurred in recovering debts to the crown, more particularly with respect to extents, by reason of the interval between the terms:—

It is Enacted,

VIII. That all or any commissions, extents, writs, or other process of whatever denomination to be hereafter issued from the office of Her Majesty's Remembrancer, in pursuance of this or any former or other Act or Acts, or according to the ancient usage or practice of the Court of Exchequer, may bear teste and be made returnable and be returned on any day certain in term or vacation to be named in such commission, extent, writ, or other process, and thereupon, and at the return of any such commission, extent, writ, or other process, the like rules may be given, and such other proceedings had, and such subsequent writs and process issued, at any time in vacation, as may be given, had, or issued in term, or at or before the seal day after term; and all such commissions, extents, writs, or other process, rules, and proceedings, shall be as valid and effectual as if the same had been tested and made returnable, or given, or had, or issued in term, according to the common law and course of the Exchequer: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to alter the time for filing any pleadings, or to authorize the entering up any judgment in vacation; and that where any person shall enter a claim to any goods seized under any extent, or returned as forfeited (which it shall be lawful to do in vacation), the further proceedings shall be only according to the ordinary practice and course of the court.

ix. That all such orders relating to revenue causes and matters of revenue as have heretofore been made at the sittings of the Court of Exchequer appointed and held after term may be made at any time by any single Judge out of court.

x. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prejudice or in anywise affect the power, jurisdiction or authority of the Lord Chief Baron and the other Barons of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer, or the ancient rights or privileges of Her Majesty's Remembrancer in the said Court, or the rights or privileges of any person appointed to be solicitor or attorney on behalf of Her Majesty under the orders and directions of the Commissioners of the Treasury, Customs, Excise, or Stamps, or under the orders and directions of any Commissioners or other persons or person having the management of any other branch of Her Majesty's revenue, save so far as the same may have been varied or altered by any Act or Acts now in force.

xi. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

It is Enacted,

I. That, notwithstanding anything in the said first-recited Act contained, any annual appointment of Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy hereafter made under the provisions of the said recited Acts or of this Act shall in each year be made on the 1st of August, or within ten days then next following, instead of on the 1st of September, or within ten days then next following: Provided always, that the appointment of Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy, to be made in the year 1842, shall be made on or before the 25th of August 1842, and that the appointment already made and now in force under the said recited Acts shall cease and determine on the 25th of August 1842, or on a new appointment being made under the provisions of the said recited Acts and this Act, whichever shall first happen.

It is Enacted,

V. That the Metropolitan Commissioners may, after two distinct and separate visits, instead of three visits, as therein provided, and at a meeting specially summoned at not less than one clear day's notice, instead of at four clear days' notice, so set at liberty any person detained without sufficient cause in any house licensed by them, or otherwise act under the circumstances as by the said first-recited Act is provided, but not otherwise: Provided nevertheless, that each of such visits shall be made by three at least of such Metropolitan Commissioners, two of whom at least shall be physicians or surgeons.

VI. That every clerk of the peace throughout England and Wales shall, some time in the month of August 1842, transmit to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners in London a list of the houses at that time licensed by the Justices of the Peace within his jurisdiction and also the number of patients for which every such house is licensed, and the name of the proprietor or resident superintendent of every such house, and the place or parish in which such house is locally situate.

VII. That in the month of August, or so soon as they shall be able so to do after their appointment in each year, the Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy shall meet, and divide England and Wales into districts, convenient for visiting, as herein provided, all houses then or within the then next twelve months licensed by Justices of the Peace for the reception of insane persons, as provided by the said recited Acts, subject, nevertheless, to subsequent alterations in such division as circumstances may render necessary; and that every house so licensed shall be visited by not less than two Metropolitan Commissioners, of whom at least one shall be a physician or surgeon, and one shall be a barrister commissioner, once at least in every six months, calculated as from the 1st of August in each year, and on such days, and at such reasonable hours of the day, and for such length of time, as they shall think fit, and also at such other times as the Metropolitan Commissioners shall by a resolution at any board direct; provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, or other the person or persons so interested as aforesaid, on application by the said board, setting forth the expediency of such alteration, to direct that all or any such houses shall be visited once only in twelve consecutive months; and such Metropolitan Commissioners, when visiting such house, shall and are hereby required and authorized to inspect every part of the premises included in the then licence for the same, and to see every patient then confined therein, and to inquire whether any patient is under restraint, and why; and also to inspect the certificate of admission of every patient who shall have been admitted into such house since the last visit of the Metropolitan Commissioners; and also to consider the observations made in the visitors' book for such house by the visitors appointed by the Justices of the Peace at Quarter Sessions, as provided by the said recited Acts, and to enter in such visitors' book a minute of the then condition of the house so visited, and of the patients therein, and the number of patients under restraint, with the reasons thereof, as stated, and such irregularity (if any) as may exist in any of such certificates as aforesaid, and also whether the suggestions (if any) of such visitors have or have not been attended to, and also to add any observations which they may deem proper as to any of the matters aforesaid, and also, if such visit be the first after granting a licence to the house so visited, to examine such licence, and, if the same be in conformity with the provisions required by the said recited Acts, to sign the same, but if it be informal to enter in such visitors' book in what respect such licence is informal.

VIII. That, with a view to the amelioration of the condition of insane persons, the Metropolitan Commissioners shall, when they are, under the provisions of the said recited Acts or this Act, visiting houses for the reception of insane persons, whether licensed by the Metropolitan Commissioners or by Justices of the Peace, inquire, and shall by their report in writing state as to every such house, whether there has been adopted, either in whole or in part, any system of non-coercion, and if so the particulars of such system, and by what means practised, and whether by medical treatment or otherwise, and what has been the result thereof.

IX. That with a like view such Metropolitan Commissioners as aforesaid shall, when so visiting such licensed houses, in like manner inquire into and state the classification or non-classification of patients in every such last-mentioned house; and the number of attendants in each class, and, so far as is practicable, the proportionate number of attendants before and since the adoption of the system of non-coercion, if such system shall have been adopted.

X. That with a like view such Metropolitan Commissioners as aforesaid shall, when so visiting such licensed houses, also in like manner inquire into and state the occupation and amusements of the patients in every such last-mentioned house, and whether the same be in-door or out-door occupations or amusements, and the effect of such occupations and amusements, both in-door and out-door respectively, on the condition, as well mental as bodily, of the patients.

XI. That with a like view such Metropolitan Commissioners as aforesaid shall, when so visiting such licensed houses, also in like manner inquire into and state the condition as well mental as bodily, of the pauper patients (if any) when first received into every such last-mentioned house, and whether the condition has been such as to prevent or impede the ultimate recovery, either mental or bodily, of such patients, and also as to the dietary of the pauper patients (if any) in every such house, and also shall make such other inquiries, and state in writing their report thereon, together with such observations as to every such house, and the patients therein, as to such commissioners shall seem meet.

XII. That the report so made as to each and every such licensed house as aforesaid shall be signed by the Commissioners so visiting such house, and shall be delivered to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, who shall enter the same in a book to be kept by him for that purpose.

XIII. That in every house licensed for the reception of insane persons, whether by the said Metropolitan Commissioners or the Justices, there shall be kept by the proprietor or resident superintendent, in addition to the visitors' book, as by the said recited Act provided, a book to be intitled the "Patients' Book;" and that the "Visitors' Book" and "Patients' Book" shall be produced to the Metropolitan Commissioners and to the visitors appointed under the said recited Acts at the visits of such persons, who shall severally make an entry therein respectively that the same have been produced to them, and shall in such patients' book insert such observations as they may think fit respecting the state of mind of any patient in such house.

XIV. That any proprietor or resident superintendent of any such house omitting at the visit of any such Metropolitan Commissioners or visitors, as the case may be, to produce and to shew to them such visitors' book and patients' book, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of 20*l.*, to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XVI. That the Metropolitan Commissioners being not less than two, of whom one shall be a physician or surgeon and one a barrister commissioner, may and they are hereby required, in case they shall doubt the propriety of the detention of any patient in a house licensed by the Justices of the Peace, make a special visit to such patient on such day and at such hour as they shall think fit; and if after two distinct and separate visits so made it shall appear to such Commissioners that such person is detained in such house without sufficient cause, such Commissioners may give such orders as to them shall seem meet for the discharge of such person at such time as the circumstances of the case may to them seem to justify: Provided always, that the order for discharge shall be signed by such Commissioners, and each of such special visits must be by the same Commissioners; and that it shall not be lawful for such Commissioners to order the discharge of any such person as aforesaid without having previously (if the medical superintendent of the house in which such person is confined shall have tendered himself for that purpose) examined such medical superintendent as to his opinion respecting the fitness of such person to be discharged; and that if the Commissioners shall, after so examining such medical superintendent, discharge such person, they shall, within forty-eight hours after making any order for such discharge, transmit to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners in London, to be by him kept and registered, any statement in writing furnished to them by such medical superintendent, and containing his reasons against the discharge of such person.

XVII. Provided and enacted, That not less than fourteen days shall intervene between the first and second of such visits, and that such Commissioners shall, previous to the second of such special visits, give notice thereof to the proprietor or resident superintendent of the house in which the patient intended to be visited is detained, a copy of which notice the said proprietor or superintendent is hereby required to forward to the clerk to the visitors of the said house, and also notice thereof (so far as is practicable) to the person by whose authority such patient was received into such house, or is then detained therein, such notice to such several parties to be by letter, signed by such Commissioners, and with their names indorsed on the outside or cover thereof, and sent by post, and to be put into the post fourteen days at least before the day in such notice specified as the day for such second visit; and the master of any post office into which any such letter shall be put shall and is hereby required to give to such Commissioners a receipt for the same in the form set out in the Schedule (A.) hereto annexed, and which receipt shall be prima facie evidence of such letter having been sent to the person to whom the same shall by such receipt appear to have been addressed.

XIX. Provided and enacted, That such power of liberation shall not extend to the case of any person who shall have been found idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind, under a commission issued for that purpose by the Lord Chancellor or other the person or persons intrusted, as in the said recited Act mentioned, nor to any insane person confined under any order or authority of Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department; but it shall and may be lawful for such Commissioners, if they shall think fit, to examine into the state of mind or condition of any such person, and to report their opinion in writing of the state of mind or condition of such person to the Lord Chancellor or other the person or persons intrusted as aforesaid, or to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, as the case may be.

XXII. That in every case in which any person shall, under the provisions of the said recited Acts, apply for the renewal or continuance of a licence, such person, if applying to the Metropolitan Commissioners, shall, with such application, transmit to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and if applying to the Justices of the Peace, shall, with such application, transmit to the clerk of the peace, and also at the same time transmit to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners in London a list, signed by the person so sending the same, of the number of patients then detained in such house, with the particulars of each patient, according to the form of Schedule (M.) to the first-recited Act annexed; and the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners shall regularly enter such returns in books to be kept for that purpose.

XXV. That a list of the names of all visitors appointed by the Justices of the Peace under the provisions of the said recited Acts shall within fourteen days from the date of their respective appointments, instead of within twenty-one days as required by the said said recited Acts, be forwarded by the clerk of the peace to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and be by him registered in a book to be kept for that purpose; and every clerk of the peace making default in that respect shall for every such default forfeit and pay, instead of the penalty of 5*l.*, as provided by the said firstly-recited Act, a penalty not exceeding 50*l.*, the same to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XXVI. That every proprietor or resident superintendent of any house licensed by the Justices of the Peace for the reception of insane persons shall, within three clear days after any entry shall have been made in either the visitors' book or the patients' book of such house, by the visitors or Commissioners, as the case may be, send a written copy of such entry to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, who shall enter the same in a book to be kept for that purpose; and every proprietor or resident superintendent omitting or neglecting to send such copy within such time shall for each such omission or neglect forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding 20*l.*, to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XXVIII. That every such notice shall be kept and filed by the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and the respective clerks of the peace; and that every proprietor or resident superintendent wilfully omitting to transmit such notice, whether of escape or of return, shall for every such omission forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XXIX. That it shall and may be lawful for the clerk of the peace, as a remuneration for his trouble in carrying into effect the provisions of the said recited Acts and of this Act, to receive and take, out of the monies of the county to which he is such clerk of the peace, such sum or sums as the Justices of the Peace assembled in General or Quarter Sessions shall for that purpose direct.

And after reciting that by 9 Geo. 4. c. 40, it was amongst other things enacted, that all asylums erected or established under the therein-recited Acts should in future be regulated under the directions of that Act: and that it is desirable with a view to the amelioration of the condition of insane persons, that inspection should be had and reports made of all asylums regulated under the provisions of the last-mentioned Act, and that competent persons should be appointed for that purpose:—

It is Enacted,

That two or more of the Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy, one of whom at least shall be a physician or surgeon, and one at least a barrister commissioner, shall, once in each year, on such day or days and at such reasonable hours of the day, and for such length of time as they shall think fit, visit each and every asylum regulated under the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act.

XXXI. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall, when so visiting such last-mentioned asylums, inquire, and shall by their report in writing state whether the provisions of the law have been carried out as to the construction of every such asylum, and as to its visitation and management, and also as to the regularity of the admissions and liberations of patients therein and therefrom.

XXXII. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall in like manner inquire and state whether any system of non-coercion, either in whole or in part, is in practice in every such asylum, and if so, the particulars of such system, and by what means practised, whether by medical treatment or otherwise, and what has been the result thereof.

XXXIII. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall also in like manner inquire into and state the classification or non-classification of patients in every such asylum, and the number of attendants on each class, and so far as is practicable, the proportionate number of attendants before and since the adoption of any system of non-coercion which may have been adopted in such house.

XXXIV. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall also in like manner inquire into and state the occupations and amusements of the patients in every such asylum, and whether the same be in-door or out-door occupations or amusements, and the effect of such occupations and amusements, both in-door and out-door respectively, on the condition, as well mental as bodily, of the patients.

XXXV. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall also in like manner inquire into and state the usual condition, as well mental as bodily, of the pauper patients when first received into every such asylum, and whether the condition has been such as to prevent or impede the ultimate recovery, either mental or bodily, of such patients, and also inquire into and state the dietary of the pauper patients in every such asylum; and such Commissioners shall also at such time make such other inquiries as to every such asylum as to them shall seem fit, and shall report thereon in writing, with such observations, as to every such asylum and the patients therein, as to such Commissioners shall seem meet.

XXXVI. That such Metropolitan Commissioners shall, when so visiting as aforesaid each asylum regulated under the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act, require to be produced to him a correct list, according to the form in Schedule (B.) annexed to this Act, of the number of patients in each asylum on the 1st of January in each year, the number admitted between such 1st of January in one year and the first day of the following year, and the number of patients discharged as cured or relieved, and the number discharged as not relieved, and the number who have died during the same period, and shall transmit such list to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners.

XXXVII. That the report so made and the list so drawn up as aforesaid, as to each and every asylum so regulated under the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act, shall be signed by the Commissioners visiting such asylum, and shall be delivered to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, who shall enter the same in a book to be kept by him for that purpose.

And after reciting that it may be desirable, with a view to such general amelioration as aforesaid, that inspection should also be had of the royal military and naval hospitals, and all other (if any) public asylums, other than the county asylums aforesaid, for the reception of insane persons, excepting the royal hospital of Bethlem, and that competent persons should be appointed for that purpose:—

It is Enacted,

XXXVIII. That the Lord Chancellor, or other the person or persons so intrusted as aforesaid, and Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, or either of them, if they or he shall think fit, may, by an instrument under their or his hand and seal, require the Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy to visit any such last-mentioned hospitals and asylums, excepting the royal hospital of Bethlem, and to report as to the state and condition thereof respectively, and the system of treatment therein adopted, in such manner as they or he shall think fit; and that thereupon two or more of the Metropolitan Commissioners, one of whom at least shall be a physician or surgeon, and one of whom at least shall be a barrister commissioner, shall have full power and authority to, and shall, at such time, and at such reasonable hours of the day, and for such length of time as they shall think fit, visit each and every such hospital and asylum, and report thereon, as so required.

XXXIX. That each and every Metropolitan Commissioner shall be allowed and paid his travelling and other expenses whilst employed in executing the duties of his office: Provided nevertheless, that only two Commissioners shall be allowed or paid their travelling or other expenses whilst employed in visiting or reporting as to any such licensed house, asylum, or hospital as aforesaid, situate beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan Commissioners before the passing of this Act, or in visiting or reporting as to any patients or patient in any such last-mentioned licensed house.

XL. That each and every Metropolitan Commissioner, being a physician, surgeon, or a barrister commissioner, shall be allowed and paid, exclusive of such his expenses as aforesaid, the sum of 1*l.* for every hour he shall be employed in executing the duties of his office of Commissioner, as to the houses, asylums, or hospitals situate within such local limits as aforesaid, and as to any patients or patient in any such houses or house.

XLI. That each and every Metropolitan Commissioner, being a physician, surgeon, or barrister commissioner, shall be allowed and paid, exclusive of such his expenses as aforesaid, a sum of five guineas a day for every day he shall be employed in executing the duties of his office of Commissioner, as to the houses, asylums, and hospitals situate beyond such local limits as aforesaid, and as to any patients or patient in any such houses or house: Provided always, that only two Commissioners shall be allowed or paid such sum of five guineas a day each whilst visiting or reporting as to any such house, asylum, or hospital as aforesaid situate beyond such local limits as aforesaid, or in visiting or reporting as to any patients or patient in such last-mentioned houses or house.

XLII. That the amount of such expenses and allowances as aforesaid shall, when the account thereof shall have been audited at a quarterly meeting of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and allowed and signed by three of such Commissioners, one of whom shall be a Commissioner other than a barrister commissioner, or physician or surgeon, be paid by the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners out of the same fund or funds as by the said recited Acts are provided concerning the payments and allowances of the Commissioners as therein provided.

XLIII. That the Metropolitan Commissioners shall have power and authority and are hereby required to do all such acts, matters, and things, by proceedings in the name of "The Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy," as may be requisite for putting in force the provisions of all the hereinbefore recited Acts and of this Act, or of any of them; and that the costs, charges, and expenses incurred by or under the authority of the Metropolitan Commissioners in such proceedings shall be paid by the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and included by him in his account of receipts and payments provided for by the said first-recited Act.

And for the better enabling the Commissioners to perform the duties hereby required:—

It is Enacted,

XLV. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, from time to time, as such Commissioners shall see occasion, to require by summons under their hand and seal, and according to the Form (N.) in the Schedule to the said first-recited Act, but altered so as to meet the circumstances of the case, any person to appear before such Commissioners at the place in such summons named, to testify the truth touching any matters relating to the execution of the powers given by the said recited Acts and this Act, or any of them, on oath or affirmation, which oath or affirmation such Commissioners are hereby empowered to administer; and every person to whom his reasonable expenses shall have been tendered, not appearing before such Commissioners pursuant to such summons, and not assigning some reasonable excuse for not appearing, or appearing pursuant to such summons, but refusing to be sworn or examined, and being thereof convicted before one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in or for the district or place at which such person shall have been by such summons required to appear and give evidence, upon information thereof upon oath before such Justice, shall for every such neglect or refusal forfeit and pay such sum of money, not exceeding 50*l.* nor less than 10*l.*, as such Justice shall think fit to order.

XLVI. That every penalty to which any person is by the provisions hereinbefore contained made liable (save and except any penalty for the neglect or refusal of any witness duly summoned by the Metropolitan Commissioners) shall and may be sued for and recovered in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster; and that it shall and may be lawful for the Judges or Judge of such court, in cases where, upon the consideration of the circumstances, they or he shall deem it expedient so to do, to reduce the amount to be thereby recovered to any sum not less than one-fourth of the amount of the penalty in which the party, according to the provisions herein contained, shall have been liable; and the sums so recovered shall be paid to the clerk of the Metropolitan Commissioners, and form part of the monies in his hands to be accounted for under the provisions of the said Acts. and this Act.

XLVII. That when any person shall be proceeded against, under the provisions of this and the said recited Acts, or of any or either of them, for a penalty for omitting to send a copy of any licence granted by the Justices of the Peace, or for omitting or neglecting to transmit a list, as required, of the number of patients detained in his house, with the particulars, according to Schedule (B.) hereto annexed, or for default in not forwarding any list of the names of visitors appointed by the Justices, or for omitting or neglecting to send a copy of any entry in any visitors' book or patients' book, or for omitting to transmit a notice of any escape or re-admission of any patient, and the person against whom such proceedings shall have been taken shall prove that the copy, or list, or notice, as the case may be, in respect of which such proceedings are taken, shall have been put into the post in due time, and properly addressed, such proof shall be a bar to all further proceedings in respect of such neglect, default, or omission, and no further or other proceedings shall be had thereon.

XLVIII. That the said recited Acts, and all the provisions and regulations therein contained, shall be and be considered as if repeated in this Act, and as forming part hereof, save and except so far as the same shall be repealed or altered hereby or inconsistent herewith.

XXIII. That any person seized of or entitled to any portion of the land proposed to be drained or improved by drainage, in possession as tenant in fee simple or in fee tail, general or special, or as tenant by curtesy, and also any person who shall be entitled under any will or settlement, or any other deed or instrument (except a grant or lease reserving rent, or an agreement in writing for such grant or lease), for his own life, or the life of any other person, or for years determinable on such life or lives, and also any person who shall be entitled under any lease granted by a bishop or any collegiate or ecclesiastical body, or under any lease granted by any person having immediate or derivative title from or under any bishop, or any collegiate or ecclesiastical body, which lease shall contain a toties quoties covenant of renewal, and also any person who shall be entitled under any grant, lease, or any other deed or assurance, for an estate in fee, or for a term of years absolute whereof forty years or more shall be unexpired, or for an estate or interest for any life or lives, renewable for ever, or for any term or terms of years, renewable for ever, whether such last-mentioned person shall be entitled to any such estate, term, or interest, either absolutely or as tenant in tail, or as quasi tenant in tail, or for his life, and also every feoffee or trustee of any such land, or of any such estate or interest therein as aforesaid, for charitable or other purposes, shall be deemed a proprietor of such land for the purposes of this Act; and in every case in which any person seised, possessed of, or entitled to any such land for any such estate or interest as aforesaid shall be an infant, feme covert, idiot, or lunatic, the guardian of such infant, the husband of such feme covert, and the committee of the estate of such idiot or lunatic, shall, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, be deemed a proprietor of such land for the purposes of this Act: Provided always, that no person shall be deemed a proprietor for the purposes of this Act for or by reason of any estate vested in him which shall have been created by way of mortgage, or for the purpose of securing the payment of any sum of money, but that the person who would be deemed a proprietor for the purposes of this Act if such estate by way of mortgage or for securing any money had not been created shall, notwithstanding such mortgage or security, be deemed such proprietor as aforesaid: Provided also, that where several persons shall have, in any land so proposed to be drained, such estates or interests as would otherwise entitle them under the provisions aforesaid to be so deemed proprietors, such of the said persons shall be deemed the proprietor, for the purposes of this Act, as shall be in actual occupation of the said land, or as shall have such estate or interest as aforesaid therein next in reversion or remainder to the estate or interest of the person in actual occupation.

XIV. That at any time before such meeting as last aforesaid, or at any period within such time as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the receiving of assents, and which time they are hereby authorized to limit and appoint, any person seised or possessed of any portion of the land proposed to be drained or improved, for any life or lives, or for any term of years determinable on any life or lives, or for any term of years absolute, whereof there shall be then seven years or more unexpired, who shall deposit with the said Commissioners such sum of money as to them shall seem sufficient for the payment of the sum with which such portion of land may become chargeable for or in respect of the costs and expenses of the works proposed to be executed, shall be deemed the proprietor of such land, and the person entitled to assent, for the purposes of this Act: Provided always, that in case several such persons shall desire to become assenting proprietors, and to make such deposit as shall be so required, preference shall be given to such of the said persons as shall be in actual occupation of the lands; and in case the person so in occupation shall not so desire, or shall not make such deposit, then the person who shall have the next estate or interest in such lands greater than that of such occupier or occupiers thereof, and shall so desire, and make such deposit, shall be preferred, and so on, that person (if there be more than one signifying such desire, and so making such deposit,) being always preferred who shall have, among such persons as last aforesaid, such estate or interest as aforesaid nearest in order to and greater than that of the occupier of such lands: Provided also, that in case any such person shall become such assenting proprietor the assent of no other person shall be taken into account in respect of such lands.

XV. Provided and enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for any feoffee or trustee for charitable or other purposes, and also for any guardian, husband, or committee of any infant, feme covert, or idiot, or lunatic, respectively, (on behalf of their respective infants, idiots, wives, or lunatics,) to apply, if they shall think fit, in a summary way, by petition to Her Majesty's Court of Chancery in Ireland, for leave to assent to the execution of any works proposed to be done under the provisions of this Act; and the said Court shall have power to inquire into the propriety of giving such assent, and to make such order on the petition, and as to the costs thereof, as to the Court shall seem meet; and if the Court shall authorize any such assent being given, then it shall be lawful for the person who shall have presented the petition to give such assent, and the same shall be as binding and effectual, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as if the person giving the same had been the actual proprietor of the lands in respect of which such assent shall be given.

XVI. That joint tenants, tenants in common, and coparceners jointly interested in any portion of land proposed to be drained or improved, shall, in respect of the land in which they are so interested, be accounted as one person: Provided always, that the concurrence of the person or persons interested in or possessing two thirds of the estate or interest in such portion of land shall be sufficient for the purpose of giving such assent as aforesaid.

XVII. Provided and enacted, That where any portion of land proposed to be drained or improved by drainage shall, at the time hereby appointed for the giving such assent as aforesaid, be in the actual occupation of any person, under any grant, lease, or agreement in writing for a lease, for a life or lives, or for a term of years whereof more than fourteen years shall be unexpired, the consent in writing of such person shall be necessary in order to give validity to the assent of the proprietor, in respect of the lands comprised in such grant, lease, or agreement, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

XVIII. That the assents and consents of proprietors or other persons required to be given in writing for any of the purposes of this Act may be given by the known agent or attorney of any such proprietor or person duly authorized for all or any of such purposes.

XIX. That in cases where, from the damming up of any river or stream by the weir, dam, or other work or obstruction of any mill or factory, occasional damage may arise by the overflowing of such river or stream, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to construct any reservoir, embankment, tunnel, or back drain, and to erect any floodgates, sluices, over-falls or other works, and to make any alterations in the dams, weirs, works, obstructions, or watercourses connected with such mills or factories, which shall be necessary to prevent the ill consequences of sudden or occasional floods in such river or stream, and to provide for the more safe and easy discharge of surplus water therefrom, but always so that the supply of water sufficient for securing the amount of working water power theretofore enjoyed by any such mill or factory shall not be thereby lessened; and the level of the water at which such amount of working water power shall be secured shall be previously inquired into and ascertained by the said Commissioners; and all persons interested in such mill or factory, or in any land to be drained as aforesaid, shall be at liberty to object to the level which shall be so ascertained, either at the meeting hereinbefore directed to be held, or at any meeting to be called by the said Commissioners for such purpose; and the said Commissioners shall hear and decide upon all such objections, and declare what such level shall be, and shall state the same in the declaration hereinafter directed to be made by the said Commissioners; and the said Commissioners, in case they shall so interfere with any such mill or factory, shall also cause a stone cill or gauge to be erected at some one floodgate, sluice, or other convenient position connected with such mill or factory, on which shall be marked, in clear and legible figures or letters, the due and proper level of water ascertained and declared as aforesaid.

XXX. That if any weir, dam, or other work or obstruction connected with any mill or factory shall cause the flooding of any lands included in any district in which this Act shall be brought into operation, situate near the stream or river flowing to or over such weir, dam, or other work or obstruction, so as thereby to injure such lands, or prevent their improvement, and if such flooding cannot, in the opinion of said Commissioners, be otherwise remedied or prevented, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, so far as shall be necessary for remedying or preventing such flooding and injury, or such impediment to the improvement of such lands as aforesaid, to alter any such dam, weir, work, or obstruction, or the position or level thereof, and to raise or lower or alter any water wheel or any machinery immediately attached thereto, and the levels of the head and fall of any water to such mill or factory: Provided always, that in all cases where any such raising, lowering, or alterations as aforesaid shall be effected, the amount of working water power of such mill or factory or water wheel shall not be in anywise lessened thereby, and that all such additional wheels, fittings, buildings, machinery, sluices, cuts, dams, gates, and all other such works and things as shall be suited to such raising, lowering, modification, and alteration respectively, or necessary or proper and sufficient for the due, convenient, and permanent working of such mill or factory, with such full amount of working water power, shall be made, provided, erected, fitted, and placed by such Commissioners in a workmanlike manner, and with proper and durable materials, and that such Commissioners and the trustees to be appointed as hereinafter mentioned shall (save as hereinafter provided) from time to time and at all times uphold, maintain, and keep in repair all such additional sluices, cuts, dams, gates, and other works as shall be so made, provided, erected, or placed, or as shall be necessary or proper and sufficient for the purposes aforesaid: and that the expense of so making, providing, erecting, fitting, placing, and (save as hereinafter provided) of maintaining, repairing, and upholding the same, shall be raised, levied, and defrayed out of the funds and rates which shall be provided or imposed in relation to any lands in such district under the provisions of this Act: Provided also, that nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed or construed to create or confer any right to any water in respect to any mill or factory to which the owner or occupier would not have been entitled if this Act had not been passed.

XXXI. That if any weir, dam, or other work or obstruction belonging to or connected with any mill or factory shall cause the flooding or prevent the draining of any lands included in any such district as aforesaid, so as thereby to injure such lands, or prevent their improvement, to an extent in value equivalent to or exceeding three times the then present value of such mill or factory, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, in case they shall not agree for the purchase of such mill or factory, weir, dam, and other work, to take the same, and to award compensation for value thereof, in like manner and subject to the like appeal as by this Act provided in reference to any land to be taken by the said Commissioners for the purpose of any works to be executed under this Act.

XXXII. Provided and enacted, That before the said Commissioners shall proceed to take any such mill or factory, and the works connected therewith, as aforesaid, or to effect any such constructions, erections, lowering, raising, or alteration as aforesaid, the said Commissioners shall insert in the declaration which they are hereinafter required to make such statement with respect to the several matters as aforesaid as hereinafter directed to be made in cases where any mill or factory is proposed to be interfered with.

XXXIII. That at or after the meeting hereinbefore directed to be convened by the said Commissioners, and if then, or within such period as shall have been limited and appointed by them as hereinbefore provided, the proprietors of two-thirds or more in extent of the land proposed to be drained or improved by drainage shall have assented in writing to the execution of the proposed works, the said Commissioners shall make and sign a declaration, describing the land proposed to be drained or improved, and declaring the then actual value thereof, and the estimated increase in such value by means of the proposed works, and the proportions with which such land shall be chargeable towards the costs of the proposed works, such proportions being fixed according to such actual value and such estimated increase as aforesaid, and also stating therein the names, additions, and residences of the proprietors who shall have assented to the execution of the proposed works, and the land belonging to them respectively, and in respect of which they shall have so assented; and in such declaration shall also be described the river (if any) the navigation whereof is proposed to be made or improved, and the baronies, half baronies, or townlands in the district likely to be benefited by the making or improvement thereof, and the proportions in which such baronies, half baronies, and townlands will be so benefited; and in all cases wherein any mill or factory, or any weir, dam, or other work or obstruction belonging to or connected with any mill or factory, shall cause flooding, so as thereby to injure or prevent the improvement of such land as aforesaid, it shall be stated in such declaration that such mill or factory, or such weir, dam, or other work or obstruction, as aforesaid, causes the flooding whereby such injury is produced or improvement prevented, and whether such injury or prevention of improvement be to an extent in value or exceeding three times the value of such mill or factory; and in case such injury or prevention of improvement be to an extent in value less than three times the value of such mill or factory, it shall be stated in such declaration whether, in the opinion of the Commissioners, the flooding of the said lands cannot be remedied without altering such dam, weir, work, or obstruction, or the position or level thereof, and also the amount of the actual working water power of such mill or factory, also the level of the water at which the amount of working water power theretofore enjoyed by such mill or factory can be secured; and such declaration shall be printed, and copies thereof deposited with the clerk of the peace, and (when it is proposed that any navigation shall be made or improved by such works) with the secretary of the grand jury, of each county in which the land or river, or any part thereof, proposed to be drained or improved by drainage is situate, and also in such convenient places as the said Commissioners shall think fit; and in all cases where it is proposed to interfere with any mill or factory, or any works or appurtenance thereof as aforesaid, the said Commissioners shall deliver or cause to be delivered to the owner or occupier of any such mill or factory, or to his clerk, agent, or servant superintending the same, a copy or duplicate of such declaration as aforesaid, together with a written description of such part of the proposed works as shall be intended to be executed at or in respect of such mill or factory, and all persons may inspect and take extracts of or copies from such declaration; and all persons requiring copies of or extracts from such declaration to be made by such clerk of the peace shall be entitled to the same on payment of the costs thereof, not exceeding 1*½*d. for every seventy-two words.

XXXIV. That the said Commissioners shall cause a notice, stating the places in which copies of such declaration have been deposited, to be published in some newspaper usually circulated in the district in which the land or river proposed to be drained or improved shall be situate, or in the immediate vicinity thereof, and also to be posted in the usual places for posting grand jury notices in every barony of the county in which any part of such district shall be situate; and each copy of such notice which shall be so posted shall have annexed thereto a list of the names, additions, and residences of the proprietors who shall have so assented as aforesaid.

XXXV. That if any person shall be aggrieved by the declaration which shall be so made by the said Commissioners, or by anything contained therein or omitted therefrom, or by any other act, deed, matter, or thing whatsoever done or omitted to be done by the said Commissioners under or by virtue of the provisions hereinbefore contained, or any of them, it shall be lawful for such person to appeal against or in respect of such declaration, or any such act, deed, matter, or thing, to the assistant barrister, at the first Quarter Sessions of the Peace or adjournment thereof, to be holden in and for the division of the county wherein any part of the land or river proposed to be drained or improved shall be situate, which shall be holden next after the publication of such declaration, or next after the cause of complaint shall have arisen in respect of which such appeal shall be made; and the person so appealing shall give fourteen days notice at least in writing of such appeal to the said Commissioners, and within four days after the date of such notice enter into a recognizance before some Justice of the Peace for such county, in the sum of 20*l*., with two sufficient sureties, each in a sum of 10*l*., conditioned to try such appeal, and to abide by or to submit to such order as shall be made thereon, and to pay such costs as shall be awarded by the assistant barrister at such Quarter Sessions, or any adjournment thereof; provided that, for want of sufficient time for giving such notice previous to the next Quarter Sessions, or adjournment thereof, then such appeal, under the like recognizance and with the like notice, may be made at the Quarter Sessions, or adjournment thereof, to be holden in and for such division next after the expiration of fourteen days from the publication of such notice, or the cause of complaint arising.

XXXVI. That the assistant barrister at such first or second Quarter Sessions, or any adjournment thereof, upon proof of such notice as aforesaid, and of the entering into such recognizance, shall hear and determine the matter of such appeal, and make such written order thereon as to him shall seem fit; and such assistant barrister may order the costs of any such appeal to be paid, wholly or in part, by the said Commissioners or the party appealing, and if same shall be ordered to be paid by the party appealing such assistant barrister may, by a warrant under his hand, direct same to be levied by a distress and sale of his goods and chattels: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize or empower any assistant barrister to make any order directing that the general execution of the proposed works shall not be proceeded with, unless it shall appear before him that the proprietors as aforesaid of two-thirds in extent of such lands have not assented as hereinbefore required, or to make any order affecting the peculiar mode of construction of any of the works which shall have been approved of by the said Commissioners, or to make any order affecting the costs of carrying the said proposed works into execution: Provided also, that in all cases of appeal respecting mills or factories only, if the said Commissioners or the appellant shall be dissatisfied with the decision of the assistant barrister, it shall be lawful for such Commissioners or appellant, within one month after such decision, to apply, by petition in a summary way, to the Court of Chancery or Exchequer, by way of appeal against such decision, and such Court may direct the notes of the evidence taken on such hearing to be furnished by such assistant barrister, and shall make such order thereupon, whether for a re-hearing before such assistant barrister or otherwise, as shall appear just: Provided also, that the proceedings on such petition shall not, in case the decision of such assistant barrister shall be in affirmance of such declaration, stay the prosecution of such works, but the Commissioners may proceed with the same, subject to such order of such Court respecting the prosecution, modification, or stoppage of such works, or respecting such mill or factory, or for compensation to the party interested therein, or otherwise, as the Court may deem just; and such orders shall be binding and conclusive on all persons whomsoever.

XXXVII. That when and so soon as all the several preliminary measures and proceedings hereinbefore directed to be taken and observed, including such appeal (if any) to the assistant barrister as aforesaid, shall have been concluded, the said Commissioners shall give a final notice that all the requisitions of this Act with respect to the land or river proposed to be drained or improved have been duly complied with; and a copy of such notice, signed by the said Commissioners, shall be published in the Dublin Gazette, and in some newspaper usually circulated in the district wherein such land or river shall be situate, or in the vicinity thereof, and shall be posted on the usual places for posting grand jury notices in the barony or baronies in which such district shall be situate.

XXXVIII. That the publication of any such last-mentioned notice shall be deemed final and conclusive evidence that the several preliminary measures, proceedings, and requisitions hereinbefore directed to be taken and observed have been duly taken and observed; and after such publication it shall not be lawful for any person to question or appeal against or in respect of any thing whatsoever done or omitted to be done by the said Commissioners under any of the provisions hereinbefore contained, save only by such petition to the Court of Chancery or Exchequer as aforesaid.

XXXIX. That in every case where any such final notice shall be published as aforesaid all the costs and expenses of the preliminary proceedings hereinbefore directed to be taken shall be considered as expenses incidental to the execution of the works proposed to be executed, and shall be defrayed accordingly, and the sum of money (if any) deposited by or on behalf of the person by or on behalf of whom such memorial as aforesaid shall have been presented shall be repaid to such person, without deduction, out of any monies which shall be raised by the said Commissioners under the provisions hereinafter contained; but if in any case the said Commissioners shall determine that it is inexpedient to drain or improve the land or navigation of the river referred to in any such memorial, or if the necessary assents hereinbefore required to be obtained shall not be given to the execution of the proposed works, then and in any such case all expenses which shall have been incurred shall be defrayed out of the sum of money which shall have been deposited with the said Commissioners under the provisions in that behalf hereinbefore contained; and if such sum of money shall be insufficient to pay such expenses, then the balance thereof shall be paid by the person who shall have presented such memorial as aforesaid, and the same shall be recoverable from such person by the said Commissioners, by civil bill or by action or suit in any of the superior courts in Dublin; and in all cases where a memorial shall have been presented by the secretary by order or on behalf of the grand jury of any county, the said Commissioners shall transmit to the secretary of such grand jury a certificate specifying the amount of such expenses which shall have been incurred as aforesaid, and the same shall be paid out of the sum which shall have been deposited on behalf of such grand jury; and if such sum so deposited shall be insufficient to pay such expenses, then the balance thereof as stated in such certificate, shall be presented by the grand jury at the next assizes to be holden subsequent to the issuing of such certificate as aforesaid for the same county; and in default of such presentment being made at such assizes the Court at such assizes or any subsequent assizes shall order such amount to be raised off such county, and such order shall have the force of a presentment, and the treasurer of such county shall insert the amount specified in such order in his warrant, and the same shall be apportioned, raised, and levied as if the same had been duly presented, and shall be paid by the treasurer of such county to such Commissioners; and in case the sum deposited with the said Commissioners by any such person, or by or on behalf of any grand jury as aforesaid, shall be more than sufficient to defray the expenses aforesaid, then the surplus shall be repaid to the person, or to the treasurer of the grand jury, by whom or on whose behalf the same was deposited with the said Commissioners, and such treasurer shall keep a separate account of the monies so returned to him as aforesaid.

XL. That at any time after the publication of any such final notice as hereinbefore mentioned the said Commissioners may, in case it shall seem to them expedient, commence and proceed with the works proposed to be executed for the drainage or improvement of the land or navigation of the river to which such notice may relate.

XLI. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to appoint, employ, and dismiss at pleasure such engineers, surveyors, clerks, collectors, receivers, or other necessary officers, and pay and allow, out of the funds at their disposal under this Act, to such engineers, surveyors, clerks, collectors, receivers, and other officers, such yearly or other salary or wages as the said Commissioners shall think fit; and all and every the person or persons employed as aforesaid shall, when required so to do by the said Commissioners, render to them a true and perfect account of all monies which shall have been received and paid by them respectively by virtue of such employment, with proper vouchers for the same, and shall pay to the said Commissioners, or such person as they shall authorize to receive the same, all such sums as shall be due to the said Commissioners from such persons, and shall deliver up all vouchers, books, and writings relating to their respective offices to the said Commissioners; and in case any person who shall be so employed as aforesaid shall refuse or neglect to render such account and make such payment as aforesaid, or to deliver up such vouchers, books, and writings to the said Commissioners, or to such person as they shall empower to receive the same, then and in every of the said cases it shall and may be lawful to and for any two or more Justices of the Peace, at petty sessions assembled, to inquire into the matter of such default in a summary way; and if such person shall thereof be convicted, either by confession, or by the testimony of any one or more credible witness or witnesses upon oath, such Justices shall commit the party to the common gaol of the county, there to remain for any time not exceeding twelve calendar months, or until he shall have made a perfect account and payment as aforesaid, and shall have delivered up all such vouchers, books, and writings in his custody, or shall have compounded or agreed with the said Commissioners, which composition and agreement the said Commissioners are hereby empowered to make.

XLII. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, at their discretion, and for the purposes of this Act, to make reservoirs or embankments, with valves and cloughs to draw the water from or out of such reservoirs, and also cuts, aqueducts, feeders, bye-washes, spill-waters, weirs, dams, banks, drains, sluices, and other works for securing a supply of superabundant or flood waters to said reservoirs or embankments, or for leading the waters therefrom, with over-falls for allowing the escape of water, and for the protection, security, cleansing, repair, and maintenance of such reservoir and other works, and also to provide and keep in repair near each of the said reservoirs a house with necessary accommodations for the residence of a person to superintend such reservoir and other works; and such person shall have full power and authority (subject nevertheless to the controul of the said Commissioners) to superintend and regulate the outlet of water from such reservoir, and all matters and works connected therewith; and it shall also be lawful for the said Commissioners to make any road or way in lieu of any existing road or way which it may be necessary to divert or occupy for the purpose of making any such reservoirs, embankments, or works, and to make and maintain all such other roads or ways in, through, over, or upon any land near to or adjoining any of the said reservoirs as they may find expedient for enabling them, and their engineers, surveyors, agents, officers, workmen, servants, and other servants in their employ, to have access to such reservoirs, embankments, and works, or any of them, with or without cattle, carts or carriages.

XLIII. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to make such feeders or channels, with such cutwaters, drains and other works as they shall deem proper, for collecting and conducting into the said several reservoirs the surplus waters over and above the necessary supply of any river, stream, brook, or spring near thereto, and of the tributary streams and rivulets of any such brook or stream over and above what shall be sufficient for the supply of mills or factories, land or works, through or near to which the same rivers, streams, or brooks respectively flow.

XLIV. That for the purpose of maintaining a constant supply of water for mills or factories on any river or stream, or preventing sudden floods therein, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, with the assent of the proprietors of such mills or factories, the value of the working water power of which shall be equal to two-thirds of the value of the working water power of the mills or factories which shall be then existing on such river or stream, and affected by the maintaining of such constant supply of water, to make reservoirs or embankments, and to impose a tax or rate on the whole of the mills and factories along said river or stream which shall be benefited thereby, or on such new mills or mill sites as shall or may be formed thereon and benefited thereby, for the purpose of defraying the costs of making and maintaining such reservoirs or embankments, in the proportion of the benefit conferred, such benefit to be calculated by the said Commissioners upon each foot or fall of water which shall appertain to each such mill or factory; and the said Commissioners shall have such and the like power and authority to recover the amount of rate which shall be so fixed and determined by them as are by this Act given to them for the recovery of any other rate or charge imposed hereby; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to borrow money, for the purpose of making such reservoirs or embankments as last aforesaid, upon the security of the taxes or rates which they are hereby empowered to impose on such mills or factories as aforesaid: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for the said Commissioners to make any such reservoir or embankment, or to take away, injure, or prejudicially affect any land or lands for the purpose last aforesaid, without the consent for that purpose first had and obtained in writing of all persons having any estate or interest in such lands greater than a term of seven years then unexpired: Provided also, that in each case before any such reservoir or embankment as last aforesaid shall be made, all the preliminary measures and proceedings hereinbefore required to be taken or observed previous to the publication of such final notice as aforesaid, in cases where drainage, or improvement by drainage, is proposed to be effected, or such of them as shall be applicable, with like right or appeal, shall be duly taken and observed, and a final notice, stating that all the requisitions of this Act with respect to such reservoirs or embankments have been duly complied with, published and posted in such manner as the final notice hereinbefore mentioned, which shall be in like manner binding and conclusive on all persons; and thereupon all the provisions, powers, and authorities in this Act contained or given shall and may be used and exercised for making and maintaining such reservoir or embankment, or for any other matter or thing relating thereto.

XLV. That in all cases where any such reservoirs or embankments as last aforesaid are proposed to be made, each person shall be deemed a proprietor of any such mill or factory as last aforesaid who shall have therein such an estate or interest as is hereinbefore required to qualify any person to be deemed a proprietor of any land proposed to be drained or improved by drainage under the provisions of this Act.

XLVI. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, from time to time, at their discretion, to alter or remove any fishing weir erected in or upon any stream of water, or any impediments whatsoever in or on any river, stream, or watercourse, which now or hereafter shall be within the district within which it may be proposed that the said works shall be executed, (subject, as regards weirs or dams of mills or factories, to the provisions herein contained,) making such satisfaction and compensation for all damage or injury to the proprietors or other persons interested in such weirs, rivers, streams, or watercourse, by and out of the monies to be raised and levied by virtue of this Act, as shall be settled and ascertained in manner hereinafter mentioned, in case the said Commissioners shall not be able to come to an agreement for same with such proprietors or persons.

XLVII. That in all cases where a navigation is proposed to be created or improved in conjunction with drainage, and it shall be necessary for the purpose of such navigation to remove or alter any mill, factory, dam, weir, sluices, or other appurtenances belonging to any mill or factory, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to remove or alter same, on payment or tender to the occupier or occupiers, proprietor or proprietors thereof, of such sum for the purchase thereof, or as a compensation for the injury thereto, and in such proportions respectively, as shall be awarded by the said Commissioners, or shall be determined by the assistant barrister or a jury on an appeal, as hereinafter provided.

XLVIII. That in case the proprietor of any mill or factory shall consent that any dam, weir, or watercourse, or other work or obstruction connected with such mill or factory, shall, for the purpose of drainage to be effected under this Act, be altered and re-built, or that such mill or factory shall, by any works of the said Commissioners, obtain any increased water power, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to fix and determine the amount of rate or contribution which shall be paid by the proprietor of such mill or factory for the improvement which shall be so effected, towards the repayment of the costs and expenses of the works to be executed within the district within which such mill or factory is situate, and the rate which shall be paid in future for such increased water power from such reservoir; and the said Commissioners shall have such and the like powers and authorities to recover the amount of rate which shall be so fixed and determined as are given to them by this Act for the recovery of any other rates or charges imposed hereby.

XLIX. That in all cases in which, in the progress of the execution of any work under the provisions of this Act, any mill or factory shall be stopped from working, and compensation shall be awarded for any injury resulting therefrom, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, or the assistant barrister or jury in case of appeal under the provisions hereinafter contained for the adjustment of claims for compensation, to set off against the same the value of any benefit resulting from any improvement which shall be effected by the execution of such works in the water power of or constancy of supply of water to such mill or factory, or by the relief from back-water afforded to it.

L. That the Commissioners or trustees hereinafter mentioned may, if they shall deem fit, for the prevention of dispute, and for the due regulation of the water in any river, stream, or drain which shall be improved or made under the provisions of this Act, appoint a proper person for the regulation, opening, and closing of any floodgates, sluices, stopgates, or stops of any weir, dam, or other work connected with any mill or factory which may have been in any respect interfered with by the said Commissioners or trustees, or of any weir, dam, or other work which may be under the care or controul of the said Commissioners or trustees, or vested in or erected by them or either of them, under the provisions of this Act; and such person so appointed shall have full power and authority to regulate, open, and close the same for the purposes aforesaid, subject nevertheless to the controul, orders, and directions of the said Commissioners or trustees, as the case may be; and all expenses of maintaining same, and the sills and gauges hereinbefore directed to be erected, and of remunerating said person employed to regulate same, shall, save as hereinafter provided, be defrayed by the said Commissioners or trustees respectively out of the funds and rates which shall be levied under the provisions of this Act.

LI. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to exonerate the owner or occupier of any mill, factory, or mill site, or any other person, from such obligation, duty, or liability to preserve or repair the banks of any river, stream, or watercourse, or to maintain any dam or sluice or floodgate, or any engine, contrivance, or other work for regulating or maintaining the supply of water in any dam or watercourse, or to maintain or repair any building, machinery, or other work whatsoever, as he may or would have been respectively subject or liable to if this Act had not been made.

LII. That any person interested in any mill or factory affected or proposed to be affected by any thing to be done under the provisions of this Act may apply, by petition in a summary way, to the Court of Chancery or Exchequer, complaining that the due amount of water power has not been properly secured to or for such mill or factory, or that any act has been done, or has been threatened or proposed to be done, by the said Commissioners, or by any person acting or pretending to act under the provisions of this Act, by which injury has been or may be sustained by such mill or factory, or by such person so interested, in respect thereof, and which act may not be authorized by this Act; and thereupon such Court shall make such order, and direct such proceedings, whether before one of the Masters or the chief or second Remembrancer of such Court respectively, or by directing any issue or issues to be tried before a Judge and jury at the assizes, or before the assistant barrister and a jury at the Quarter Sessions, or otherwise, as such Court may order; and thereupon it shall be lawful for such Court to direct such works to be made by such Commissioners as to such Court of Chancery or Exchequer shall seem necessary or proper, and to make from time to time such further or other order, whether for compensation to any party interested in such mill or factory, or for restraining the Commissioners or any other person from doing any act, or otherwise, as to such Court shall seem just, and to issue any writ or writs of injunction for any of the purposes aforesaid for which the same may be required; and such Court shall have power to award costs to either party: Provided always, that such petition shall be presented within six months after the subject matter of such complaint shall have arisen.

LIII. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to contract with or employ such contractors, surveyors, agents, and workmen as they shall think fit, and to make and execute all such works as shall be described in the maps, plans, and sections hereinbefore mentioned, or such deviations therefrom, or such other works as they shall deem necessary for effecting all or any of the purposes of this Act, and for such purposes to enter into and upon any land whatsoever, and to widen, straighten, deepen, divert, scour, or cleanse any river, stream, drain, brook, pool, or watercourse running through such land, and to make, open, and cut in or upon the same any new watercourse, side cut, ditch, or drain, and to alter or remove any bank, sluice, floodgate, lock, drain, or tunnel, and to make or erect any wharf, landing place, pier, quay, harbour, bank, sluice, floodgate, lock, lock house, or other building, drain, tunnel, towing path, or other works necessary for drainage or improvement of the navigation, and to dam, bar, and stop up, with any weir or dam, any river, brook, pool, stream, or watercourse, and also to make upon such land any embankment against the sea, or any lake, river, stream, or watercourse, and to put, and place on such land any piles, stones, earth, soil, or other materials for the purposes of the works, or for the more effectual protection or defence of such land, or for the better conveying the waters from the said land into the sea, or into any river, lake, stream, or watercourse, and also to form any dam, and to erect any sluice, hatch, or lock, in any river, lake, stream, or watercourse, for the purpose of supplying water to any mill or factory, or to any site proper for the erection of a mill or factory thereon, or of keeping back a sufficiency of water for the use of cattle, or for the irrigation or warping of lands where such irrigation or warping shall be wanted, and shall be a beneficial manurance to such lands, and also to stop up or divert any road or remove any bridge, and to make any new road or bridge, and also from time to time to repair, alter, or remove any sluice, floodgate, hatch, tunnel, road, or other works now made or to be made as aforesaid, and to divert, deepen, widen, cleanse, and scour any ditch, drain, watercourse, or side cut now existing or to be made as aforesaid, and also to do all such things, and erect such steam and other engines, and execute all such works, as may be necessary or convenient for the purposes of this Act, making compensation, to be ascertained in the manner hereinafter mentioned, to all persons for any damage occasioned to them by the exercise of any such powers.

LIV. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, or any engineer, workman, or other person authorized by them, after three days' previous notice, to enter into, and to search for, dig, take, and carry away materials out of any land lying within or contiguous to the land or river proposed to be drained or improved, for the purpose of executing or repairing any works under the provisions of this Act, making such compensation for the surface damage done to the proprietors, lessees, or occupiers of such lands, according to their respective interests therein, as to the said Commissioners shall seem fit and reasonable; and in case of dispute such compensation shall be settled, on a summons to be issued for that purpose, by any two or more Justices of the Peace for the county in which such land is situate, at petty sessions: Provided always, that in all cases where materials shall be taken from an open quarry bona fide demised to any person, with liberty to raise, sell, and dispose of the materials therein, the value of such materials shall be paid for by the said Commissioners, and the amount owing, in the event of difference as to the same, shall be settled on summons by any two or more Justices as aforesaid.

LV. That if, by reason of the searching for, digging, or getting any materials as aforesaid, any pit or hole be made in any common or other land wherein such materials shall be found, the said Commissioners shall forthwith, where the same shall be necessary for the safety or security of the public, or if the proprietor or occupier shall so require, cause the same to be sufficiently fenced off during such time as the said pit or hole shall be used, and shall, within six days after having dug up sufficient materials, if such pit or hole is not likely to be further useful, cause the same to be filled up, sloped down, or fenced off, and so continued; and if the same is likely to be further useful the said Commissioners shall cause the same to be sufficiently secured by posts and rails, or other fences, so as to prevent accidents to cattle or persons.

LVI. That if it shall be necessary for improving the outfall of any land, or for the purpose of carrying off water from any land to be drained, or from any drain to be made, scoured out, or enlarged, under the authority of this Act, to scour out, widen, or enlarge any river or drain, or to make any drain, culvert, or tunnel through any land not included in such district as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to enter upon the said land, and to scour out, widen, straighten, or enlarge such river or drain, or to make such drain, culvert, or tunnel, due compensation being made by the said Commissioners for any damage done thereby, to be ascertained in such manner as any other compensation is hereinafter directed to be ascertained.

LVII. That where any person shall be liable, by prescription or otherwise, to scour out or cleanse any drain, sewer, watercourse, river, or rivulet lying below or between or in any land authorized to be drained by virtue of this Act, or the outfall thereof, the said Commissioners may require such person to scour out and cleanse the same; and in case such person shall neglect, within fourteen days after notice in writing given to him, or to the tenant of the land in respect of which such liability exists, or left at the usual abode of such person or tenant, to cleanse any such drain, sewer, watercourse, river, or rivulet, to the full and proper width and depth, the said Commissioners may cause the same to be well and sufficiently cleansed and scoured out, and they are hereby empowered, by warrant under their hands and seals, to cause the sum of money expended in so doing to be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such person or tenant, together with the charges attending such distress and sale.

And after reciting that by reason of the neglect of or want of co-operation among the proprietors or the occupiers of lands to maintain the banks and cleanse and scour the channels of existing drains, streams, or rivulets lying in or forming the boundaries of or leading to the outfall from such lands, much injury is done thereto, and improvement prevented, but sufficient powers do not at present exist to remedy the evil aforesaid:—

It is Enacted,

LXIII. That in all cases where, by reason of the neglect of any such proprietor or occupier to maintain the banks or cleanse and scour the channels of existing drains, streams, or rivulets lying in or bounding the lands of such proprietor or occupier, injury shall be caused, it shall be lawful for the proprietor or occupier of any land injured thereby to require the proprietor or occupier so neglecting as aforesaid, by a notice in writing delivered to him or left at his usual place of abode, to join in the effectual maintaining such banks, or in the cleansing and scouring of the channels of such drains, streams, or rivulets; and in case he shall refuse effectually so to do it shall be lawful for the proprietor or occupier of the land to which such injury shall be caused, immediately after the expiration of fourteen days from the service of such notice as aforesaid, to proceed with the maintaining and repairing of such banks, or the cleansing and scouring of such channels as aforesaid, and to sue for and recover from such neglecting proprietor and occupier the entire or such just proportion of the expenses attendant thereon as he may be liable to, by civil bill before the assistant barrister of the county wherein such drain, stream, or rivulet, or the part thereof which shall be cleansed and scoured, shall be, and as may be fixed and determined by such assistant barrister, who shall have power to fix and determine the same, and to award, in addition to the usual costs, such further costs to be paid by such party and in such manner as to him shall seem reasonable: Provided always, that in all such cases when such drain, stream, or rivulet shall not be a boundary between the adjoining lands of such proprietors or occupiers as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful for any such proprietor or occupier to proceed to maintain and repair the banks, or cleanse and scour the channel of such drains, stream, or rivulet as last aforesaid, without a warrant or authority in writing so to do from two or more Justices assembled in petty sessions for the county or counties wherein such drain, stream or rivulet, or the greater part thereof, shall be situate, and which warrant or authority such Justices shall grant, if, upon inquiry had before them, upon a summons to be served upon the proprietors or occupiers of the lands in which such drain, stream, or rivulet shall be, and who shall have neglected to cleanse or scour the channels, or maintain the banks of same, it shall be proved that the neglect so to do causes such injury or prevents such improvement.

LXIV. That if, by any cut, drain, or other works made under the authority of this Act, any road or way shall be disturbed or interrupted, or any land intersected in such manner as to render the future occupation thereof inconvenient or unprofitable, the said Commissioners shall, if the same shall appear to them necessary, cause other convenient roads or ways to be made, and any bridges which may be required to be properly built, for the use of the persons entitled to use such road or way, or for the convenience of the parties entitled to the use and occupation of any land intersected in manner aforesaid, and to defray the expense of making such road or way, and of erecting such bridges, out of the monies to be received by virtue of this Act: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall think fit, to contract and agree with the said persons or parties, or any of them, for the making of such roads or ways, or the building such bridges by the said persons or parties, or any of them, and to pay the sum contracted and agreed to be paid out of the monies to be received by virtue of this Act: Provided always, that in case the said Commissioners shall be able to agree with the persons interested in such roads, ways, or bridges for compensation in respect of the damage occasioned in relation to the same, it shall be lawful for them so to do.

LXV. That if any existing bridge, culvert, or archway for the discharge of water under any public or county road shall, in the opinion of the said Commissioners, be insufficient for the free discharge of such water, and shall, by reason of such insufficiency, cause or tend to cause the flooding of or other injury to any of the land to be drained or improved by the proposed works, or where, by means of any of such works, any public or county road shall be relieved from periodical flooding, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to have the same reconstructed in such manner as to them shall appear sufficient, and to determine, by a declaration in writing under their hands and seals, the proportions of the expenses of such reconstruction or relief from flooding, which shall be defrayed by the county or counties respectively, or any barony or half barony of such county or counties, within which such bridge, culvert, archway, or road, or any part thereof, may be situated; and a duplicate of such declaration, under the hands and seals of such Commissioners, shall, within one month from the date thereof, be transmitted to the secretary of the grand jury of each such county; and such declaration shall be published in three successive impressions of some newspaper circulating in such county thereby made chargeable with any part of such expenses, and shall be posted at the usual places of posting grand jury notices in the barony or half barony in which such bridge, culvert, archway, or road, or any part thereof, shall be situate, such publication and posting to be made within one fortnight after the date of such declaration; and it shall be lawful for any person paying grand jury cess for such county, barony, or half barony to traverse such declaration at the assizes which shall be holden for such county next after the expiration of thirty days after such declaration shall be transmitted to such secretary, in like manner as any person may be empowered to traverse any presentment made under any Act or Acts in force relating to the presenting of public money by grand juries in Ireland; and such sum as shall be found upon such traverse shall be inserted in such declaration by the Court before which such traverse shall be tried; and the grand jury of such county is hereby empowered and required at such assizes (and without application to presentment sessions) to present the sum or sums of money mentioned in such declaration (whether as originally made, or as altered upon such traverse, as the case shall be,) to be levied off the said county, barony, or half barony; and in case such grand jury shall refuse to present the sum so mentioned in such declaration, or which shall be found by and upon such traverse, the Court shall make an order directing that the treasurer for such county shall insert such sum in his warrant, and the same shall be levied off such county in the same manner as if the same had been duly presented by such grand jury; and thenceforth such bridges, culverts, archways, and roads shall be repaired and maintained by such county or counties as were theretofore liable to repair and maintain the same.

LXI. That in the construction, alteration, or remodelling of any dams, weirs, or other works in the bed of any river to be improved under this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, whenever they shall deem the same necessary, so to construct, alter, or re-model the same as to provide sufficient means in some part of the river for the free and uninterrupted passage of salmon, trout, eels, and other fish, both up and down such river.

LXII. That nothing herein contained shall authorize or enable the said Commissioners to interfere with ornamental water in any private demesne or park, without the previous consent in writing of the owner or occupier thereof, or of his guardian or committee in case of infancy or lunacy, nor to curtail or cut off the supply of water to any town without previously making adequate provision in lieu thereof.

LXIII. That nothing herein contained shall authorize or enable the said Commissioners to encroach, by their works or otherwise, upon any park, garden, or demesne, without the consent in writing of the owner thereof.

LXIV. That if in the execution of any of the works authorized by this Act any field, close, or parcel of land shall be cut through, or divided from the remainder of any estate, farm, or property, so that there shall be left on each or either side of the said works or any of them less than one statute acre in quantity, or less than fifteen yards in breadth, then and in every such case the said Commissioners shall (if thereunto required by the proprietor of such field, close, or other land so cut through or divided,) take and purchase such piece or parcel or pieces or parcels so to be left as aforesaid of such field, close, or land, and shall pay for the same in the same manner as for the land actually required for the purposes of this Act.

LXV. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to purchase any lands which they shall think it necessary or proper to purchase for accomplishing any of the purposes of this Act, making such reasonable satisfaction and recompense to the person entitled to or interested in such land as shall be settled and ascertained in manner hereinafter mentioned.

LXVI. That the said Commissioners shall cause notices in writing to be delivered to or left at the usual places of abode of the proprietors or occupiers, or reputed proprietors or occupiers, and all persons interested, where the same may be known to the Commissioners, of and in all such land as may be required to be taken for or be liable to be injuriously affected by the works proposed to be made under this Act, requiring such proprietors, occupiers, or other persons to prefer their respective claims before such Commissioners for the value of such land, or the compensation to be allowed for any damage or injury thereto, and specifying therein a time and place at which such Commissioners shall hold a meeting for inquiring into all such claims, and shall also, thirty days at least before making the inquiry, examination, assessment, and award hereinafter next mentioned, cause a copy of such notice to be published in three successive publications of some newspaper circulating in the county or counties in which such land as aforesaid shall be situated, and to be printed and posted at each place for posting grand jury notices in each barony in which any part of same shall be situate.

cxlv. That in case the said Commissioners shall, upon the hearing and determination of any claim or objection to be delivered to or made before them in pursuance of this Act, so think proper, it shall be lawful for them to award and order such costs and charges as they shall think reasonable to be paid to the party in whose favour any such determination shall have been made by the other party; and in case the person who shall be liable to pay such costs or charges shall neglect or refuse to pay the same, on demand, then and in every such case it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, and they are hereby authorized and required, by warrant under their hands and seals, directed to any person whomsoever, to cause such costs and charges to be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so neglecting or refusing to pay the same, rendering the overplus (if any), on demand, to the person whose goods and chattels shall have been so distrained and sold, after deducting thereout the costs and charges attendant on such distress and sale: Provided always, that in case the said person against whom the Commissioners shall have determined shall cause an action to be brought, pursuant to this Act, and proceed to trial, the execution of the warrant aforesaid shall be suspended until after the trial of such action; and in case such person shall upon the trial of such action establish the right against which the Commissioners shall have determined, such person shall not be liable to the payment of any such costs as last aforesaid, but shall be entitled to his costs of such action.

cxlvi. Provided and enacted, That in case any person interested or claiming to be interested in any land to be included in any drainage or improvement to be effected in pursuance of this Act shall be dissatisfied with any determination of the said Commissioners concerning any right or interest in, over, or upon such land, or any part thereof, made in the execution of this Act, or any injury or damage sustained by him by reason of anything done by the said Commissioners, or by their authority, or in the prosecution of any of the said works, it shall be lawful for the person so dissatisfied to cause an action to be brought upon a feigned issue against the person in whose favour any such determination has been made, within three calendar months after the determination of the said Commissioners shall have been notified in writing to the party against whom such determination shall be made, or to his attorney, or against any person by whom any such injury or damage may have been caused, CXXVII. That if any of the parties interested in the said proposed works shall die before the same shall be completed, the powers and authorities vested in the said Commissioners shall not be thereby determined or suspended, but the said Commissioners shall proceed in the execution of such powers and authorities so vested in them in such manner as they might have done in case such parties had not died.

CXXVIII. Provided and enacted, That if any person in whose favour a determination as aforesaid shall have been made, and against whom such action might have been brought if living, shall die before any such action shall have been brought, and before the expiration of the time hereinbefore limited for bringing such action, it shall be lawful for any person who might have brought such action against the person so dying to bring the same, within the time so limited as aforesaid, against such person as if actually living, and to serve the said Commissioners with process for commencing such action, in the same manner as the party so dying might have been served therewith if living; and it shall thereupon be incumbent on the heir, or other person who shall claim the benefit of such determination as aforesaid, to appear and defend such action in the name of the person so dead, and proceedings shall be had therein in the same manner as if such person had been actually living; and the rights of all parties shall be equally bound and concluded by the event of such action.

And after reciting that many county and other public bridges in Ireland, while they are sufficient as roadways or passages, are insufficient to discharge the flood waters and streams over which they are constructed, by means of which much injury is done to and improvement prevented in lands lying above such bridges, and it is expedient to provide means by which the said evil should be remedied:—

It is Enacted,

CLXV. That where, owing to the insufficiency of any county or other public bridge to discharge the flood waters in the river or stream over which the same may be built, any land is injuriously affected or improvement thereupon prevented, it shall be lawful for any person interested in such land to present a memorial to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, stating the nature of the injury sustained or the improvement prevented, together with the cause thereof, and praying that the said Commissioners of Public Works may be directed to examine and report on the same.

CLXVI. That thereupon, if the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland shall so order, (and if the person or persons so applying depositing with the said Commissioners such sum of money as they may require to defray the expense of such examination and report,) the said Commissioners shall inquire into the facts of the case, and the propriety and expediency of complying with such memorial; and if the said Commissioners shall, upon such inquiry, be of opinion that injury is caused to or improvement prevented in the land of the person or persons so applying, they shall report the same to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors; and such report shall be accompanied by a plan, estimate, and specification for the execution of the proposed works for such bridges, or to remedy the evil complained of in such memorial.

and also a statement of the proportions in which the expenses thereof should be defrayed by the county or counties, if more than one, between which such bridge shall be, and by such neighbouring counties (if any) as ought to be contributory to such expenses; and the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors shall, upon the receipt of such report of the said Commissioners, cause the same to be transmitted to the secretary of the grand jury of each county named in such statement as proper to be contributing to such expenses, to be by him laid before the grand jury at the next assizes; and the foreman of each such grand jury shall certify the same in like manner as if the same were an application made at presentment sessions for any new bridge, the probable expense whereof might exceed 50*l*.; and the grand jury at such assizes shall also determine whether the amount mentioned in such report shall be raised off the county at large, or any barony or baronies therein, and the said foreman shall indorse the said report accordingly; and at the meeting of presentment sessions for the barony or baronies, or for the county at large, (as may be directed by such grand jury,) to be holden next after the assizes at which such report shall have been so certified as aforesaid, the same, together with the plan, estimate, and specification relating thereto, shall be laid before the Justices and cess payers at such sessions for their consideration, who shall examine such report, together with the plan, estimate, and specification, and decide by a majority of votes whether the same ought to be adopted or rejected, or, in case only one county shall be liable to the expense, what modification of such plan, estimate, and specification may be proper; and in such case such Justices and cess-payers shall, if need be, direct the county surveyor to prepare a proper form of tender for the alteration, re-construction, or rebuilding of such bridge, expressing the nature and extent of the works necessary, and the materials proper to be employed in performing and executing the same, and the term within which such bridge should be altered, rebuilt, or reconstructed, and such other particulars as the said Justices and cess-payers shall think fit to prescribe, and shall deliver the plan, estimate, and specification which shall be so approved of to the secretary of the grand jury; and in cases where the expense is to be paid by any one county as aforesaid, such Justices and cess-payers shall appoint the manner in which notice for the receipt of sealed tenders and proposals for the execution of such works shall be given, and the period during which they shall be received; and such sealed tenders and proposals shall be opened at the first adjournment of such sessions to be made for opening sealed tenders and proposals; and such report, together with such sealed tenders and proposals, where such shall in the case aforesaid have been made, shall be laid before the grand jury at the next succeeding assizes; and in case such report, or any modification thereof, shall have been approved of at presentment sessions as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for each such grand jury, at the assizes next after such presentment sessions, if they shall so think fit, to present, to be raised off the county at large, or any barony or half barony therein, such sum as by the report of the said Commissioners shall be payable by such grand jury, or such other sum as such grand jury may in their discretion think fair and reasonable, towards the proposed alteration, reconstruction, or rebuilding of such bridge, in such manner, and according to such plan and specification, and on such site, as the said Commissioners may in their said report have recommended, or in case one county only shall be liable to such expense, then according to such altered or modified plan or specification as shall have been approved of at presentment sessions as aforesaid.

CLXVII. That in all cases where two or more counties shall, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be liable to contribute to the expense of the proposed work, and where the grand jury of one of such counties shall have been presented the amount of the proportion of expenses required or proposed by the report of the said Commissioners to be contributed by such county, or such other sum as they may consider fair and reasonable, the grand jury of the other or others of the said counties shall and they are hereby, at the same or next succeeding assizes, authorized and required to present their respective proportions of the expenses mentioned in the report of the said Commissioners, or to present respectively a sum equal in amount to that previously presented by the grand jury of the other of the said counties: Provided nevertheless, that where more than two counties shall have been declared by the report of the said Commissioners to be liable to contribute to the expense of any such bridge, the grand jury of any of such counties shall be at liberty to appeal against the report of the said Commissioners to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors in council, in such and the same manner, and under such restrictions and provisions, as are contained in an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 61, intituled, 'An Act for the more effectually providing for the Erection of certain Bridges in Ireland.'

CLXVIII. That in case no presentment shall be made by any grand jury, pursuant to such report, for the alteration, reconstruction, or rebuilding of such bridge, or in case only a portion of the expenses shall have been presented by any grand jury or grand juries, the Court may, at the same or any succeeding assizes, make an order, directing that the person presenting such memorial as hereinbefore mentioned shall be at liberty, at his or their own expense, to have the said bridge altered, reconstructed, or rebuilt, in such manner, and according to such plan and specification, and on such site, as may be approved of by the said Commissioners of Public Works.

CLXIX. That in case such bridge shall, under the provisions aforesaid, be altered, reconstructed, or rebuilt at the expense of any one county, the work shall be executed as any other bridge within such county; and that in case such bridge shall be altered, reconstructed, or rebuilt at the expense of two or more counties, or at the expense of any memorialist under this Act, the work shall be executed by and under the controul of the said Commissioners of Public Works.

CL. Provided and enacted, That in all cases where one county only shall be liable to contribute to the expense of any such bridge, it shall be lawful for any person paying county rates, and liable to contribute to the expense of the alteration, reconstruction, or rebuilding of such bridge, to traverse the presentment for the same in respect of the truth of any of the statements contained in any such memorial or report as hereinbefore mentioned, or in respect to the amount of expenses necessary for the reconstruction, alteration, or rebuilding such bridge, but not further nor otherwise; and it shall be lawful in like manner and to the like extent, but no further, for any person paying county rates, and liable as aforesaid, to traverse the presentment for such bridge which shall be made by the grand jury of any county first making presentment towards the expenses thereof, but no traverse shall lie against any presentment subsequently made by the grand jury of any other county.

CLI. of a presentment, and the sum mentioned in such order shall be levied off such county in the same manner as if the same had been duly presented by such grand jury.

And after reciting that much injury is caused by persons placing or throwing stones and other materials into the rivers and streams in Ireland, and thereby and otherwise raising obstructions therein :—

It is Enacted,

CLII. That if any person shall, after the passing of this Act, wilfully throw or place any stones, gravel, or other material in any stream, river, or watercourse, and thereby, or by any other means, create any obstruction in the free discharge of the waters therein, whereby the lands of any other person or persons may be flooded or in any manner injured, every such person, being convicted thereof before two or more Justices of the Peace at petty sessions, shall forfeit and pay such sum, not exceeding the sum of 5*l.*, as such Justices may think proper, which penalty shall, in case of private property, be paid to the party aggrieved, or, in the case of property of a public nature, or wherein any public right is concerned, the money shall be applied in such manner as such Justices of the Peace shall direct; and if such penalty, together with costs, if awarded, (which costs such Justices of the Peace are hereby authorized to award if they shall think fit,) shall not be paid, either immediately after the conviction or within such period as such Justices shall at the time of the conviction appoint, the said Justices may commit the offender to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour, as the said Justices shall think fit, for any term not exceeding two calendar months, unless such sum and costs be sooner paid; and it shall be lawful for such Justices to direct that the obstruction complained of shall be removed, and include in the costs which such Justices are hereinbefore authorized to award the expense of removing such obstruction: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to any case where the person complained of acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 18: And that the practice has greatly increased of introducing in the manufacture of tobacco and snuff various articles other than tobacco, either as substitutes for tobacco or snuff, or to increase the weight of tobacco or snuff, by which practice the duties on tobacco are greatly injured, and the revenue further diminished by drawbacks being obtained on adulterated tobacco, and it is therefore expedient and necessary, in protection of the revenue, to make further provision than is contained in the said recited Act for preventing such evil practice, and to amend the said recited Act:—

It is Enacted,

I. That no manufacturer of tobacco shall, in manufacturing any tobacco, make use therewith of any other material, or any other liquid or substance or matter, or thing, than water only, or in manufacturing any snuff make use therewith of any other material, or any other liquid or substance, or matter or thing, than water, or water and salt, or alkaline salts only, or lime water in snuff known as Welsh or Irish snuff; and every manufacturer of tobacco who shall, in manufacturing any tobacco, make use therewith of any other material, liquid or substance, matter or thing, than tobacco and water only, or in manufacturing any snuff make use therewith of any other material, liquid or substance, matter or thing, than water, or water and salt, or alkaline salts only, or lime water in snuff known as Welsh or Irish snuff, and every manufacturer of, dealer in, or retailer of tobacco, who shall add to, mix with, or put into or amongst, or who shall cause or suffer or permit to be added to, mixed with, or put into or amongst any tobacco or snuff, unmanufactured, manufacturing, or manufactured, any other material, liquid, substance, matter, or thing than, as respects tobacco, water only, and as respects snuff, water, or water and salt, or alkaline salts only, or lime water in snuff known as Welsh or Irish snuff, shall forfeit 300*l*.

II. Provided and enacted, That nothing hereinbefore contained shall subject any manufacturer of, dealer in, or retailer of tobacco, to the said penalty of 300*l*. or to any forfeiture, for or by reason of his scenting or flavouring any snuffs, so that only the essential oils usually made use of for that purpose shall be used for communicating the scent or flavour, nor any manufacturer to the said penalty for or by reason of his using oil in making up spun or roll tobacco.

III. That every manufacturer of, dealer in, or retailer of tobacco who shall receive or take into or have in his possession, or who shall sell, send out, or deliver, any tobacco or snuff which shall have been manufactured with, or shall have had added thereto or mixed therewith, or into or amongst which there shall have been put, either before or whilst in process of manufacture, or after being manufactured, or in which there shall be found on examination thereof any other material, liquid, substance, matter, or thing than, as respects tobacco, water only, or in roll tobacco water and oil only, and as respects snuff, water, or water and salt, or alkaline salts only, or lime water in snuff known as Welsh or Irish snuff, shall forfeit 200*l*.

IV. That all tobacco and snuff which shall have been manufactured with, or shall have added thereto or mixed therewith, or into or amongst which there shall have been put, either before or whilst in process of manufacture, or after being manufactured, or which on examination shall be found to contain any other material, liquid, substance, matter, or thing than, as respects tobacco, water only, or in roll tobacco water and oil, and as respects snuff, water, or water and salt, or alkaline salts only, or lime water in snuff known as Welsh or Irish snuff, shall wheresoever the same may be found, be forfeited.

V. That no manufacturer of tobacco shall receive or take into or have in his custody or possession any sugar, treacle, molasses, or honey, (except for the necessary and ordinary use of his family, the proof whereof shall lie on such manufacturer,) nor any commings or roots of malt, or any ground or unground roasted grain, ground or unground chicory, lime, sand (not being tobacco sand), umbre, ochre, or other earths, sea weed, ground or powdered, wood, moss, or weeds, or any leaves, or any herbs or plants (not being tobacco leaves or plants) respectively, nor any substance or material, syrup, liquid, or preparation, matter or thing, to be used or capable of being used as a substitute for or to increase the weight of tobacco or snuff on pain of forfeiting the same and 200*l*.

And after reciting that it may happen that some manufacturers of tobacco may also carry on the business of a grocer, and it is expedient to provide for such persons not being subject to the last-mentioned penalty of 200*l*. for or by reason of their having sugar or molasses and other of the aforesaid commodities usually sold by grocers in their custody or possession on the premises used in carrying on their grocery business:—

It is Enacted,

VI. That where any person shall before the 1st of June 1842 have carried on, and shall at the passing of this Act be still carrying on, the trade or business of a manufacturer of tobacco, and also the trade or business of a grocer, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Excise to authorize and empower such person to continue to carry on the business of a manufacturer of tobacco without being subject to the said penalty for or by reason of having such of the said commodities as are usually sold by grocers in his custody or possession, so as his premises for manufacturing tobacco be separated, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Excise, from, and all internal communication prevented with, his premises used for carrying on his business of a grocer, and so that such commodities shall be in his custody or possession only on his grocery premises, and for the purposes of his trade or business as a grocer, and shall not be found or discovered in his premises entered or used for the manufacture of tobacco or snuff.

VII. That it shall be lawful for any officer of Excise, at any time that he shall see fit, to take a sample or samples of any tobacco or snuff unmanufactured, or in process of manufacture, or manufactured, in the stock or possession of any manufacturer of, dealer in, or retailer of tobacco, paying for the same, if demanded, at the current wholesale price of such tobacco or snuff.

VIII. That every person who shall cut, grind, pound, colour, stain, dye, or manufacture any leaves, or any herb or plant, moss or weed, or any wood, chicory, commings or roots of malt, or any other vegetable or other matter or material to imitate or resemble tobacco or snuff, or who shall prepare any of the said articles, matters, or materials to be mixed with or to be added to tobacco or snuff, or who shall have in his custody or possession any leaves, or any herb, plant, moss, or weed, or any ground or powdered wood, chicory, commings or roots of malt, or any other vegetable or other matter or material, cut, ground, pounded, coloured, stained, dyed, or manufactured to imitate or resemble tobacco or snuff, or prepared for the purpose of being mixed with or added to tobacco or snuff, or intended to be so cut, ground, pounded, coloured, stained, dyed, or manufactured or prepared, or who shall sell, dispose of, or deliver to any manufacturer of tobacco any leaves, herbs, plants, moss, or weeds, ground or powdered wood, chicory, commings or roots of malt, or other vegetable or other matter, or any preparation or mixture thereof, or any syrup, liquid, or preparation to be used in the manufacture of tobacco or snuff, or to be added to or mixed therewith, shall forfeit 200*l.*; and all such leaves, herbs, plants, moss, or weed, ground or powdered wood, chicory, commings or roots of malt, and other vegetable or other matter or preparation, or mixture thereof, syrup, liquid, or preparation, together with all machines, tools, materials, vessels, and utensils for cutting, grinding, pounding, colouring, staining, dyeing, manufacturing, or preparing the same, shall be forfeited.

2. That within one calendar month after the passing of this Act the keeper of the Sheriffs Prison and the keeper of the City Marshalsea shall severally certify under their hands, to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, a true list of the names of the prisoners then in their custody, with the several causes and times of their commitments, and the governor of Newgate shall in like manner certify a true list of the prisoners confined in Newgate for debt; and as soon thereafter as the Four Courts Marshalsea can be conveniently made ready for the reception of the prisoners to be removed under this Act, the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors shall issue his or their warrants from time to time, severally directed to the keeper of the Sheriffs Prison, the keeper of the City Marshalsea, and the governor of Newgate, requiring them respectively to deliver into the custody of the marshal of the Four Courts Marshalsea those of the persons then in their custody as shall be mentioned in such certificates, or such of them as shall be named in any such warrant; and upon the receipt of any such warrant the said keepers and governor shall respectively deliver into the custody of the said marshal the persons named in the said certificates or warrants, with the several warrants of commitment or other process under which the persons delivered were arrested or detained in custody, and the removal of any such prisoners in obedience to such last-mentioned warrant shall not be construed an escape; and if any person named in any such warrant of the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland shall have been lawfully discharged out of the custody of the said keeper of the Sheriffs Prison or of the said keeper of the City Marshalsea, or of the said governor, before the execution of the warrant, the said keeper of the Sheriffs Prison or the said keeper of the City Marshalsea, or the said governor, as the case may be, shall certify the fact under his hand to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, and shall deliver such certificate to the marshal of the Four Courts Marshalsea.

III. That as soon as all the prisoners confined in the said Sheriffs Prison shall have been discharged or removed under this Act unto the custody of the said marshal, all records, books, and papers in the custody of any officer of the Sheriffs Prison relating to the business of the said prison, shall be delivered to the said marshal, and the offices of keeper, turnkey, watchmen, and other officers of said Sheriffs Prison shall be abolished; and as soon as all the prisoners confined in the City Marshalsea shall have been discharged or removed under this Act into the custody of the said marshal, and after arrest on the decrees of the court of conscience shall have been abolished, all records, books, and papers in the custody of any officer of the said prison, relating to the business of the said prison, shall be delivered to the said marshal, and the offices of keeper, watchmen, and all other offices of the said City Marshalsea shall be abolished.

IV. That from and after the abolition of the said offices of the Sheriffs Prison it shall not be lawful for the grand jury of the county of the city of Dublin to present any sum whatever for or to the support of the said Sheriffs Prison, or to or for any office thereunto belonging, save as hereinafter mentioned.

V. That from and after the abolition of the offices of the said City Marshalsea the said grand jury shall make no presentment in respect of the said Marshalsea, save for such debts as may have been incurred for the support of poor prisoners in the said City Marshalsea prior to the period of its abolition, in respect of which presentments might have been made by the said grand jury if this Act had not been passed, and save and except as hereinafter excepted.

VI. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, upon memorial from the several persons who shall have filled such offices so abolished as hereinbefore mentioned, by a warrant or warrants under their hands, to direct and appoint the amount of compensation (if any) to which the said persons may in their opinion be severally entitled in right of their offices, regard being had to the manner of their appointment, and the tenure and duties of their offices, and the nature and permanency of the emoluments and salaries thereof; and such warrant or warrants shall state the amount of compensation (if any), and how the same is to be paid, whether as a sum in gross or by way of annuity; and such Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall cause a duplicate of such warrant or warrants, so far as the same relate to the offices of the Sheriffs Prison hereby abolished, to be transmitted to the secretary of the said grand jury of the county of the city of Dublin, who shall lay the same before the grand jury of the county of the city of Dublin at the presenting term during or next after which he shall receive the same; and thereupon such grand jury, and every subsequent grand jury for the said county of the said city of Dublin, shall and they are hereby required from time to time to present the sums mentioned in such warrant whenever they shall become due and payable by virtue of such warrant, so far as the same relate to such last-mentioned offices, and the same shall be paid to the several persons entitled, according to the provisions of such warrants, in like manner as other sums presented, raised, and levied, by the said grand jury presentments are or shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto; and such warrant or warrants, so far as the same relate to the offices of the City Marshalsea, shall distinguish the portion of such compensation properly chargeable on the funds of the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of Dublin, in respect of any salaries, fees, or emoluments heretofore payable by such corporation, and shall direct payment of such portion of such compensation to be made by them; and the residue of such compensation shall be charged upon and issued and paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; and a duplicate of such warrant or warrants, so far as the same relate to the offices of the City Marshalsea, shall be transmitted to the town clerk of the said city of Dublin, who shall lay the same before the council of the said city at their next meeting, or as soon as conveniently may be, and the said council shall from time to time order the treasurer of the said city to pay severally to the person mentioned in such warrant the sums specified therein, and directed to be paid by the said corporation; and the said treasurer shall thereon pay the said sums to the said persons, according to the provisions of such warrants: Provided always, that a copy of every such warrant for compensation shall be laid before the Commons House of Parliament within fourteen days next after the date thereof, if Parliament shall be then assembled, and if Parliament shall not be assembled then within fourteen days after the meeting of Parliament then next following.

And after reciting that great expense has resulted from persons in the Four Courts Marshalsea receiving the pauper allowance there for any period of time that they think proper to remain in prison, without any effort to obtain their discharge from prison by due course of law:—

It is Enacted,

VII. That no person in future shall be entitled to receive the gaol allowance without subscribing to the following declaration, which the marshal of the Four Courts or his deputy is hereby authorized to administer:

'I A. B. do solemnly declare, That I A. B., a Prisoner in the Four Courts Marshalsea, have no Means whatever, directly or indirectly, of supporting myself, and that I have solely and entirely to rely on the Support allowed by Government for Pauper Prisoners confined in the said Four Courts Marshalsea.'

VIII. That when such declaration shall have been subscribed, the marshal or his deputy shall forthwith furnish the said declaration, or a copy thereof, with a list of the detainers against such person who shall have subscribed such declaration, to the chief clerk of the Court for the relief of Insolvent Debtors in Ireland, who shall file the same, and forthwith give notice in the Dublin Gazette to the detaining creditors of the said persons who shall have subscribed such declaration, that if they the said detaining creditors, or some one of them, shall not within twenty-one days after the publication of the said notice in said Gazette, file or cause to be filed in the said last-mentioned court, at his or their proper expense, a petition against the said person, so as to bring him before the Court for the relief of Insolvent Debtors in Ireland for adjudication, the person in respect of whom such notice shall have been given shall be entitled to his discharge from custody; and in case such a petition shall not be filed by any of the creditors of the said person in pursuance of such notice, within the said period of twenty-one days, then a discharge shall be made out by such chief clerk without any further order or inquiry, and such chief clerk shall forthwith forward such discharge to the marshal of the Marshalsea of the Four Courts, and such discharge shall be a proper authority to the said marshal for discharging such person from custody, and the said marshal shall discharge the said person forthwith; and such discharge shall protect the said person from future arrest in respect only of the debt, costs, and sums of money for the non-payment of which he had been committed to the said prison, and the debts, costs, and sums of money for which detainers had been lodged against him previous to the publication of the said notice in the said gazette: Provided always, that the said discharge shall not have the effect of extinguishing the said debts, or barring the right to recover the said costs or sums of money, or of protecting the after-acquired property of the said person from seizure and sale under legal process, for the purpose of liquidating and satisfying the said debts, costs, and sums of money; but the said property shall be liable to be seized, sold, and dealt with, in liquidation and discharge of the said debts, costs, and sums of money, as it would have been if the said person had never been committed to or detained in the said prison.

IX. That nothing herein contained shall in any way interfere with the authority of the Court of Queen's Bench to make rules and regulations for the government of the Four Courts Marshalsea as heretofore, under the provisions of the Act, 7 Geo. 4. c. 74, intituled, 'An Act for amending and consolidating the Laws relating to Prisons in Ireland.'

X. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient that the laws concerning prisons should be amended, and that greater facilities should be given for building prisons:—

It is Enacted,

1. That after the several terms hereinafter mentioned, all lands, tenements, and hereditaments purchased for the purposes of a prison, court house, or other necessary buildings to be used with such prison, shall become and remain absolutely vested in the person or persons or body corporate to whom the conveyance shall be made, and their heirs or successors, in trust for the purposes of a prison, court house, or other necessary buildings to be used therewith; that is to say, after the expiration of five years after the passing of this Act, with respect to lands, tenements, and hereditaments purchased before the passing of this Act, and after the expiration of five years from the date of the conveyance, with respect to lands, tenements, and hereditaments purchased after the passing of this Act; and that if any proceedings shall be taken before the expiration of the said several terms of five years, upon which judgment shall be obtained for the recovery of the possession of any such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, then, within two calendar months after such judgment shall be obtained, there shall be paid or tendered to the person obtaining such judgment, instead of such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, his or her costs on the proceedings for obtaining such judgment, and such sum of money as a jury, in the manner hereinafter mentioned, shall find to have been the value of the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments.

11. That the jury which shall try any proceedings brought for the recovery of the possession of any of the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments shall at the same time ascertain the value thereof at the time when they were conveyed, or when possession was taken thereof for the purposes of a prison, and the value so found shall be certified by the presiding Judge under his hand, and such certificate shall be delivered to the person seeking to recover possession thereof, and the value so ascertained shall be the amount to be paid, instead of such lands, tenements, and hereditaments.

12. That in every borough in which there is or shall be a body corporate of mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, under the provisions of an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76, intituled, 'An Act to provide for the Regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales,' or of any charter granted in pursuance of that or any subsequent Act, and in which there shall be a separate court of sessions of the peace, it shall be lawful for the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, by their council, from time to time to take up and borrow any sum of money not exceeding the amount of the estimate or estimates approved by the council for building or rebuilding, repairing or enlarging the prison, court house, and other necessary buildings to be used with the prison for such borough, according to any plan approved by one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and for the purchase of land for the purposes of any such prison, court house, and other necessary buildings as aforesaid, or for repaying any monies which may have been borrowed for any of the said purposes before the passing of this Act: Provided always, that the whole of the sum borrowed under this Act, and the interest accruing due from time to time, shall be repaid within thirty years from the time of borrowing the same.

IV. That upon the application of the council of any such borough, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners appointed for the execution of the Acts authorizing the issue of Exchequer bills and the advance of money for carrying on public works, to make advances, subject to the provisions of the said Acts, for building, rebuilding, enlarging, improving, repairing, or fitting up any prison of that borough, as fully as the said Commissioners are empowered to make such advances for the like purposes to the Justices of any county in England, on the application of the major part of them; and it shall be lawful for the Council to receive any sum so advanced, and to apply the same to the purposes for which such advances shall be made, so that all sums so advanced, with the interest thereon, shall be fully repaid and satisfied within the period of twenty years from the advancing thereof.

V. That for securing repayment of the money so advanced it shall be lawful for the council to grant bonds under the common seal of the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of the borough, or instead of issuing such bonds to mortgage, with the consent of three or more Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, any part of the lands, tenements, and hereditaments of the said body corporate, the issues, rents, and profits of which, by any law now in force, are or may be applied towards erecting or maintaining a gaol or house of correction in their borough, and to repay the money borrowed, and the interest accruing due thereon, or so much thereof as the council shall think fit to charge thereupon, out of the borough fund or borough rate, but subject and without prejudice to any prior claim upon such borough fund, or instead or in aid thereof it shall be lawful for the council to make gaol rates, and to secure the repayment of any money so advanced, with the interest accruing due, or so much as shall be charged thereupon, by mortgage of the borough rates or gaol rates, so that all the money borrowed, with the interest due thereon, shall be repaid within the said term of thirty years, or in case the money shall have been advanced by the Commissioners of Exchequer bills, within twenty years; and every such mortgage may be by instrument in the form contained in the schedule annexed to this Act, or in any other suitable form.

VI. That every gaol rate made for the purpose of repaying any money advanced by any person or body corporate for any of the purposes aforesaid shall be made, levied, and raised in like manner as the borough rate may be made, levied, and raised; and all powers and authorities now vested in the council, or in overseers of the poor, or persons appointed by the council to act as such overseers, relating to the making, levying, and collecting the borough rate, shall be in full force and effect in relation to the making, levying, and collecting any such gaol rate.

VII. That in every case in which any parish, township, precinct, or place liable to support its own poor shall be partly within and partly without any such borough, the overseers or other persons charged with the collection of the rates made for the relief of the poor in such parish, township, precinct, or place, upon the receipt of any warrant from the mayor, or any Justice or Justices of the Peace, high constable, or other officer duly authorized to act in that behalf within the borough, for the payment of money for the purposes of this Act, (which warrants every such mayor, Justice of the Peace, high constable, and other officer shall be severally empowered to direct to them, in like manner as if the whole of such parish, township, precinct, or place were within their borough,) shall assess upon and levy from the inhabitants and occupiers of all messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments liable to the poor rates in that part of their parish, township, precinct, or place which is within the borough, the amount mentioned in the warrant, either as a separate rate or rates, for which the said overseers shall have all the powers which belong to them for levying a rate for the relief of the poor, or with and as part of the poor rate, and in addition to the poor rate to which the inhabitants and occupiers of property within that part of the parish, township, precinct, or place may be liable, in common with the inhabitants and occupiers of property within the other part thereof which is not within the borough, and out of the monies so levied and collected, or out of any monies in their hands collected for the relief of the poor, shall pay the amount mentioned in the warrant, and in default thereof shall be subject to all the provisions and penalties provided by any Act concerning the non-payment of any borough rate.

VIII. That it shall be lawful for the Queen's most excellent Majesty, her heirs, and successors, and for all bodies politic and corporate, and also for all guardians, committees, husbands, trustees, and attorneys of all persons being infants, lunatics, idiots, under coverture or any other disability, and also for all other persons who are or shall be seised, possessed of, or interested in any houses, buildings, lands, tenements, hereditaments, easements, or privileges which shall be deemed necessary for the purposes of this Act, to contract or agree for, and to sell, convey, and assure, such houses, buildings, lands, tenements, hereditaments, easements, and privileges, unto the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of the borough, in trust and for the purpose of converting the same into or for erecting new prisons, court houses, or other necessary buildings to be used with such prisons, or of enlarging old ones, and of providing the yards, courts, and outlets, thereunto belonging; and all such contracts, agreements, sales, conveyances, and assurances shall be valid and effectual in law to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and the provisions of the Act, 4 Geo. 4. c. 64, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the building, repairing, and regulating of certain Gaols and Houses of Correction in England and Wales,' respecting contracts of the like description, shall extend and apply to the contracts entered into under this Act, as if the council of the borough had been therein named instead of the Justices, except that the council shall have no power to compel any person or body corporate to enter into any such contract.

IX. That so much of an Act, 4 Geo. 4. c. 64, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the building, repairing, and regulating of certain Gaols and Houses of Correction in England and Wales,' as restricts the power to borrow money for building, rebuilding, repairing, or enlarging any gaol or house of correction to the case where the amount of the estimate approved by the Justices shall exceed one half of the amount of the ordinary annual assessment, for the rate of any county, riding, division, district, city, town, or place, or as provides that the sum of money to be borrowed under the powers of the said Act, for building or rebuilding, repairing or enlarging any gaol or house of correction, shall be borrowed in sums not exceeding 100*l.* each, or as provides that the principal sum borrowed must be repaid within fourteen years from the time of borrowing the same shall be repealed.

X. That when the Justices of any county shall have borrowed any money for building, rebuilding, repairing, or enlarging any prison, they shall charge the rate to be raised upon such county, not only with the interest of the money so borrowed, but also with the payment of such further sum as will ensure the payment of the whole sum borrowed within thirty years, or if the loan shall have been made by the Commissioners appointed for the execution of the Acts authorizing the issue of Exchequer bills, within twenty years from the time of borrowing the same.

XI. That if it shall be expressly presented that one common gaol is insufficient for any county, riding, parts, or division of a county, having a distinct commission of the peace, or a distinct rate in the nature of a county rate, applicable to the maintenance of a prison for such division, the Justices of such county, riding, parts, or division of a county, by orders made for that purpose, may provide and maintain two or more common gaols for such county, riding, parts, or division, and for that purpose shall have the same powers which they have for providing, building, repairing, and maintaining therein one common gaol, and for purchasing and holding the site thereof; and all laws and enactments in force with respect to one common gaol shall be enforced with respect to any additional gaol or gaols which may be hereafter provided; and all persons who may be committed to the common gaol, or kept therein, either before or after trial, may be committed to or kept, either before or after trial, in any such additional gaol, and shall be there in the custody of the sheriff; and the sheriff shall appoint and may remove the keeper of every such additional gaol.

And after reciting that the buildings at Parkhurst in the Isle of Wight, appointed to be used as a prison under an Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 82, intituled, 'An Act for establishing a Prison for young Offenders,' have been found insufficient, and doubts have been entertained whether additional buildings may lawfully be made and used as a prison there:—

It is Declared and Enacted,

XII. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council, to order, from time to time, that such part of Parkhurst Barracks may be taken and used for the purposes of the said prison as to Her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, shall seem fit, and also from time to time, with the advice aforesaid, to order that additional buildings shall be built upon any part of the land already or hereafter to be appropriated to the purposes of the said prison; and all parts of the barracks so taken, and all such additional buildings, shall be deemed to be a part of Parkhurst Prison, and to be within all the provisions of the said Act.

XIII. That for the purpose of providing a prison it shall be lawful for the Justices of any county, or such person or persons as they shall appoint for that purpose, and for the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of any borough, to purchase and hold so much land as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State shall deem to be necessary for the purposes of such prison.

XIV. That the Justices of any county, and the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of any borough, by their council, shall respectively have the same power for contracting with the committee for managing any district prison established under an Act passed in this session of Parliament, for the conveyance, support, and maintenance in such district prison of prisoners committed thereto from such county or borough, which they respectively have for contracting for the like purpose with the Justices of any county, or the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of any borough, or their council; and it shall be lawful for the committee for managing any such district prison to enter into such contracts, and to order that offenders shall be received under such contracts into the said district prison, although the county or borough with which any such contract may be made shall not be a contracting party to the agreement in pursuance of which such district prison shall have been established; and all such offenders may be tried and sentenced by the district court for all offences of which the Court has cognizance, and punished accordingly, in like manner as any offenders committed to such district prison from any borough, party to the said agreement.

XV. That in every such borough as aforesaid to which a separate court of sessions of the peace hath been or shall hereafter be granted, there shall be one common gaol and at least one house of correction, excepting those boroughs in which the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, by their council, shall have contracted with the Justices of the Peace having authority or jurisdiction in or over any gaol or house of correction of the county, riding, or division wherein such borough is situated, or whereunto it is adjacent, or with the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of some other borough in which there is a gaol or house of correction, or with the committee of a district prison, for the support and maintenance in such last-mentioned gaol or house of correction, or district prison, respectively, of any prisoners committed thereunto from such borough; and during the continuance of any such contract, but no longer, the first-mentioned mayor, aldermen, and burgesses shall not be bound to maintain any other gaol or house of correction for their borough; and it shall be lawful for the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of any such borough, by their council, to enter into such contracts as aforesaid, although at the time of entering into such contract there may be no gaol or house of correction belonging to such borough; and all enactments with respect to such contracts shall apply as well to those contracts where at the time of entering into the same there was or is a gaol or house of correction belonging to the borough, as to those contracts where there was or is no gaol or house of correction belonging to the borough at the time of entering into the same.

XVI. That so much of an Act, 1 Geo. 2. c. 20, intituled, 'An Act for erecting a Workhouse in the City of Canterbury, for employing and maintaining the poor there, and for the better enlightening the Streets of the said City,' as relates to providing, maintaining, repairing, and upholding a house of correction by the guardians of the poor of the city of Canterbury, and their successors, and also so much of the said Act as relates to the maintaining, providing, and allowing one or more masters of the said house of correction, and as provides that the same house of correction shall be the public house of correction for the said city of Canterbury and county of the same city, shall be repealed; and that as soon as another house of correction shall have been provided for the said city and county, the prisoners in the bridewell shall be removed to such new house of correction, and thereupon the bridewell shall cease to be the house of correction for the said city and county.

XVII. That so much of any Act as enacts that any such agreement shall be made by the council of any borough at a quarterly meeting of the council shall be repealed, and that any such agreement may be made by the council of any such borough at a special meeting of the council to be called for that purpose: Provided always, that nothing in this Act shall affect any contract entered into before the passing of this Act between any Justices and the council of any borough.

XVIII. That in every borough to which a separate court of sessions of the peace hath been or shall hereafter be granted or purported to be granted, and where the persons committed for offences arising within such borough have been or shall hereafter be sent to any prison of the county in which such borough is situated, and that no special contract shall be subsisting between such borough and county relative to the said prisoners, the council of such borough shall pay or cause to be paid to the treasurer of such prison, or other person appointed by the Justices of the Peace, in general or quarter sessions assembled for the county in which such prison is situated, the actual expenses heretofore incurred, or hereafter to be incurred, in the conveyance, transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of every such prisoner, according to the time for which each such prisoner shall have been or shall remain in custody there, at the average daily cost of each prisoner, according to the whole number of prisoners confined in the said prison, such average to be taken yearly, half-yearly, quarterly, or at such other intervals as the visiting Justices of the prison shall from time to time determine, including in such expenses all salaries of officers, all expenses of repairs, alterations, additions, and improvements in or to the said prison, all sums paid to prisoners under any Act of Parliament on their discharge or otherwise, and any other charge whatsoever on account of the prisoners confined in such prison; subject nevertheless to a proportional share of all deductions on account of the earnings of prisoners in the said prison, and of all sums of money received in aid of the rates levied for the maintenance of the said prison: Provided always, that the payment by the council of any such borough of any such expenses incurred before the passing of this Act may be made by five equal yearly instalments, the first of such instalments to be payable within three calendar months after the passing of this Act, with interest after the yearly rate of 4*l.* in the hundred, to be calculated from the passing of this Act, upon so much of the said expenses incurred before the passing of this Act as shall remain unpaid until the whole shall be discharged.

XIX. That the expenses heretofore incurred or hereafter to be incurred in the prosecution of such prisoners as aforesaid at the general or quarter sessions of the peace of the county wherein such borough is situated shall be defrayed by the treasurer of such borough, in such manner as is directed for the payment of the costs of prosecutions by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76. s. 113, intituled, 'An Act to provide for the Regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales,' out of a rate to be made, levied, and recovered within the said borough in the same manner as the rate hereinafter mentioned.

XX. That the expense heretofore incurred or hereafter to be incurred in the conveyance, transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of such prisoners as aforesaid, shall be paid out of a rate to be made and levied for that purpose by the council of such borough in the nature of a borough rate; and any such rate may be made and recovered in the same manner as any borough rate may be made or recovered; and the amount of all such expenses of conveyance, transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of prisoners as aforesaid shall, in case of dispute, be settled by such barrister-at-law as shall be determined upon in writing between the visiting Justices of such prison and the council of such borough; and in case of appointment of such barrister be agreed upon by the said parties within the space of fourteen days next after such dispute shall have arisen, such dispute shall be decided by the arbitration of a barrister, to be named as provided in the case of differences with respect to the payment of monies under contracts made by authority of an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 85, intituled, 'An Act for amending an Act of the last Session of Parliament, relating to the building and enlarging of certain Gaols and Houses of Correction, and for procuring Information as to the State of all other Gaols and Houses of Correction in England and Wales.'

XXI. That an account in writing of the expenses due and payable, or claimed to be due and payable, in respect of the conveyance, transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of such prisoners as aforesaid, shall be made out from time to time and signed by the clerk to the visiting Justices of the prison to which such prisoners shall be committed, and delivered to the town clerk of the borough within which the offences shall have been committed; and such account shall be conclusive against such borough, unless some objection thereto shall be made in writing and signed by the town clerk of such borough, and delivered to the clerk of the said visiting Justices within one calendar month next after such account shall have been delivered to such town clerk.

XXII. That every such borough as aforesaid shall be freed from contributing to any rate in the nature of a county rate made for the county in which such borough is situated, in respect of the prosecution, conveyance and transport, maintenance, and safe custody and care of such prisoners as aforesaid, so long as such expenses shall be defrayed under the provisions of this Act.

XXIII. That in case any grant of a separate court of sessions of the peace, heretofore or hereafter to be made, or purported to be made, to any such borough as aforesaid, shall be quashed, vacated, or adjudged to be invalid, such borough shall, notwithstanding, continue to be freed from the payment of rates in the nature of county rates for such county, and liable to the payment of the costs of the prosecution, conveyance and transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of such prisoners as aforesaid, in the manner hereinbefore provided, up to the time at which such grant shall have been quashed, vacated, or adjudged to be invalid, and thenceforth to the time of holding the general or quarter sessions of the peace at which the next rate in the nature of a county rate shall be made in respect of the prosecution, conveyance and transport, maintenance, safe custody, and care of prisoners for offences arising within the county within which such borough is situated, and no longer.

XXIV. That nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed to affect any question which has arisen or may hereafter arise touching the validity of any charter of incorporation or grant of a separate court of sessions of the peace; but every rate to be made or levied as last hereinbefore provided, and every other proceeding under the authority of this Act, shall be valid, whether any such charter or grant is valid or invalid.

XV. That every person who shall assault or violently resist any officer of a prison in the execution of his duty, or who shall aid or incite any person so to assault or resist any such officer, shall for every such offence, on conviction thereof by the oath of one or more witnesses, or upon his or her own confession, before two Justices of the Peace, be liable to a penalty not more than 5*l.*, to be levied, if not forthwith paid, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, or, in the discretion of the Justices before whom he or she shall be convicted, may be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not more than one calendar month, or, if the offender be already under sentence of imprisonment, then such offender for every such offence shall be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not more than six calendar months, in addition to so much of the term for which he or she was originally sentenced as may then be unexpired.

XXVI. That when any convict who shall be ordered to be confined in the general Penitentiary at Millbank shall be brought thither, he or she shall continue in the custody of the person in whose custody he or she shall have been brought to the said Penitentiary until he or she shall have been examined by the surgeon or apothecary of the said Penitentiary, and until it be certified by the surgeon or apothecary that he or she is fit to be received into the Penitentiary; and if the said surgeon or apothecary shall certify that he or she is not fit to be received there, he or she shall be conveyed back in the same custody to the prison or place of confinement from which he or she was brought, and the expense of conveying him or her back shall be defrayed in the same manner as and as part of the expense of bringing him or her to the said Penitentiary.

And after reciting that, by an Act, 5 Vict. sess. 2. c. 22, the Queen's prison hath become the Prison for Admiralty prisoners under sentence of courts-martial, but it is expedient to make other provisions for the custody of such prisoners:—

It is Enacted,

XXVII. That as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of this Act, all Admiralty prisoners under sentence of courts-martial then in the Queen's Prison shall be removed, by warrant under the hand of one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, to the general Penitentiary at Millbank; and that after the passing of this Act, every person who shall have been convicted by a naval court-martial, and sentenced to imprisonment, or who, in consequence of his sentence, shall be liable to be detained until execution of his sentence can be had, shall be committed to and imprisoned in the common gaol of the county in which he shall be first landed or shall first arrive in England, or of the county in which such court-martial shall have been holden; and the gaoler or keeper of such gaol shall receive into his custody every such person, upon receiving an order in writing for that purpose under the hand of the Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom, or two of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral, and the seal of the office of Admiralty, with a copy of the sentence, attested by the Secretary of the Admiralty, and shall detain him in confinement in the manner and for the period mentioned in such sentence, or until execution of his sentence shall be had upon him, or until he shall be discharged according to law.

XXVIII. That whenever it shall be deemed expedient, it shall be lawful for the Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral for the time being, by any order in writing to be made for that purpose, under the hand of the said Lord High Admiral, or the hands of two or more of the Commissioners aforesaid, and the seal of the office of Admiralty, to change the place of confinement of any offender imprisoned or detained after sentence of a court-martial, and so from time to time as often as it shall be deemed requisite; and the gaoler or other person having the custody of such offender shall, immediately on the receipt of any such order, remove and convey such offender to the gaol, prison, or house of correction mentioned in the said order so to be made as aforesaid (for the charges of which removal and conveyance he shall be allowed a sum not exceeding 1*s.* per mile); and every gaoler or keeper of such last-mentioned gaol or house of correction shall thereupon, and upon being furnished with a copy of the sentence of confinement and of such order of removal (such copies respectively to be attested by the Secretary of the Admiralty for the time being), receive into his custody, and shall confine, pursuant to such sentence, every such offender.

XXIX. That the gaoler or other person in whose custody any such offender under sentence of a naval court-martial shall be shall receive the sum of 6*d.* for every day that such offender shall be in his custody, to be applied towards his subsistence, which sum shall be paid to the said gaoler or other person under the authority of the said Lord High Admiral, or Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral for the time being, upon the application in writing made to the Secretary of the Admiralty by any Justice for the county or place in which such gaol, prison, or house of correction shall be situated, with a copy of the order under which the prisoner is confined.

XXX. That in case any governor, gaoler, or keeper, chaplain, assistant chaplain, or other officer or servant of any prison, shall, from confirmed sickness, age, or infirmity, become incapable of executing the duties of his or her respective office in prison, it shall be lawful for the persons having the controul of the funds applicable to the expenses of that prison, if they shall think fit, upon the resignation of such governor, gaoler, or keeper, chaplain, assistant chaplain, or other officer or servant, and upon report to them made by the visiting Justices, or other person superintending the prison, three calendar months at least before any grant shall be made, such report containing a medical certificate of such incapacity, and testimonials of good conduct during the period of service, to grant to him or her an annuity, by way of superannuation allowance, upon such scale, with reference to the amount of his or her salary and period of service in any prison respectively, as the case may seem to require, not exceeding the scale prescribed with respect to persons in the public service by an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 24, intitled, 'An Act to alter, amend, and consolidate the Laws for regulating the Pensions, Compensations, and Allowances to be made to Persons in respect of their having held Civil Offices in His Majesty's Service:' Provided always, that nothing in this Act shall affect the interests of any governor, gaoler, keeper, or chaplain appointed before the passing of this Act; and provided also, that in all cases where it shall appear, upon the certificate of the medical officer of the prison in which the person superannuated is serving at the time of the grant, that the sickness or infirmity whereby he or she is disabled has been caused by service in that prison, it shall be lawful to grant him or her any annual allowance not exceeding one-fourth of the salary and emoluments of his or her office, although he or she may not have served as a prison officer for ten years.

XXXI. That if any debtor in execution shall escape out of legal custody after the passing of this Act, the sheriff, bailiff, or other person having the custody of such debtor shall be liable only to an action upon the case for damages sustained by the person or persons at whose suit such debtor was taken or imprisoned, and shall not be liable to any action of debt in consequence of such escape; and that after the 1st of March 1843, no poundage shall be payable to sheriffs, bailiffs, and others, for taking the body of any person in execution, but there shall be payable to the sheriff or other person having the return of writs, upon every such execution against the body, such fees only as shall be allowed to be taken by sheriffs or other officers concerned in the execution of process under the sanction and authority of the Judges of the courts of common law at Westminster, pursuant to the statute 1 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 55, intituled, 'An Act for better regulating the Fees payable to Sheriffs upon the Execution of Civil Process.'

XXXII. That in this Act the word "county" shall be taken to mean also riding, parts, division, or hundred; and the word "prison" shall be taken to mean also gaol or house of correction.

XXXIII. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland or Ireland.

XXXIV. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

After reciting that it is unfit that women and girls should be employed in any mine or colliery, and it is expedient to make regulations regarding the employment of boys in mines and collieries, and to make provisions for the safety of persons working therein:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for any owner of any mine or colliery whatsoever to employ any female person within any mine or colliery, or permit any female person to work or be therein, for the purpose of working therein, other than such as were at or before the passing of this Act employed within such mine or colliery; and that from and after three calendar months from the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for any owner of any mine or colliery to employ any female person who at the passing of this Act shall be under the age of eighteen years within any mine or colliery, or permit such person to work or be therein as aforesaid; and any indentures of apprenticeship whereby any female person who at the passing of this Act was under the age of eighteen years shall be bound to work or be liable to be called on to work in any mine or colliery shall, at the expiration of three calendar months from the passing of this Act, be absolutely void; and from and after the 1st of March 1843 it shall not be lawful for any owner of any mine or colliery to employ any female person whatsoever within any mine or colliery, or to allow or permit any female person to work or be therein as aforesaid; and every indenture of apprenticeship, or other contract or engagement, whereby any female person whatsoever shall be bound to work or be liable to be called on to work within any mine or colliery (other than such as are before declared to be void at the end of three calendar months as aforesaid) shall, from and after the said 1st of March 1843, be absolutely void.

II. That from and after the 1st of March 1843 it shall not be lawful for any owner of any mine or colliery to employ any male person under the age of ten years within any mine or colliery, or to permit any such male person to work, or be therein for the purpose of working therein, other than such as at the passing of this Act shall have attained the age of nine years, and were at or before the passing of this Act employed within such mine or colliery.

III. That it shall be lawful for one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, if and when he shall think fit, to appoint any proper person or persons to visit and inspect any mine or colliery; and it shall be lawful for every person so authorized to enter and examine such mine or colliery, and the works, buildings, and machinery belonging thereto, at all times and seasons, by day or by night, and to make inquiry touching any matter within the provisions of this Act; and the owner or occupiers of such mines and collieries, or their agents, are hereby required to furnish the means necessary for such person or persons so appointed to visit and inspect such mines and collieries, works, buildings, and machinery; and every person to be so appointed shall report his proceedings in the execution of this Act in such manner as may be directed by the Secretary of State; and he shall in like manner report the state and condition of the persons working in such mine or colliery, and whether or not the provisions of this Act are properly observed in the mine or colliery which he shall so inspect.

IV. That from and after the passing of this Act no person or persons shall take any apprentice who shall be bound to work, or be liable to be called on to work, or be otherwise occupied, within a mine or colliery, who shall be under the age of ten years, or for a longer term of apprenticeship than eight years, except as the apprentice of a mason, joiner, engine wright or other mechanic whose services may be required occasionally below as well as above ground; and every indenture of apprenticeship whereby any person shall be hereafter bound contrary to the provisions of this Act shall be void; and when any person who is now serving under articles of apprenticeship within any mine or colliery shall attain the age of eighteen years, he shall be discharged from such apprenticeship, and the articles of apprenticeship shall become absolutely null and void.

VII. Provided and enacted, That no such petition as aforesaid shall be referred as hereinbefore provided, unless some time before three of the clock in the afternoon of the seventh day after the day on which such petition shall have been presented, a recognizance or recognizances shall be entered into by two persons, each in the sum of 260*l.*, or by one person in the sum of 500*l.*, conditioned to be forfeited unless such persons shall establish and prove to the satisfaction of the Committee to which the petition shall be referred that there was reasonable and probable ground for the allegations contained in such petition.

XII. That for the purpose of ascertaining and reporting upon the sufficiency of the parties who shall have entered into any such recognizance, such recognizance shall be dealt with in all respects as recognizances entered into by sureties in the case of election petitions; and all the provisions of the said Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. 58, or of any other Act for the time being in force for regulating the trial of controverted elections, which relate to the mode of taking objections to sureties and to the proceedings consequential thereon, shall be applicable and in force with regard to the recognizances required to be entered into under the provisions of this Act.

XIII. Provided, and enacted and declared, That no Committee who shall re-assemble under the provisions hereinbefore contained, nor any Committee appointed to investigate the matter of any petition which may be presented after the time limited for presenting election petitions, as herein also provided, shall possess any power or authority to determine or in any way affect the seat or return of any member or members of the House of Commons, or the issuing or restraining the issue of any writ for the election of a member or members of Parliament.

xvi. That all costs, charges, and expenses mentioned or referred to in the report of any Committee made under the authority of this Act shall be ascertained and allowed by the same person, and in the same manner, as the costs, charges, and expenses of petitions reported to be frivolous and vexatious are now by law required to be ascertained and allowed; and all the several provisions relating to costs upon frivolous and vexatious petitions, and to the Speaker's certificate of the amount, and to the recovery thereof, shall extend to and apply, so far as may be, to costs, charges, and expenses payable under the authority of this Act, as fully and effectually as if the same were re-enacted by this Act, the Speaker's said certificate being hereby declared to be conclusive evidence of all and every the matters necessary to the establishment of the demand, and of the liability of all parties and persons mentioned therein as liable thereto.

xvii. That it shall be lawful for the agent appointed by the Speaker as aforesaid, or the party or parties named in the certificate, to demand the payment of the whole amount of such taxed costs and expenses, so certified as above, from any one or more of the persons herein made liable to the payment thereof, and, in case of non-payment thereof, in his or her name to recover the same by action of debt in any of her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or Dublin, or in the Court of Session in Scotland, in which action it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to declare that the defendant or defendants is or are indebted to him in the sum mentioned in the said certificate; and the said plaintiff shall, upon filing the said declaration, together with the said certificate, and affidavit of the handwriting of the Speaker thereto, be at liberty to sign judgment as for want of plea by nil dicit, and take out execution for the said sum so mentioned in the said certificate, together with the costs of the said action, according to due course of law; and no writ of error shall be allowed, and the validity of such certificate shall not be questioned, in any court, upon the allegation of any matter or thing anterior to the date thereof; and the said agent or party or parties named in the certificate shall pay over to the Commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury the amount of the several sums which he or they shall recover or receive in respect of such costs in and by such action or otherwise.

And after reciting that a practice has prevailed in certain boroughs and places of making payments by or on behalf of candidates to the voters in such manner that doubts have been entertained whether such payments are to be deemed bribery:—

It is declared and Enacted,

That it shall be lawful for every person who shall at the passing of this Act be a clerk of the enrolments, deputy of such clerk, comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, six clerk, sworn clerk, waiting clerk, agent, or record keeper, and whose office or employment shall be abolished or affected by this Act, to make a claim for compensation within twelve calendar months after the passing of this Act to the Lord Chancellor, who shall proceed, in such manner and upon such average as he may think proper, to inquire what compensation ought to be made to any such claimant, and what were the fees and emoluments in respect of which the same should be allowed; and in every case in which such claim shall be established to the satisfaction of the Lord Chancellor he is hereby authorized and empowered to determine, by an order, the amount of the annual compensation which shall seem to him to be just and reasonable for the loss sustained by such claimant, being in the case of a clerk of the enrolments or deputy as aforesaid, or comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, six clerk, sworn clerk, or waiting clerk, not less than three fourths nor more than the whole, and in the case of an agent or record keeper not less than two thirds nor more than the whole, of the sum which shall be determined by the Lord Chancellor to be the net annual value of such fees and emoluments: Provided always, that no other period shall be fixed for any such average as aforesaid than three years, expiring on any day between the passing of this Act and the 1st of November next, or some portion of such three years; and that for the purpose of taking any average in the case of a sworn clerk or waiting clerk the fees and emoluments of any business previous to the acquisition of such business by any sworn clerk or waiting clerk claiming compensation in respect thereof shall be deemed to have been the fees and emoluments of such sworn clerk or waiting clerk: Provided further, that no average shall be taken or compensation awarded in respect of any business which shall be acquired after the passing of this Act.

XIII. That the executors or administrators of every person who at the passing of this Act shall be a clerk of the enrolments or deputy as aforesaid, comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, six clerk, sworn clerk, waiting clerk, agent, or record keeper, and who shall die after the said 28th of October next after the passing of this Act, and before compensation shall be awarded to him, shall be entitled to make such claim and receive such compensation for the time which shall elapse between the 28th of October next after the passing of this Act and the day of the death of such clerk of the enrolments, deputy as aforesaid, comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, six clerk, sworn clerk, waiting clerk, agent, or record keeper, as such clerk of the enrolments, deputy as aforesaid, comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, six clerk, sworn clerk, waiting clerk, agent, or record keeper would if living have been entitled to claim and receive, and such compensation shall form part of the personal estate of such clerk of the enrolments, deputy as aforesaid, comptroller of the hanaper, riding clerk, sworn clerk, six clerk, waiting clerk, agent, or record keeper.

xix. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, by any order made on a petition presented to him for that purpose before the 28th of October next after the passing of this Act, to order (if he shall think fit) to be paid to any person executing the office of clerk of enrolments in Chancery, clerk of records and writs, or taxing master, under this Act, who shall be afflicted with some permanent infirmity disabling him from the due execution of his office, or shall have continued in his office for twenty years, and shall be desirous of resigning the same, an annuity not exceeding two-third parts of the yearly salary which such person shall under this Act be entitled to at the time of presenting such petition, to be paid out of the funds and in the manner upon and in which salaries under this Act are charged: Provided always, that the time during which any person hereby appointed or to be hereafter appointed to the office of clerk of enrolments in Chancery, clerk of records and writs, or taxing master, under this Act, shall have been a six clerk, sworn clerk, waiting clerk, or agent, shall be added to the time during which such person shall be clerk of enrolments in Chancery, clerk of records and writs, or taxing master, under this Act, and shall for the purposes of this clause be deemed and taken as part of the time during which such person shall have continued in the office of clerk of enrolments in Chancery, clerk of records and writs, or taxing master, under this Act: Provided always, that the retiring allowance to any person to whom compensation shall have been granted under this Act shall merge in such compensation, except so far as such allowance shall exceed in yearly amount the yearly sum so granted such person for compensation.

xx. That all salaries, compensations, allowances on account of compensation, and retiring allowances, under this Act, shall be due from day to day, but shall be payable on the 3rd of February, the 3rd of May, the 3rd of August, and the 3rd of November in every year, or on such other days as the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time by any order direct, and shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto, or their respective executors or administrators, out of the fund standing in the name of the Accountant General of the High Court of Chancery, intituled "The Sutors Fee Fund Account."

And after reciting that it is expedient that the said fund should at all times be kept up to an amount sufficient to satisfy the charges thereon as well under this Act as under any former Act: And that in consequence of this Act, and the regulations to be made under it, some of the fees heretofore or under this Act payable to the said fund may be abolished and others may be diminished, by which the said fund may be reduced so as to be insufficient for the purposes of this Act and of the other charges on the said fund:—

It is Enacted,

XXII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, with such advice and consent as aforesaid, from time to time by any order to impose such fees on any proceedings in the Court of Chancery, or on business in any of the offices of the said Court, (including the offices under this Act,) as he may think necessary or expedient for maintaining the said fund, so that it may at all times be sufficient to satisfy all the charges thereon as well under this Act as any former Act.

XXIII. That if on the 28th of October in any year after the year 1842 there shall be a surplus standing to the credit of the said account intitled "The Suitors Fee Fund Account," after payment of the several charges hereby or by any former Act imposed thereon, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor by any order to direct that such part thereof as to the said Lord Chancellor shall seem fit shall be invested in the purchase of parliamentary or government securities in the name of the said Accountant General to be placed to the account intitled "Account of Monies placed out to provide for the Officers of the High Court of Chancery;" and it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, in like manner, to direct the investment of the dividends or interest to accrue from time to time on the securities now or at any time hereafter under this Act or any former Act to be placed to the said last-mentioned account, or so much of such dividends and interest as he shall think fit, in the purchase of parliamentary or government securities, in the name of the said Accountant General, to be by him placed to the credit of the said last-mentioned account; and as often as there shall be a deficiency in the said account, intitled "The Suitors Fee Fund Account" at any of the times appointed for payment of any of the charges hereby or by any former Act imposed thereon, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to direct the said Accountant General to make good such deficiency, by carrying over and placing to the said account intitled "The Suitors Fee Fund Account" a sum sufficient for that purpose out of the interest and dividends to the said account intitled "Account of Monies placed out to provide for the Officers of the High Court Chancery," or by a sale of so much of the said securities as may be necessary for that purpose; and as often as such last-mentioned securities, and the interest and dividends thereof, shall be insufficient to meet any such deficiency, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to direct the said Accountant General to make good such last-mentioned deficiency, by carrying over and placing to the said account intitled "The Suitors Fee Fund Account" a sum sufficient for that purpose out of the interest and dividends that have arisen or may hereafter arise from the government or parliamentary securities now or hereafter to be placed to two several accounts in the Bank of England standing in the name of the said Accountant General, and intitled "Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery," and "Account of Securities purchased with surplus Interest arising from Securities carried to an Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery," or either of them: Provided always, that the charges under this Act on any of the aforesaid funds shall rank next after the charges thereon at the passing of this Act.

XXIV. That as between compensations and allowances on account of compensations, and the salaries and other monies hereby charged on the funds hereinbefore mentioned, compensations and allowances on account of compensations shall have priority of payment over all such salaries and other monies; and further that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to purchase all or any of the compensations and retiring allowances awarded under this Act; and the money to be paid for every such purchase shall be paid out of the said fund intitled "An Account of Monies placed out to provide for the Officers of the High Court of Chancery," but without prejudice to the charges under this or any former Act for the time being existing on the said fund: Provided always, that no such purchase shall be made unless with the consent of the party entitled to the compensation or retiring allowance so to be purchased.

XXV. That the surplus interest and annual produce which hath arisen and shall arise from the monies placed out on the several accounts intitled "Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery," and "Account of Securities purchased with surplus Interest arising from Securities carried to an Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors in the High Court of Chancery," beyond what shall be sufficient to answer the purposes of this and the several other Acts relating to such securities, and also the interest produced from the securities purchased with such surplus interest and annual produce, shall from time to time be placed out in the purchase of government or parliamentary securities, in the name of the Accountant General of the said Court, and placed to the credit of the said account intitled "Account of Securities purchased with surplus Interest arising from Securities carried to an Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery."

XXVI. That if at any time hereafter the whole or any part of the monies placed out to the two several accounts intitled "Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery," and "Account of Securities purchased with surplus Interest arising from Securities carried to an Account of Monies placed out for the Benefit and better Security of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery," or to be placed out in pursuance of this Act, shall be wanted to answer any of the demands of the suitors of the said Court of Chancery, then and in such case the said Court may and shall direct the whole or any part of such monies to be called in, and the securities in which the same, and the surplus interest and dividends hereinbefore mentioned, shall be placed, to be sold and disposed of, in order that the suitors of the said Court may at all times be paid their respective demands out of the common and general cash belonging to such suitors.

XXVII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, by any order or orders of the said Court of Chancery, to authorize the charge of any security or securities, or of any part of the securities to be purchased in pursuance of this Act.

XXVIII. That it shall be lawful for the Master of the Rolls from time to time to appoint such messengers as he shall consider necessary for the business of the offices under this Act, and also such servants as he shall consider necessary for the care and cleaning of the said offices, and from time to time to remove any such messengers and servants, and appoint others; and the wages of every messenger and servant shall be such, and shall be paid out of the funds hereby charged with salaries, or such of them, and at such times and in such manner, as the Master of the Rolls shall by any order direct.

It is Enacted,

VI. That, notwithstanding anything in the said recited Act to the contrary, it shall not be necessary, in order to obtain such commission as aforesaid, for any person or persons to enter into such security as aforesaid by writing obligatory to our Sovereign Lady the Queen; but that, in lieu thereof, such person or persons shall enter into a bond or obligation in writing to the secretary for the time being of the said Commissioners of Public Works, together with a warrant of attorney for confessing judgment thereon (the entering of which judgment shall be in the discretion of the said Commissioners), whereby the obligor or obligors therein named shall bind themselves, himself or herself, their, his, or her executors or administrators, in such penalty, not being less than the amount of the estimate of the expense of the whole works proposed to be executed under the said commission, to execute and perform, within a time to be limited in such writing obligatory, the said works, conformably to the plan and specification thereof; and so often as any breach or default shall be made in the performance of all or any part of the condition of any bond or obligation which shall be entered into to the said secretary under the provisions of this Act, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners from time to time, at their discretion, to direct their solicitor for the time being to proceed against all or any of the obligors or obligor, his, her, or their heirs, executors, or administrators; and upon proof of any such breach or default, the jury shall award such sum for damages and costs as they shall think fit, not exceeding the penalty of the said bond or obligation; and such sum so awarded, when levied, shall be paid into the Bank of Ireland, to the credit of the said Commissioners, to be applied by them, under the direction of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, to the indemnification of any persons prejudiced by such breach or default, in such manner and proportions as he or they shall direct: Provided always, that the said Commissioners shall and they are hereby authorized, at any time, at their discretion, to direct against which of the obligors in any such bond, if there are more than one, proceedings shall be from time to time taken on any such bond or obligation, and by writing under their hands and seals, to be exhibited to the Barons of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer in Dublin, to direct any such proceedings to be discontinued, quashed, or abated, and the same shall thereupon be discontinued, quashed, or abated.

VIII. That where, after the issuing of a commission creating a joint stock company of undertakers under the said Act, any meeting of owners and occupiers has been heretofore or shall be hereafter summoned, under the said recited Act, by the chief or under secretary of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, for the purpose of appointing a person to act on behalf of such owners and occupiers in making a survey and valuation pursuant to the said recited Act, and such meeting has refused, neglected, or omitted, or shall refuse, neglect, or omit, to nominate and appoint a person for such purpose, it shall and may be lawful for such chief or under secretary, upon the application of such company for the time being, if he shall think fit, upon inquiry and consideration of all the circumstances of the case, to summon another meeting of owners and occupiers for the like purpose; and it shall be lawful for such meeting to adjourn from time to time, so as to such adjournment shall be made to any day later than three calendar months from such first meeting under this Act; and notices of such meeting, or any adjournment thereof, shall be published and given as in the said recited Act directed; and any person nominated and appointed by such meeting, or any adjourned meeting held within the said period of three months, shall be invested with all such powers and may do all such acts as if such person had been nominated and appointed under and by virtue of the said recited Act; and if any person so nominated and appointed by any such meeting, or otherwise, in the part of such owners or occupiers under this or the said recited Act, shall die, or shall become incapable of acting in discharge of the several duties prescribed for such person by such recited Act, then it shall and may be lawful for such chief or under secretary for the time being, upon the like application, to summon a meeting of owners and occupiers, in like manner as in the said recited Act pointed out, for the purpose of nominating and appointing another person in the place and stead of such person so dying or becoming incapable of acting as aforesaid; and such notice shall be published and given in manner pointed out by the said recited Act; and such person so appointed shall be authorized to do all the acts and be thereby invested with all the powers prescribed and conferred by the said recited Act to and upon persons nominated and appointed to make such survey and valuation as aforesaid: Provided always, that in the case of any company constituted a joint stock company before the passing of this Act, no such meeting as aforesaid shall be summoned unless upon an application to be made within twelve calendar months next after the passing of this Act, nor until it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland that a sum equal to one tenth part of the amount of the estimate made and subscribed under the provisions of the said recited Act for the purposes of the undertaking has been ~~be~~ raised, and paid into the hands of the treasurer of the company, and that not less than three fourths in number of the subscribers shall have paid up their shares of such part of the subscription.

Provided and enacted, That in such parts of any estuary or the mouth or tidal part of any river, where the breadth of the channel at low water of spring tides is less than three quarters of a mile statute measure, it shall not be lawful (anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding) for any person, save and except the proprietor of a several fishery in the whole of such estuary and river, to erect any such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance for placing or erecting a net; and that where the breadth of the mouth or entrance into the sea of any river, the inland portion of which is frequented by salmon, is less than half a mile statute measure at low water of spring tides, it shall not be lawful for any person whatsoever (save and except the proprietor of a several fishery within the limits thereof) to place or erect any such weir or net within one statute mile seaward, coastwards, or inwards from or on either side of the mouth or entrance of any such river into the sea, the mouth or entrance of such river to be defined and determined for such purpose by the said Commissioners; and if any person shall offend by erecting any such stake weir, stake bag, or other fixed net contrary to the provisions hereinbefore contained, he shall for every such offence forfeit a sum not exceeding 30*l.*, and shall also forfeit such weir or net; and the stakes thereof shall be ordered, by the Justice imposing such penalty as aforesaid, to be pulled down or destroyed at the expense of the person so offending.

XXIII. That nothing herein contained shall be construed to render illegal any stake weirs and other contrivances for placing or erecting nets which have been established for twenty years or upwards before the passing of this Act, in any estuary or portion of river within a tide way of less width than three fourths of a mile at low water of spring tides: Provided always, that nothing herein contained in regard to the period during which such weirs shall have been established or otherwise, shall be construed to increase, lessen, or affect the title of any party claiming to maintain such weir, or any party disputing such title, but all parties shall be entitled to their respective rights as if this Act had not been passed, except so far as such rights may depend on any Act hereby repealed, and provided also, that such weirs and contrivances shall in all other respects be subject to and the persons using or owning the same bound by the provisions of this Act.

XXIV. That nothing herein contained shall be construed to render illegal any stake weirs, ebb and flood weirs, and other contrivances for placing or erecting nets which have been established for ten years or upwards before the passing of this Act within the limits of a several fishery, in any estuary or portion of a river within a tide way of less width than three fourths of a mile at low water of spring tides, by any person legally possessed of or entitled to such several fishery by charter, grant, patent, prescription, or Act of Parliament, in and by which such limits are accurately defined: Provided always, that such weirs and contrivances shall in all other respects be subject to and bound by the provisions of this Act.

XXV. That nothing in this Act contained with regard to the restriction upon the erection of weirs in rivers and estuaries less than three quarters of a mile broad at low water of spring tides, shall be construed to apply to that ancient description of weir commonly called head weir, not fished by means of a fixed net, but the rights of every party now legally entitled by charter or prescriptive right to the erection and maintenance of such weir shall continue the same as if this Act had not passed: Provided always, that such weir shall in all other respects be subject to and the persons using or owning the same bound by the provisions of this Act.

XXVI. That no stake weir, stake net, nor any leader, outrigger, or other work of any kind or description whatsoever connected therewith or adjacent thereto, now erected or hereafter to be erected, shall be placed or erected or suffered to remain in such a manner as that the same shall extend to a greater distance than from high-water to low-water mark of spring tides, save and except in the case of ebb and flood weirs, commonly called head weirs, not fished by means of a fixed net; nor shall any such weir be so constructed as, in the judgment of the said Commissioners, to be capable of taking young or unsizable fish, or the fry of salmon or of any other fish; and the nets made use of in the formation and construction of the said stake weirs or stake nets, and of the leaders of all bag or other fixed nets, shall be extended evenly, in such a manner that the meshes of the said nets shall be stretched to their full opening; and that all bag nets shall be so placed and erected as that the netting of the leaders thereof can be raised and kept out of the water; and that stake weirs, stake nets, and other fixed nets shall be so placed and erected as that clear openings for the free passage of fish, as hereinafter provided, can be made in the pouches and traps thereof; and if any person shall offend by erecting, forming, or placing any weir, net, leader, engine, or work in any manner hereby prohibited, or neglected to construct the same in the mode required by the provisions hereinbefore contained, he shall for every such offence forfeit a sum not exceeding 10*l.*

XXVII. That it shall not be lawful for any person, save and except the proprietor of a several fishery within the limits thereof at any time to shoot, draw, or use any net for taking salmon at the mouth of any river opening into the sea (the inland or fresh-water portion of which river is frequented by salmon), where the breadth of such mouth between the banks thereof shall not exceed a quarter of a mile statute measure; and that it shall not be lawful for any person, save such proprietor as aforesaid, within such limits as aforesaid, to shoot, draw, or use any net for taking salmon within half a mile seaward, or along the coast from the mouth of any such river, such mouth to be defined and ascertained, in case of dispute, by the said commissioners; and that it shall not be lawful for any person, save and except the proprietor of a several fishery in the whole of a river and its tributaries, within the limits of such several fishery, to shoot, draw, or stretch nets entirely across the mouth or across any other part of any river; and if any person shall offend by shooting, drawing, or using any net in any place or manner hereby prohibited, he shall for every such offence forfeit a sum not exceeding 10*l*.

XVIII. That if any person shall resist or obstruct any persons lawfully engaged in fishing, or in proceeding to fish, or in returning from fishing as aforesaid, or shall wilfully and maliciously place any net or other engines, with the intent and design to prevent fish from entering the nets of other persons set or placed in a legal manner according to the provisions of this Act, every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 5*l*, and every such net or other engine so placed as aforesaid shall also be forfeited.

XXIX. That from and after the 1st of January 1844 no fish of the salmon kind shall be taken in or from any river, lake, or estuary whatsoever, or on the sea coast, between the 20th of August in any year and the 12th of February in the year following, by any person, save and except in any river, lake, or estuary, or on any part of the sea coast, where the catching of salmon shall be permitted during such period by the said Commissioners in conformity with the powers hereinafter vested in them or that purpose.

XXX. That no person shall kill, take, or destroy, in any lakes or rivers, any trout, between the 1st of October in any year and the 12th of February in the year following; nor shall any fixed crib, cruipe, box, or other device, nor any draw, haul, or other net of any description, for the catching of such trout, be used, in any lake or river frequented by salmon, between the 1st of August aforesaid and the 1st of October in any year, or at such periods between the terminations respectively of the pen seasons for catching salmon and trout as may be fixed for certain lakes and rivers by the said Commissioners as hereinafter mentioned.

XXXI. That it shall not be lawful for any person whatsoever, between the 10th of January and the 1st of July in any year, to hang or fix any coghill, eel, or other net or basket, or basket work, in the eye, gap, or sluice of any eel or other weir in any river, or to make use of any other fixed engine for taking eels, or between the 1st of July in any year and the 10th of January in the year following to keep or leave such net, basket, or other engine set, or in the water, in the eye, gaps, or sluices of such eel or other weirs, between sunrise and sunset.

XXXII. That it shall not be lawful for any person, between the 1st of May and the 1st of September in any year, to dredge, take, catch, or destroy any oyster or oyster brood, save and except where the season for taking the same shall be changed by the Commissioners according to the provisions hereinafter contained.

And after reciting that it may be found that the periods hereinbefore fixed within which it shall not be lawful to take salmon or trout, or to take eels by means of eel weirs, coghill nets, baskets, or other fixed engines or cruives, and the period hereinbefore fixed within which it shall not be lawful to dredge for oysters, may require to be changed as respects the fisheries in particular localities:—

It is Enacted,

XXXIII. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall so think fit, upon the application of any person possessed of or interested in any such fishery as aforesaid, to call a meeting of the persons possessed of or interested in such fisheries, giving notice of the day and place appointed for such meeting, by printed handbills, and advertisement to be inserted once in each month, for three months prior thereto, in some newspaper or newspapers published and circulating in the county or several counties within which, or on the coast whereof, such fisheries are in whole or in part situated; and shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to issue summonses for witnesses to attend and give evidence with respect to the said fisheries; and the said Commissioners shall hear and receive all such pertinent evidence as shall be offered to them on the subject of the said fisheries, and shall examine and inquire into the same, upon oath or otherwise, and by all such means as may be deemed expedient by them, and may, if they shall so think fit, decide that the period hereinbefore appointed for the close time of such fisheries respectively shall cease, and that such other period as shall then be fixed upon by them as the close time for any of such fisheries shall be kept and observed in lieu thereof, or alter, if so required as aforesaid, the period within which it shall not be lawful to hang any coghill or other nets in the gaps, eyes, or sluices of eel or other weirs, or make use of fixed engines for taking eels: Provided always, that such close season or period during which it shall not be lawful to take salmon shall not comprise fewer than one hundred and twenty-four days in each year, and also that the expenses of the application, and all proceedings consequent thereon, shall be defrayed by the person or persons who shall have signed the application; and provided also, that the close season for salmon in all rivers in Ireland shall, as hereinbefore provided, remain, as at present, until the 1st of January 1844.

XXXIV. That the decision as to the close time of any district, or of any lake or river, or as to the periods within which it shall be lawful to take eels by means of eel weirs, coghill nets, baskets, or other fixed engines, shall be published in the Dublin Gazette, and in some one newspaper circulating in the county or each of the counties within which such district is in whole or in part situated, or such lake or river is situate, or in whole or in part flows, and a copy thereof lodged in the office or offices of the clerk or clerks of the peace, and clerks of petty sessions, for such county or counties aforesaid; and the said Commissioners shall give to said decision such further publicity, either by the posting of handbills or otherwise, as to them shall seem fit; and for the purpose of convicting any person or persons offending against such decision, a copy of the gazette containing the decision, or an attested copy of such decision, obtained from the office of the clerk of the peace with whom the same may be lodged, and who is hereby required to furnish the same on payment of a sum not exceeding 2*d*. for every seventy-two words, shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of such decision and the due publication thereof: Provided always, that in case the said Commissioners shall decide upon altering the close season herein fixed for such fisheries as aforesaid, such change or alteration shall not commence and take effect until the expiration of three months from the date of the said decision.

XXXV. That the close time so fixed shall be the close time of the district or of the lake or river in respect of which such decision shall have been made, instead of the time mentioned in this Act, and shall be observed and kept as if the time so determined by the said Commissioners had been mentioned in this Act, and shall thereafter continue so to be until changed by the said Commissioners; and that at any time after the expiration of three years from the commencement thereof, or at any time after the expiration of a like period of three years from the commencement of any subsequent change to be made in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, upon the like application, and if upon like inquiry they shall so think fit, again to change the same; and the same proceedings towards the so doing as are hereinbefore prescribed in relation to the first change shall take place on each such future change, and the same provisions shall apply thereto.

XXXVI. That if, during the close season for salmon now fixed by any Act in force in Ireland, or which after the 1st of January 1844 will become fixed by this Act, or shall be from time to time fixed by the said Commissioners as aforesaid, as the close time for or in respect of any river, lake, estuary, or any part of the sea coast, any person shall wilfully take or fish for, or aid or assist in taking or fishing for, any salmon or trout therein or therefrom, such person shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 10*l*. for every such offence, and shall also forfeit every fish so taken, and every net or engine by which the same may have been taken; and if any person shall buy, sell, or expose to sale, or have in his custody or possession, any salmon or trout so caught in close time as aforesaid, such person shall forfeit each and every such fish, and a sum not exceeding 1*l*. for each such fish; and in any proceeding for the recovery of the said last-mentioned penalty proof that such person had the salmon or trout in his custody or possession during such close season shall be prima facie evidence that the said salmon or trout was caught during the close season as aforesaid; and if any person shall place or hang any coghill or eel nets or baskets, or other fixed modes of catching fish, in the eyes, gaps, or sluices of eel or other weirs, within the periods prohibited by this Act, or to be prohibited by the said Commissioners in pursuance of this Act, such person shall forfeit such nets and shall pay or forfeit a sum not exceeding 10*l*. for each such net; and if any person shall hang or set, or leave hung or set, such nets as last aforesaid, between sunrise and sunset, within the periods allowed for the said fishery, such person so offending shall forfeit the said nets, and shall pay or forfeit a sum not exceeding 5*l*. for each such net; and in any proceedings against any person for the recovery of any penalty incurred by violation of the provisions aforesaid, proof that such person is the occupier of such weir shall be prima facie evidence that the said nets were hung or set, or left hung or set by him; and if any person shall dredge for, take, catch, or destroy, have in his possession, sell, or buy, any oysters or oyster brood within the period prohibited by this Act, or within the period to be prohibited by the said Commissioners in pursuance of this Act, such person shall forfeit such oysters, and forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*. for each offence; provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the proprietor of any oyster bed, or any person deriving under him, from removing or laying down oyster brood during such close season.

XXXVII. That during the close season for salmon so fixed by any Act now in force in Ireland, or which shall after the 1st of January 1844 become fixed under this Act, or which shall be fixed as aforesaid by the said Commissioners, every occupier or farmer of any fishery shall remove and carry away or cause to be removed and carried away, from such fishery, and the weirs, dikes, and dams connected therewith, and from the river or stream in which such weirs, dikes, or dams are placed, and from the landing places adjoining thereto, all and every engine, spear, hand net, or other net, inscale, heck, and rails of all cruives, boxes, or cribs, used for the purpose of taking or killing salmon, and the tops of such cruives, boxes, or cribs, and all planks and temporary engines and fixtures used and required for the fishing of the same; and that all and every obstruction to the free passage of the fish in and through each and every such cruiwe, crib, or box be wholly removed and carried away within thirty-six hours after the expiration of the open season so fixed as aforesaid, and shall not be again placed or allowed to be placed or to remain therein until within thirty-six hours of the commencement of such open season; and in case any such occupier or farmer shall omit or neglect so to remove all and every such net, engine, or other tackle, contrivance, or obstruction as aforesaid, and to keep the same apart from the said fisheries during the time aforesaid, or shall neglect to maintain and keep such cribs, boxes, or cruives free from all obstructions to the passage of fish, during the time aforesaid, he shall forfeit all such nets, engines, or other tackle or contrivance as aforesaid, and shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 50*l*., and shall also for every day during which he shall suffer such obstacles and other things to remain and be unrecovered beyond the period prescribed by this Act, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*.; and it shall be lawful to and for the Justice of the Peace before whom the person so offending shall be convicted to order the removal and sale of such nets, engines, or other tackle at the expense of the person so offending: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to render liable to any penalty any person who shall be prevented by floods, storm, or stress of weather from removing any such net, engine, or tackle during the continuance of such prevention; and provided also, that the proprietor or farmer of any salmon weir now legally entitled by any patent, charter, or otherwise to a right of fishing for eels in such weir, and who has exercised such right previous to the passing of this Act, shall not be liable to any penalty on account of his placing, hanging, or using coghill or eel nets or baskets in the eyes or gaps of such weir, if such coghill or eel nets or baskets be only used in conformity with the provisions of this Act, and be only hung in four-fifths in number of the eyes or gaps of such weir, and the other one-fifth of such eyes or gaps, in addition to the Queen's or free pass, be kept open and unobstructed for the free passage of all kinds of fish, as herein provided; and provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt such proprietor or farmer from liability to the penalties by this Act directed in case any salmon or trout shall be killed, taken, or caught in such weir during close season, or in case he shall not keep open and unobstructed, according to the provisions of this Act, one-fifth in number, as aforesaid, of the eyes or gaps of the said weir.

XXXVIII. That during the close season for salmon so fixed under any Act now in force, or which shall after the said 1st of January 1844 become fixed by this Act, or which shall be fixed by the said Commissioners as aforesaid, every proprietor, lessee, or other person who shall be engaged in fishing for salmon by means of fixed engines, shall remove and carry away, or cause to be removed and carried away, from the poles or fixtures to which they shall be attached, all stake nets, bag nets, sole nets, fly nets, or other devices or engines used for the purpose of taking salmon, except where such nets, devices, or engines shall be formed of wood, iron, copper, or other rigid substance, in which case a clear opening of four feet in width shall be made and maintained in and completely through the pouches, traps, or chambers of all such nets, devices or engines, from the top to the bottom of such pouches, traps, or chambers, and in the eyes of flood and ebb weirs, commonly called head weirs, so as to allow the free passage of salmon and other fish through the same, and effectually to prevent the catching or taking of any fish therein; and in case any such person shall omit or neglect to remove or carry away all such nets and engines, or, as the case may be, to make and maintain free from all obstruction such openings as aforesaid, during the times aforesaid, he shall forfeit all such nets or engines, and shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 50*l.*, and shall also for every day during which such nets or engines shall remain and be unremoved beyond the period prescribed by this Act, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l.*: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to render liable to any penalty any person who shall be prevented by storm or stress of weather from removing such nets or engines, or making such openings as aforesaid, during the continuance of such prevention.

And after reciting that soles, turbot, sprats, hake, and other white sea fish are now caught by means of weirs in the tide ways of certain rivers during the close salmon season, and it is expedient that such fisheries should, under certain restrictions, be permitted:—

It is Enacted,

XXIX. That it shall be lawful for all persons now legally entitled by charter or prescriptive right to the use of such weirs to continue to use them for the purpose of catching white fish, notwithstanding its being the close salmon season, provided they obtain the licence of the Commissioners appointed under this Act to do so; and it shall be lawful to the said Commissioners to issue their licence accordingly for such period as they may think proper; provided, however, that all such weirs shall be subject in all other respects to the provisions of this Act, and to such bye-laws and regulations as may be made in regard to them by the said Commissioners, pursuant to the powers reserved to them in this Act.

XL. That it shall not be lawful, in inland lakes or rivers, to take, kill, or fish for any salmon or trout in or by any crib, box, cruive, eye, sluice, or gap in any eel or other weir or dam, or by any nets of what nature or kind soever, between six of the clock on Saturday evening and six of the clock on Monday morning; and that it shall not be lawful, in the sea or any estuaries or tide ways, to take, kill, or fish for any salmon or trout in or by any stake, flood, ebb, or head weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or other net whatsoever, between the low water next in point of time before six of the clock on Saturday night and the low water next in point of time before six of the clock on Monday morning, but that in each of such stake, flood, ebb, or head weir, and stake net, a clear opening of at least four feet in width, shall be made, and kept free from obstruction, in the pouches, traps, chambers, or eyes of the same, from the bottom to the top thereof, so as effectually to allow of the free passage of salmon and other fish through such pouches, traps, chambers, and eyes during such weekly close time; and that the netting of the leader of each and every such bag, fly, sole, or other fixed net of similar construction, shall during such time be raised and kept out of the water; and also that in all rivers, lakes, and tide ways all other nets and baskets whatsoever, except those used for the taking of eels, shall be wholly removed and taken out of the water for and during the space of time above mentioned: and the in-scales or gates and rails or framework of all such cribs, boxes, or cruives for the catching of salmon, or other fish of the salmon kind, shall be removed out of or opened in each such crib, box, or cruive, eye, sluice, or gap, in every salmon or other weir wherein salmon may be caught, in such a manner that a clear opening of not less than four feet in width from the bottom to the top of each such crib, box, or cruive shall be left therein, and that a free, direct, and uninterrupted space or opening of the said width shall be effectually secured for the passage of fish of all kinds, both up and down, through such boxes, cribs, or cruives; and any person occupying or using any such box, crib, cruive, stake, flood, ebb, or head weir, stake, bag, or other fixed net, basket, or other engines for catching fish, and failing to remove or open the same as required by this Act, and any person using any means, device or contrivance to prevent the free passage through such box, crib, cruive, or engine, or in any way or by any means wilfully frightening or scaring, or attempting to frighten or scare, any salmon or other fish from passing through such box, crib, cruive, pouch, trap, eye, sluice, gap, or other engine, or taking therein any salmon between six of the clock on Saturday evening and six of the clock on Monday morning, or between the low waters next in point of time to those periods respectively, as the case may be, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not less than 5*l.* and not exceeding 50*l.*: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to render liable to any penalty any person who shall be prevented by floods, storm, or stress of weather from removing such leaders, or making such openings as aforesaid, during the continuance of such prevention.

XLI. That from and after the 1st of January 1843, in all standing weirs, dams, or dykes, of what nature or kind soever, which extend more than halfway across any river at the lowest state of the water thereof, or more than halfway across any branch thereof, for the purpose of catching salmon, eels, or other fish, a free gap or Queen's share shall be left or formed in the deepest part of such river or any such branch as aforesaid, and shall be constructed in such manner that the sides of the said free gap or Queen's share shall be in the line of and parallel to the natural direction of the stream of such river or branch as aforesaid, and that the bottom thereof shall be level with the natural bed of such river or branch as aforesaid above and below such gap or Queen's share, and that the width thereof, at its narrowest point, shall be not less than forty feet in the clear in all such rivers or branches as aforesaid of and exceeding four hundred feet in breadth, and not less in the clear than one-tenth part of the breadth of such river or branch thereof in all such rivers or branches as aforesaid of less than four hundred feet and not less than one hundred feet in breadth, and not less than ten feet in the clear in all such rivers or branches as aforesaid of less than one hundred feet and not less than fifty feet in breadth, and not less than five feet in the clear in all such rivers and branches as aforesaid of less breadth than fifty feet, the breadth of such rivers or branches as aforesaid in all cases to be ascertained by measuring the breadth of the natural bed thereof at the place where such weir, dam, or dyke shall be erected, without reference to any walls, artificial banks, or erections; and in cases of dispute relative to any of the matters aforesaid the same shall be determined by the said Commissioners; and that in all weirs, dams, or dykes in which a free gap or Queen's share at present exists, such free gap or Queen's share shall not be reduced in width, nor shall any free gap or Queen's share of less width be substituted in lieu thereof, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding; and if any person entitled to or possessed of the fishing of such river or branch thereof, or any weir, dam, or dyke, shall omit or neglect to leave or form such free gap or Queen's share of the dimensions, or in the place, or to construct it in the manner hereinbefore required, or shall reduce the width of any existing free gap or Queen's share, or substitute a free gap or Queen's share of less width in lieu thereof, such person so offending shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 50*l.*, and shall also for every day during which such free gap or Queen's share shall not be left or formed of the dimensions, or in the place, or shall not be constructed in the manner hereinbefore required, or shall be reduced in width, or shall remain of less width than that in lieu of which it is substituted, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l.*: Provided always, that the person entitled to or lawfully possessed of any weir, dam, or dyke, in which by law no such free gap or Queen's share could previous to the passing of this Act be enforced to be made or widened, shall not be liable to any penalty by reason of his not widening or making, as the case may be, such free gap or Queen's share, until his claim (if any) for compensation for the loss or damage he may sustain by widening or making such free gap or Queen's share be settled and disposed of, and the amount of compensation (if any) paid, tendered, or lodged, according to the provisions hereinafter contained.

XLII. That in all cases of weirs, dams, and dykes in which no free gap or Queen's share could by law previous to the passing of this Act be enforced to be made, or in which the free gap or Queen's share shall not be of the width hereinbefore specified, and could not by law previous to the passing of this Act be widened, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, upon the application of any proprietor of fisheries in or lands adjoining to the river in which any such weir, dam, or dyke shall be situate, and who shall deposit or secure, to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, the amount of the cost of all proceedings necessary to be taken under the provisions herein contained, to serve a notice on the proprietor, lessee, or occupier of such weir, or at his or their known place of abode, and thereby to require the proprietor of such weir, dam, or dyke to enlarge or open a free gap or Queen's share therein of such dimensions as the said Commissioners shall deem fit and shall name in such notice, not exceeding the dimensions hereinbefore specified, and to furnish his claim for compensation, or his objections, if any, to making or widening such free gap or Queen's share within a time to be specified in such notice, not less than thirty days from the service thereof on the proprietor, lessee, or occupier of such weir.

XLIII. That every proprietor or other owner of any such weir, dam, or dyke, or of any share, estate, or interest therein, may accept and receive as satisfaction and recompense for the value of any injury or damage that shall be sustained on account of opening or enlarging such free gap or Queen's share, or in anywise relating thereto, such sum of money in respect thereof as shall be agreed upon between him respectively and the said Commissioners; and in case the said Commissioners and the said party interested in such weir, dam, or dyke, or sustaining such injury or damage, cannot or do not agree as to the amount or value of such satisfaction, recompense, or compensation, the same respectively shall be ascertained and settled in manner hereinafter directed.

XLIV. That if any such proprietor of such weir, dam, or dyke, as aforesaid shall neglect or refuse to treat, or shall not agree with the said Commissioners, or, by reason of absence or disability, cannot agree, or cannot be found or known, or shall not prove to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners a clear title to receive such recompense or compensation as aforesaid, or in case any such proprietor of a weir, dam, or dyke wherein such gap is to be opened or enlarged as aforesaid shall not accept such satisfaction or recompense for the same as shall be offered by the said Commissioners, for the space of thirty days after notice in writing given to the known agent or attorney of such proprietor as aforesaid, or left at his place of abode, or at the house of the lessee of such weir, wherein such gap is intended to be opened or enlarged as aforesaid, or in case the proprietors of fisheries in or proprietors or owners of lands adjoining the river in which such weir, dam, or dyke shall be situate shall not agree with the proprietor of such weir, dam, or dyke, or shall not subscribe and deposit the amount which the said Commissioners may agree upon with the said proprietor of such weir, dam, or dyke as the amount of compensation to be paid for enlarging or opening such free gap or Queen's share, or shall not agree upon the proportions in which such amount of compensation is to be paid by the several proprietors respectively, then in every such case the said Commissioners are hereby empowered, at a time and place to be specified in a notice to be served as aforesaid, and published once in the Dublin Gazette, and once in each week for three successive weeks in a newspaper circulating in the county or counties in which such weir, dam, or dyke shall be situate, and through or by which such river shall flow, to inquire and examine, and assess and award the sum of money to be paid for such satisfaction or recompense as aforesaid, and ascertain and settle in what proportions the proprietors of fisheries in such river, or in any river or stream tributary thereto, or proprietors or owners of lands adjoining the same, should contribute to pay the sum so awarded, and the said Commissioners shall award such recompense so to be assessed; and the said Commissioners shall in such award name or describe the persons (if known to the said Commissioners) to whom respectively the sum mentioned therein shall be paid, and in what proportions the same shall be paid to and among such persons where more than one, and the weir, naming or describing the same, in respect of which such sum has been so awarded, and the position and breadth of such free gap or Queen's share, and the names or other description of the fisheries or lands, as the case may be, the proprietors or owners of which are to contribute the amount awarded for such satisfaction or recompense as aforesaid, and the proportion to be contributed by each respectively; and the said Commissioners shall notify and appoint a time and place for holding a meeting for the confirmation of their said award, and shall attend at such time and place, and at such meeting, or at some adjournment thereof, proceed to consider each case, and hear all objections which may be made thereto by any person whatsoever, and receive all such evidence as they shall find pertinent and proper, and amend or confirm and settle each such award accordingly; and such award shall be conclusive and binding upon the Queen's most excellent Majesty, and all other persons interested, except in the case and subject to the provisions hereinafter contained: Provided always, that the person who shall under the provision before mentioned be deemed a proprietor of lands, shall be the proprietor in fee simple or fee tail, or for a lease of lives renewable for ever, or for life, with remainder to his issue, or for ever, or for a term of which not less than one hundred years are unexpired, and from whom the fishery or right of fishing shall not have been reserved.

XLV. That if the proprietor or other person claiming compensation on account of such enlarging or opening of the free gap or Queen's share in such weir, dam, or dyke, or any person liable to pay such compensation as aforesaid, shall be dissatisfied with the award of the said Commissioners, it shall be lawful for the person so dissatisfied to appeal to the Judges of assize, or one of them, at the assizes which shall be held next after any such award shall have been made and settled as aforesaid for the county wherein such weir, dam, or dyke shall be wholly or in part situate (provided the same shall not be held sooner than thirty-one days after the making of such award), the party appealing, if there be sufficient time after the making of such award, having first given to the said Commissioners twenty-one days notice at least of his intention of bringing such appeal, and of the matter thereof; and if there shall not be thirty-one days between the making of such award and the day appointed for holding such assizes, then such appeal may be tried at the assizes which shall be holden for such county next after the expiration of thirty-one days from the making such award, and the like notice thereof shall be given; and any Judge at such assizes, or any adjournment thereof, upon due proof of such notice having been given, is hereby empowered and required to hear and finally determine the matter of such appeal, in such and the same manner as he is at present empowered to do in cases of appeal from decrees on civil bills made by assistant barristers at quarter sessions in Ireland: Provided always, that if such dam, weir, or dyke shall be situate in more than one county or between two or more counties, such appeal shall be tried at the assizes to be held in the county the assize town of which shall be nearest to such weir, dam, or dyke; and provided also, that if no notice of appeal shall be served on the said Commissioners within twenty-one days next after their award shall be made, the same shall be final, binding, and conclusive upon all persons and to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

XLVI. That in all such cases of appeal as aforesaid the said Judges of assize or one of them shall give judgment in respect to the matter of such appeal, and such judgment shall be final, binding, and conclusive to all intents and purposes against all parties, corporations, and persons.

XLVII. That such of the aforesaid awards of the said Commissioners as shall not be appealed from, and the judgments so given as aforesaid, shall be respectively transmitted to and be kept by the respective clerks of the peace of the counties in which the land in respect of which such awards or judgments shall have been respectively made shall be situate, and shall be deposited with the records, and deemed records of such counties respectively to all intents and purposes; and the same or certified copies thereof, shall be allowed to be good evidence in all courts whatsoever; and all persons shall have liberty to inspect the same, paying for such inspection the sum of 6d., or to have copies thereof, paying for every copy the sum of 1½d. for every seventy-two words, and so in proportion for any greater or less number of words.

XLVIII. That if the persons who, under any award or judgment made as aforesaid, shall be liable to pay two-thirds in amount of the sum so awarded, assessed, or ascertained, shall at any time subsequent to the depositing of such award or judgment with the clerk of the peace as aforesaid, signify to the said Commissioners their assent in writing to such award or judgment, then and in such case the said Commissioners shall cause a final notice to be served on the proprietor, lessee, or occupier of such weir, dam, or dyke, and a copy thereof to be published once in the Dublin Gazette, and once in each week for three successive weeks in some one or more newspapers circulating in the county or counties in which such weir, dam, or dyke shall be situate, stating that such assent had been duly given, and that all the requisites of this Act in respect to the making such award or judgment had been fully complied with, and calling upon all parties liable under such award or judgment to pay to the said Commissioners, within a time to be specified in such notice, not less than three months from the date thereof, the sums of money which such parties thereby became liable to pay; and the publication of such notice shall be deemed final and conclusive evidence that such assent had been given, and that the several preliminary measures hereinbefore required to be taken and observed in respect to such award or judgment had been duly taken and observed; and from and after the publication of such notice all the proprietors for the time being of the fisheries or lands named in such award or judgment shall be liable and bound to contribute the sum awarded, assessed, or ascertained, in the proportions fixed by such award or judgment.

XLIX. That if any portion of the money so to be contributed shall remain unpaid to the said Commissioners after the expiration of the period fixed by such notice as last aforesaid, then it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to recover the same from the proprietors of the fisheries or lands named or described in the said award or judgment, who shall make default in the payment thereof, by civil bill, or by action or suit in any of the superior courts in Dublin.

L. That upon receipt of the money so agreed, awarded, or adjudged to be paid as satisfaction or recompense for enlarging or opening such free gap or Queen's share in such weir, dam, or dyke, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the said Commissioners shall forthwith pay over the same to the parties entitled to receive the same by virtue of such agreement, award or judgment, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

LI. That if any money shall be adjudged or awarded to be paid for any free gap or Queen's share so enlarged or opened as aforesaid, by virtue of the powers of this Act, in any weir, dam, or dyke which shall belong to any corporation, or to any trustee or feeoffee, executor or administrator, or any husband, guardian, or committee for or on behalf of any feme covert, infant, idiot, or lunatic, or to a tenant for life, or any person who shall have no power to give a valid receipt for the same, such money shall, in case the same shall amount to or exceed the sum of 200*l.*, with all convenient speed be paid into the Bank of Ireland in the name and with the privy of the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery or Exchequer, to be placed to his account there ex parte the Commissioners for executing this Act, setting forth the title hereof, and without fee or reward, and shall, when so paid in, there remain until the same shall, by order of the said court, made upon a petition to be preferred to the said court in a summary way by the person who would have been entitled to the said compensation as aforesaid, be invested by the said Accountant General, in his name, in the purchase of any stocks, funds, or annuities transferable at the Bank of Ireland; and the dividends or annual produce thereof shall from time to time be paid to the person who would for the time being have been entitled to the said compensation as aforesaid.

LII. Provided and enacted, That if any money so adjudged or awarded to be paid for any land, such compensation as aforesaid belonging to any corporation or to any person as last aforesaid, shall be less than the sum of 200*l.*, and shall amount to or exceed the sum of 20*l.*, then and in all such cases the same shall, at the option of the person for the time being entitled to the compensation aforesaid, or of his guardian or committee, in case of infancy, lunacy, or other incapacity, to be signified in writing under their common seal or respective hands (as the case may require), be paid into the Bank of Ireland in the name and with the privy of the said Accountant General, and be placed to his account as aforesaid, in order to be applied in the manner hereinbefore directed; or otherwise the same may be paid, at the like option and with the like approbation, to two or more trustees, to be nominated by the person who for the time being would be entitled to the compensation as aforesaid, such nomination to be approved of by the said Commissioners, and such nomination and approbation to be signified in writing under the hands or common seal of the nominating and approving parties; and the monies so paid to such trustees, and the dividends and produce arising thereon, may be applied by such trustees in like manner as is hereinbefore directed with respect to the money so to be invested in the Bank of Ireland, without being required to obtain any order of the Court of Chancery or Exchequer touching the application thereof.

LIII. Provided and enacted, That if any money so adjudged or awarded to be paid as hereinbefore mentioned shall be less than 20*l.*, then and in every such case the same shall be paid to the person who would for the time being have been entitled to the compensation aforesaid, for his own use and benefit, or, in case of infancy or lunacy, or other incapacity, then to the person acting as guardian, committee, or trustee of such person, to and for the use and benefit of the person entitled thereto.

LIV. That it shall not be lawful to construct or attach to, or permit to remain if already constructed or attached to, any cruiwe weir or cruiwe dam used for fishing in any river any spur or tail wall, leader or outrigger, of any kind or description whatsoever, of a greater length than twenty feet from the upper or lower side respectively of the walls or piers of such weir or dam, except the wall or leader connecting the cribs of such weir or dam with the bank of the river; nor shall any such wall or walls, leader or outrigger be so built or constructed as to narrow up or prevent the ingress and discharge of the water through or from the free opening or Queen's share in such river or stream; nor shall any island or natural formation in any river be so made use of as to secure the proprietor of any fishery the same advantage which such proprietor would have obtained by the erection of a tail wall of greater length than twenty feet; nor shall any such walls or leaders be constructed or suffered to remain in narrow rivers or other places of a greater length than the said Commissioners, upon application made to them for that purpose, shall determine and approve, anything in this Act contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding; and if any person having a fishing weir or dam shall construct, or suffer to remain if already constructed, any spur or tail wall, leader or outrigger of greater length than aforesaid, or of greater length than the said Commissioners shall approve, shall offend contrary hereto, such person so offending shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, and shall also for every day during which such spur or tail walls, leader or outrigger, so constructed in contravention of the provisions of this Act, shall be allowed to remain, forfeit a sum of 5*l.*

LV. Provided and enacted, That nothing hereinbefore contained respecting the making or maintaining such free gap or Queen's share, or the length of such spur or tail walls, or such island or natural formation, shall be construed to extend to weirs, banks, or heads used for sustaining a supply of water to mills, factories, or navigation, so as injuriously to affect the necessary supply of water thereto, if such weirs, banks, or heads shall not be made use of for the purpose of taking salmon or other fish in any manner whatsoever.

LVI. Provided and enacted, That if any weir, dam, or bank used for sustaining a supply of water to mills, factories, or navigation shall be, by virtue of Act of Parliament, charter, or prescription, legally used for the catching of salmon or other fish, nothing hereinbefore contained respecting the making or maintaining a free gap or Queen's share, or the length of such spur or tail walls, shall be construed to extend to such weir, dam, or bank, so as injuriously to affect the necessary supply of water to such mill, factory, or navigation.

LVII. That no person or persons shall fish with rod and line, or in any other manner, in any part of such free gap or Queen's share in any weir in any river, or hang, fix, set, or use, within the space of fifty yards above or below any part of such weir, any net, basket, or other engine whatsoever for the taking of fish, or in order to deter or prevent fish from going up or down the same, or place any obstruction, or throw any gravel, clay, stones, or other matter into the same, nor shall beat the water, or place or set any bridge, board, cloth, or any other thing whatsoever in, over, or across the same (save and except a temporary bridge or board during the time only when the persons engaged in the fishing of the said weir shall be passing over the same), nor shall in any manner prevent the free and uninterrupted passage of fish through the same at all periods of the year; and every person offending herein shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 30*l.*; and all such obstructions shall be forthwith removed at the expense of such person upon the order of the Justice imposing such penalty as aforesaid; and in any proceeding against any person for the recovery of any penalties incurred by violation of the provisions aforesaid, proof that such person is the occupier or owner of such weir shall be taken as prima facie evidence that such obstructions were placed by him.

LVIII. That every box, crib, or cruiwe used for the taking of salmon shall be so constructed that the upper surface of the sole or bottom thereof shall be level with the natural bed or channel of the river; and the inscales of every box, crib, or cruiwe shall be so constructed that no part of the bars thereof shall approach nearer to each other than two inches, and that the same shall be capable of being removed, and during the weekly close period such inscales shall be opened to the full width of four feet, and during other close periods such inscales shall be wholly taken out, so that the space within the box shall present no obstruction or obstacle whatever to salmon passing through such box, crib, or cruiwe; and the bars or rails of such inscales, and of the heck or the up-stream side of the box or crib, shall be so constructed that no part of the rails thereof shall approach nearer to each other than two inches; and such up-stream rails shall be placed perpendicularly, and during the weekly close time be either entirely removed and taken out, or so opened or fastened back that a space of four feet shall be completely free and clear in each such box, crib, or cruiwe; and the said Commissioners are hereby authorized from time to time to make such orders or regulations with respect to the formation and structure of such boxes or cribs, or other fixed engines for catching salmon, as shall be deemed expedient and necessary to suit any improved methods proposed to be adopted; and any person using or constructing any such box, crib, or cruiwe contrary to the provisions of this Act, or to the said orders and regulations, shall for each such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 20*l.*: Provided always, that in all cases in which the principal or a considerable part of the value of any weirs has hitherto consisted in catching trout, the said Commissioners are hereby authorized from time to time to regulate and to make orders for the regulation of such weirs, and of the boxes, cribs, and cruiwes therein, so as to lessen the space between the inscales and rails thereof respectively to such space as shall be fit and proper for the catching of trout.

LIX. That if the proprietor or farmer of any weir, dam, dyke, crib, or box for the taking of fish shall not, on or before the 1st of January 1843, or, so far as relates to the enlarging or opening a free gap or Queen's share in cases where, under the provisions aforesaid, compensation is to be paid, within such time after the payment of such compensation as the said Commissioners shall appoint, alter such dam, weir, or works, and complete or construct the same, or remove the illegal and objectionable parts thereof, so as to make the same conformable to the provisions of this Act, or to the orders and regulations of the said Commissioners, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners to make or open, or order and direct, by a warrant under their hands and seals, to be made or opened, a gap of the prescribed dimensions, and the tail and spur walls of such weirs or dams to be removed or altered, and the railwork or inscales of cribs not made in compliance with this Act to be removed, and all other necessary alterations to be made in such weirs, dams, or dykes, cribs or boxes, at the expense of the offender; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, or any person authorized by them, to enter upon such dam, weir, or works as aforesaid, and to do all such acts as shall be necessary for the execution of such warrant.

LX. That in all cases where the said Commissioners shall, by virtue of the provisions in this Act contained, open or cause to be opened, in any weir, dam, or dyke, a gap of the dimensions prescribed by this Act, or remove any obstructions hereby declared to be illegal, it shall not be necessary for the said Commissioners, or any person executing their orders, to rebuild any part of such weir, dam, or dyke, or of the works appertaining thereto, nor to fix up or erect altered or improved boxes, rails, or cruives, nor shall they be answerable or accountable for any damage or injury arising to such weir, dam, or dyke, or to such box, rail, or cruiue, in consequence of such removal as aforesaid.

LXI. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to give any right whatsoever to any person to erect or maintain any weir, dam, or leader which is or shall be an obstruction or hindrance to the navigation of any river, or to the free and uninterrupted discharge of the waters of the same, either for the purpose of draining the lands adjoining thereto, or of improving the water power thereof for the use of mills or factories; nor, except as hereinbefore provided with respect to stake and fixed weirs, shall any thing herein contained tend to legalize any weir now or which may be hereafter erected, for the erection of which a good, sufficient, and valid title in the law does not exist.

LXII. That if in any river, reefs or ledges of rocks, shoals, or other natural obstructions, prevent and impede the free passage and migration of salmon, trout, and other fish, and hinder the approach and access of the same to the upper parts of the said rivers, or any lakes communicating therewith, and depositing their spawn therein, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners (if they so think fit), upon the application of any person interested in the fishery of such river or lake, to deposit or secure a sum of money sufficient for the purpose, to construct, authorize, or contract with any person interested in the fisheries in the said river to construct such works, and make such alterations in the bed of such river, as shall effectually secure a free and uninterrupted passage at all seasons of the year for salmon, trout, eels, and other fish; and the plan, sections, specifications, and contracts for all such works or alterations shall be previously sanctioned by the said Commissioners; and for the purpose of executing any such work, and ascertaining all compensation for damage and other matters in relation thereto, the said Commissioners and their officers and servants shall have and exercise all and every the powers and authorities vested in them as Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland under and by virtue of the several statutes in that behalf made and provided: Provided always, that such works or alterations in the bed of such river or rivers shall not be made in such a manner as to injure the effective power of any mill or factory, or in any way to impede or interrupt the drainage of lands adjoining such river; and provided also, that reasonable compensation be made by the parties applying for any damage or injury done or to be done or suffered consequently or otherwise in the execution of such works.

LXIII. That every dam, weir, dyke, or other erection which shall, after the passing of this Act, be placed in or across any river frequented by salmon, for sustaining the water of such river for mill power, navigation, irrigation, or other purposes, shall be so built or constructed as to permit and allow of, in one or more parts of the same, the free run or migration of salmon, trout, and other fish at all periods of the year, and that such provision for the free passage of the fish through such dam, weir, or dyke as aforesaid shall be made at the expense of the person forming such dam, weir, or dyke, and in such manner as the said Commissioners shall approve; and that with respect to weirs, dams, or dykes at present erected in or across rivers frequented by salmon, for sustaining the water of such river for mill power, navigation, irrigation, or other purposes, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall deem it fit and necessary for the benefit of the fisheries thereof, the application of one or more of the persons interested in the fishery of such river wherein the same shall be placed, at the proper costs and charges of the persons interested in such fishery as aforesaid, to cause a survey of the said dam, weir, or dyke to be made by some competent engineer or surveyor, and to direct such alterations to be made therein, or such additional work to be added thereto, as shall in the opinion of the said Commissioners be necessary and desirable, for the purpose of affording a free and uninterrupted passage to the fish frequenting such river, without impairing the navigation lessening or impairing the effective working power of the mill or factory to which such dam, weir, or dyke belongs; and the owners or occupiers of all such mills or factories are hereby directed and required, at any time or times during which such mill or factory shall not be at work, or when the waterwheel or watercourses thereof shall not be undergoing such repairs as shall require the water above such mill to be run off, to stop and close up in dry seasons all other waste gates or spillways, so as to direct and force the surplus water of such river or stream through the passage so prepared as aforesaid for the migration of salmon, trout, and other fish; and in case any such owner or occupier of such mill or factory shall neglect or refuse to comply with the directions hereinbefore contained, such person or persons so neglecting or refusing shall forfeit and pay for each such offence any sum not exceeding 5*l*.: Provided always, that the sluices which admit the water to the wheels of all mills or factories which derive their supply from rivers frequented by salmon shall at all seasons of the year be kept shut for twenty-four consecutive hours in each week, between the hours of six o'clock on Saturday afternoon and six o'clock on Monday morning, so that the water may be allowed to flow freely through any existing gap in such weir, dam, or dyke, or any passage formed as aforesaid, or, where no such gap exists or passage shall be formed, through the waste gate on the up-stream side of the wheel sluices of such mill or factory, if such waste gate shall be erected in a channel suitable for the passage of fish; and provided that by the opening of such waste gate the mill shall not be thereby deprived of the necessary supply of water for the full and efficient working of the same; and if the occupier of such mill or factory shall neglect or omit to keep shut for the time aforesaid the sluices admitting the water to the wheels of such mills or factories, or shall obstruct or allow to be obstructed the free discharge of the water through such gap or passage, or shall neglect to keep open during the time aforesaid, and subject to the provisions aforesaid, such waste gates, then and in every such case such occupier shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*. for each offence.

LXIV. That it shall not be lawful for any person to take, kill, or destroy any salmon or other fish, or hang, fix, use, or set, in any such passage so made as aforesaid in or through such natural obstructions, mill dams, weirs, or other similar works, any net, basket, or other engine or contrivance whatsoever for the taking of fish, or to place any obstacle or contrivance of any nature or kind soever in or near thereto, in order to deter or prevent fish from freely entering or passing up and down through the same at all periods of the year, but such passage so made as aforesaid shall be kept and preserved free from every obstruction, and all such obstructions shall be removed in like manner as is hereinbefore provided with regard to the free gap or Queen's share in fishing weirs; and every person offending contrary hereto shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 20*l*.; and in case the person who shall have actually committed any such offence, so far as relates to the dams of mills or factories, shall not be known or found, and if such offence shall have been committed under such circumstances as shall appear to the Justice or Justices before whom any complaint thereupon shall be made to afford reasonable grounds for believing that such offence was committed by some person in the employment or under the control of the owner or occupier of such mill or factory, or that it was committed with the knowledge or connivance of such owner or occupier or the person in charge of such mill or factory, or through the default of reasonable precaution on the part of such owner or occupier to prevent such offence, then and in every such case such owner or occupier of such mill or factory shall be deemed and taken to be liable to and shall incur the penalty aforesaid, as if such offence had been actually committed by him.

LXV. That in the inland and freshwater portions of rivers and lakes in Ireland, no person, save the owner of a several fishery within the limits thereof, shall, at any period of the year, lay, draw, make use of, or fish with haul, draft, seine, or other net for the taking of salmon or trout, unless in cases when a general public right of fishing for salmon with such nets, in the nature of a common of piscary, has been enjoyed for a space of twenty years next before the passing of this Act; and if any person shall offend contrary hereto, such person so offending shall forfeit all such nets so used, and shall also forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXVI. That no person shall, in the freshwater portion of any inland river or lake, lay, draw, make use of, or fish with (save as herein otherwise provided) any haul or draft net or seine the meshes whereof shall be under two and a quarter inches from knot to knot measured on the side of the square, or nine inches measured all round in the clear when wet, allowing to each mesh four knots; and that no person shall make use of or fish with any such net formed with a false bottom (except nets for the taking of eels), or shall place two or more such nets one behind the other, or use any nets covered with canvas, hide, or other substance, for the purpose of taking small fish, or shall affix or keep up continued nets stretched across any river; and that no person shall lay, draw, make use of, or fish with any nets within the limits of any several fishery without a licence in writing from the owner or renter of such fishery; and that no person shall place, affix, or attach any nets to any stakes, bridges, sluices, lock gates of canals, or other such fixed erections, or shall lay, draw, or fish with any nets whatsoever, except nets for the taking of eels as by this Act provided, within the close season for salmon, as fixed by any Act now in force in Ireland, or which after the 1st of January 1844 shall become fixed by this Act, or be fixed by the said Commissioners as aforesaid, or at any season of the year between six of the clock on Saturday evening and six of the clock on Monday morning; and if any person shall offend in any of the cases aforesaid he shall forfeit every net used in doing or committing such offence, and shall for the same forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXVII. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall so think fit, on the application of the proprietor of any fishery in the fresh-water portion of any inland river or lake, to give notice by advertisement in the newspapers published or circulating in the county or counties wherein such river or lake is situated or in whole or in part flows, that it is proposed to authorize in such lake or river the use of floating, draft, or other nets of such form and with meshes of such size as shall be described in such notice, and in the said notice to call upon and require every person interested in such fishery to make, in such manner as the said Commissioners shall prescribe, his objections (if any) to the use of such nets as aforesaid; and at the expiration of three months from the date of the said notice it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to hold a meeting, giving three weeks previous notice thereof by advertisement as aforesaid, of the persons interested in such fishery, for the purpose of deciding with regard to the use of such nets as aforesaid, and thereupon, and after hearing the parties, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to authorize, if they shall so think fit, the use of nets of a smaller size than and different form from those already prescribed by this Act, and such decision shall be published and notified in the manner hereinbefore prescribed in the case of a change of seasons; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to alter or revoke such decision at or any time after the expiration of three years, and the same proceedings towards the so doing as are hereinbefore prescribed in relation to the first change shall take place on each such future change, and any person or persons offending against any decision so made and published as aforesaid shall be subject and liable to the like penalties and forfeitures as if such rule or order had been contained in this Act.

LXVIII. That if any person shall hang, draw, or make use of any net of any description prohibited by this Act, or the use whereof shall from time to time be prohibited by the said Commissioners, the person so offending shall forfeit such net, and shall also forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 5*l*.

LXIX. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to hinder or prevent the proprietors of any lands adjoining any lake or river, and not being within the limits of a several fishery, or any person authorized by them from taking, catching, or fishing for salmon, trout, and other fish with rods and lines in any such lake or river: Provided always, that no person shall angle for salmon or trout in any lake or river during the close season prescribed by any Act now in force in Ireland, or which shall, after the 1st of January 1844, become fixed by this Act, or by any order of the said Commissioners, and that any person so angling shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*.

LXX. That it shall not be lawful for any person (save the proprietor of a several fishery, or any person duly authorized by him in writing, within the limits thereof,) to take, catch, or fish for any salmon or trout by means of cross lines in any river, and any person so offending shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*.

LXXI. That if any person or persons shall enter upon any lands or premises for the purpose or under the pretence of fishing or angling in any lake, river, stream, pond, or water, without authority in writing from the proprietor or occupier of such lands or premises, every such person shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding the sum of 2*l*. for every such offence.

LXXII. That if any person or persons shall remove, take, use, or employ any cott, barge, boat, or vessel without permission of the owner thereof, such person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and be liable to pay a sum not exceeding the sum of 2*l*.

LXXIII. That if any person shall wilfully take, sell, purchase, or have in his possession the spawn, smolts, or fry of salmon or of trout or of eels, or in any way or by any device wilfully obstruct the passage of the said smolts or fry, or injure or disturb any such spawn or fry, or any spawning bed, bank, or shallow where the same may be, such person shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 10*l*. for each and every such offence, and all nets, engines, and devices used in the taking of the same, or whereby any such injury shall be caused, shall be forfeited.

LXXIV. That if any person shall at any time wilfully take, kill, destroy, expose to sale, or have in his possession any red, black, foul, unclean, or unseasonable salmon or trout, such person shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 2*l*. for every such fish so taken, killed, destroyed, exposed to sale, or in his possession: Provided always, that if any person shall take or catch any such fish accidentally, and return the same immediately to the water without injury, such person shall not be liable to the penalty aforesaid.

And after reciting that great destruction of spent fish and fish about to spawn, and of the brood and fry of salmon and other fish, is occasioned by the owners and occupiers of mills and factories catching and destroying the same by nets and various other devices in the mill leads, mill dams, and watercourses appurtenant thereto; for remedy whereof—

It is Enacted,

LXXV. That if any person shall, at any season of the year, in any mill pool or mill dam, or in any works appurtenant to any mill or factory, or in any of the watercourses leading the water to or from such mill or factory, place, lay, set, or draw any net, grate, creel, or other engine, or use any means or device whatsoever, (save and except rod and line used subject to the provisions of this Act,) for the purpose of taking, destroying, or obstructing any salmon or other fish, or the fry thereof, every such person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 10*l*., and shall also forfeit such nets or other engines; and in case the person who shall have actually committed any such offence shall not be known or found, and if such offence shall have been committed by means of shutting down or closing any gate or sluice which is under the exclusive power of the occupier of any mill or factory, or if such offence shall have been committed under such circumstances as shall appear to the Justice or Justices before whom any complaint thereupon shall be made to afford reasonable grounds for believing that such offence was committed by some person in the employment or under the controul of the owner or occupier of such mill or factory, or that it was committed with the knowledge or connivance of such owner or occupier or the person in charge of such mill or factory, or through the default of reasonable precaution on the part of such owner or occupier to prevent such offence, then and in every such case such owner or occupier of such mill or factory shall be deemed and taken to be liable to and shall incur the penalty and forfeiture aforesaid, as if such offence had been actually committed by him.

LXXVI. That in all watercourses, cuts, channels, or sluices constructed for the purpose of conveying water from any river frequented by salmon, for the supply of towns, the irrigation of lands, or any purpose other than the supply of water for navigation, or as a moving power for machinery, or for fish ponds, there shall be placed and fixed by the occupier of such watercourses, cuts, channels, or sluices, at their points of divergence from and return to such river, and above and below such sluices, a grating or lattice (the space between the bars whereof shall not exceed two inches in any place), extending across the whole width of such watercourse, cut, channel, or sluices, and from the bottom of the bed or sill thereof respectively to the level of the highest winter or flood waters; and during the months of March, April, and May, and such other periods of the year as the brood or fry of salmon or trout shall be descending the rivers, there shall be placed or stretched over the entire surface of such grating a wire lattice or network of such dimensions as effectually to prevent the admission of salmon fry or other small fish into such watercourses, cuts, channels, or sluices; and the owner, lessee, or occupier of any such premises to which such watercourse leads, or other person making or using or having the care and maintenance of any such watercourse, cut, channel, or sluice, shall secure and fix the said grating, lattice, or wire-work in a permanent manner, so as to prevent the same from being removed or opened, and shall keep and preserve the same in constant repair, and in case any such owner, lessee, or occupier shall neglect so to do, he shall for every such neglect forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXXVII. That if the proprietor or tenant of any eel weir shall take or suffer to be taken therein any salmon or trout, or salmon or trout fry, or spent salmon, every such proprietor or tenant shall forfeit and pay for each and every such offence any sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXXVIII. That the master of every ship carrying passengers on any such voyage as aforesaid shall afford to the government agent for emigration, or to the proper officer of Customs at any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions from which such ship shall sail, or at which such ship shall touch during the voyage, or at which such ship shall arrive at the end of such voyage, and to Her Majesty's consul at any port or place at which such ship shall arrive, being in a foreign country, every facility for the inspection of the ship, and for communication with the passengers, and for ascertaining that the Act has been duly observed.

XXVII. That if in any ship carrying passengers on any such voyage as aforesaid such lower deck or platform of such thickness as hereinbefore directed shall not be laid and continued throughout the whole duration of any such voyage in such manner as is hereinbefore required; or if the height between such lower deck or platform and the upper deck shall be less than six feet; or if there shall be more than two tiers of berths; or if such berths shall not be securely constructed, or shall not be of the dimensions hereinbefore required; or if there shall not be throughout the whole duration of any such voyage such an interval as is hereinbefore prescribed between the deck and the floor of the berths; or if any such ship shall clear out and put to sea not having on board tanks or sweet casks of such size and number as aforesaid, and such water and provision as aforesaid, for the use and consumption of the said passengers, of the kind and to the amount and in the proportion hereinbefore required; or if such water and provisions shall not be issued in manner hereinbefore required; or if such ship shall not be provided with good boats according to the rates aforesaid; or if copies of this Act shall not have been kept on board and produced on demand as hereinbefore required; or if there shall not be on board any such vessel such medical practitioner as aforesaid, or such medicines and other things necessary to the medical treatment of the passengers as is hereinbefore required; or if any such ship shall be cleared out before such list of passengers as hereinbefore mentioned shall have been delivered in manner and form aforesaid to such officer as aforesaid; or if the additions to such list and such additional separate list or lists as aforesaid be not made in the cases aforesaid, and delivered in the cases in which they are hereinbefore required to be delivered; or if any such list, or the additions to the same, shall be wilfully false; or if any such list, including the additions, if any, to the same, shall not be exhibited to or deposited with the proper officer at any port or place at which it is hereinbefore required to be exhibited or deposited; or if any passenger shall, without his previous consent, be put on shore at any place other than the place at which the master had contracted to land such passenger; or if any passenger shall not be allowed to continue on board such ship in manner hereinbefore provided; or if every such facility or inspection shall not be afforded as is hereinbefore required, the master of any such ship shall for and in respect of each and every such offence be liable, on such summary conviction as hereinafter mentioned, to the payment of a fine not exceeding 50*l*. sterling British money.

XXVIII. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall take away or abridge any right of suit or action which may accrue to any passenger in any such ship, or to any other person, in respect of the breach or non-performance of any contract made or entered into between or on behalf of any such passenger or other person, and the master, owner or owners, of any such ship.

XXIX. That all penalties imposed by this Act for any offence against the same may be sued for and recovered to the use of Her Majesty as hereinafter is mentioned; (that is to say,) in the United Kingdom by any government emigration agent, or any collector or comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs, or by any other officer of Her Majesty's Customs authorized in writing by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to sue for penalties under this Act; and in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, by any such government agent, collector or comptroller, or other officer so authorized as aforesaid, and also by any officer authorized to sue for penalties under this Act, by writing under the hand and seal of the governor or officer administering the government of any such possession; which respective authorities the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs and such governors or other officers are hereby empowered to grant; and all sums of money made recoverable by this Act as return of passage money, subsistence money, or compensation, may be sued for and recovered, as hereinafter is mentioned, by or to the use of any passenger entitled thereto under this Act, or by any of such officers as aforesaid, on behalf and to the use of any such passenger, or on behalf and to the respective use of any number of such passengers, and either by one or several complaints; and all such penalties and sums of money may be sued for and recovered before any two or more Justices of the Peace acting in any part of Her Majesty's dominions in which the offence shall have been committed or the cause of complaint shall have arisen, or in which the offender or party complained against shall happen to be; and upon complaint being made before any one Justice of the Peace as aforesaid he shall issue a summons requiring the party offending or complained against to appear on a day and at an hour and place to be named in such summons; and every such summons shall be served on the party offending or complained against, or shall be left at his last house, place of residence, or of business, or on board any ship to which he may belong; and either upon the appearance or default to appear by the party offending or complained against it shall be lawful for any two or more Justices to proceed summarily upon the case, and either with or without any written information; and upon proof of the offence or of the complainant's claim as the case may be, either by confession of the party offending or complained against, or upon the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses (which oath such Justices are hereby authorized to administer), it shall be lawful for such Justices to convict the offender or adjudicate the complaint, and upon such conviction or adjudication to order the offender or party complained against to pay such penalty, within the limits hereinbefore expressed, as the Justices may declare to have been incurred, or (as the case may be) to pay to the party suing for the same the sum of money sued for, or so much thereof as such Justices shall think the complainant justly entitled to, and also to pay the costs attending the information or complaint, summons, conviction, or adjudication; and if forthwith upon any such order the monies thereby ordered to be paid be not paid, the same may be levied, together with the costs of the distress and sale, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party ordered to pay such monies, the surplus, if any, to be returned to him, upon demand; and any such Justices may sue their warrant accordingly, and may also order such party to be detained and kept in safe custody until return can conveniently be made to such warrant of distress, unless such party give sufficient security, to the satisfaction of such Justices, for its appearance before them on the day appointed for such return, such day or days not being more than eight days from the time of taking such security; but if it shall appear to such Justices, by the admission of such party or otherwise, that no sufficient distress can be had whereon to levy the monies so adjudged to be paid, they may, if they think fit, refrain from suing such warrant of distress; and in such case, or if such warrant shall have been issued, and upon the return thereof such insufficiency as aforesaid shall be made to appear to the Justices, or any two or more such Justices, as aforesaid, then such Justices shall by warrant cause the party ordered to pay such monies and costs as aforesaid to be committed to gaol, there to remain without bail for any term not exceeding three months, unless such monies and costs ordered to be paid, and such costs of distress and sale as aforesaid, be sooner paid and satisfied.

XXX. That if in any proceeding before any Justice or Justices under this Act, or upon any action, suit, or other proceeding whatsoever against any person or persons for any thing done either contrary to or in pursuance of this Act, a question should arise whether any person is a government emigration agent, or an officer of the Customs, videlicet evidence may be given of such fact, and shall be deemed legal and sufficient evidence.

XXXI. That any passenger suing, as hereinbefore is mentioned, for any sum of money made recoverable by this Act as return of passage money, subsistence money, or compensation, shall not be deemed an incompetent witness in any proceeding or the recovery thereof, notwithstanding the same, if recovered, shall be applicable to his own use and benefit.

XXXII. That where any distress shall be made for any penalty, monies, or costs to be levied by virtue of this Act, the distress itself shall not be deemed unlawful, nor the party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the information, summons, conviction, warrant of distress, or other proceedings relating thereto; nor shall the party distraining be deemed a trespasser ab initio on account of any irregularity which shall be afterwards committed by the party so distraining, but the person aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for the special damage in an action upon the case.

XXXIII. That no plaintiff shall recover in any action against any person for any thing done in pursuance of this Act, if tender of sufficient amends shall have been made before such action brought, or if, after action brought, a sufficient sum of money shall have been paid into court, with costs, by or on behalf of the defendant.

XXXIV. That no action or suit shall be commenced against any person for any thing done in pursuance of or under the authority of this Act until twenty-one days notice has been given thereof in writing to the party or person against whom such action or suit is intended to be brought, nor after three calendar months next after the Act committed for which such action or suit shall be so brought; and every such action shall be brought, laid, and tried where the cause of action shall have arisen, and not in any other place; and the defendant in such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and any special matter in evidence at any trial which shall be had thereupon; and if the matter or thing shall appear to have been done under or by virtue of this Act, or if it shall appear that such action or suit was brought before twenty-one days notice thereof given as aforesaid, or if any action or suit shall not be commenced within the time hereinbefore limited, or shall be brought or laid in any other place than as aforesaid, then the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant therein; and if a verdict shall be found for such defendant, or if the plaintiff in such action or suit shall become nonsuited, or suffer a discontinuance of such action, or if upon any demurrer in such action, judgment shall be given for the defendant thereon, then and in any of the cases aforesaid such defendant shall and may recover treble costs, and shall have such remedy for recovering the same as any defendant may have for his costs in any other case by law.

And for the more effectually securing the observance of the aforesaid rules, and the payment of the penalties:—

It is Enacted,

XXXV. That before any ship carrying passengers (if the number of such passengers shall exceed fifty) shall clear out for any such voyage as aforesaid from any port or place in the United Kingdom, or in the hereinbefore-mentioned islands, the owner or charterer, or, in the event of the absence of such owner or charterer, one good and sufficient person on his behalf, to be approved by the collector or chief officer of Customs at such port, and the master of the said ship, shall enter into a joint and several bond to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in the sum of 1,000*l.*, the condition of which bond shall be that the said ship is seaworthy, and that all and every the rules and regulations made and prescribed by this Act for the carriage of passengers shall be well and truly performed before and during such intended voyage, and that all penalties, fines, and forfeitures which the master of such ship may be sentenced or adjudged to pay for or in respect of the breach or non-performance, before or during such voyage, of any such rules and regulations, shall be well and truly paid: Provided always, that such bond shall be without stamps, and that no such bond shall be put in suit, and that no prosecution, suit, action, information, or complaint shall be brought under or by virtue of this Act, or upon or by reason of the breach of any of the provisions thereof, in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, after the expiration of twelve calendar months next succeeding the commencement of any such voyage as aforesaid, nor in the United Kingdom, or any of the islands before mentioned, after the expiration of twelve calendar months next after the return of the said ship or of the said master to the United Kingdom or the hereinbefore-mentioned islands.

XXXVI. That nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to ships carrying passengers on such voyage as aforesaid if the number of such passengers shall not amount to or exceed thirty, nor shall any thing in this Act contained extend to any of Her Majesty's ships of war, or to any ship in the service of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom, or to ships of war or transports in the service of the East India Company.

And after reciting that it is expedient to provide in certain cases for the regulation of voyages from the colonies:—

It is Enacted,

XXXVII. That this Act shall, except as hereinafter is excepted, extend and apply to the carriage of passengers by sea from any of the British West Indies, in which term are included the British West India Islands, the Bahamas, and British Guiana, and from Malta, and from the British possessions in Africa, and from the Mauritius, to any other place whatsoever.

XXXVIII. That it shall be lawful for the governor or officer administering the government of any British colony not enumerated in the enactment lastly hereinbefore contained to declare by proclamation, to be issued for that purpose, that this Act, except as hereinafter is excepted, shall be extended and shall apply to the carriage of passengers by sea from such colony to such places as may by him be named for the purpose in such proclamation, and thereupon this Act shall be thenceforth so extended and shall so apply accordingly.

XXXIX. That it shall be lawful for the governor or officer administering the government of any of the British colonies to which this Act, as respects the carriage of passengers by sea therefrom, has been hereby extended or shall have been extended by proclamation, as hereinbefore is mentioned, by any proclamation or proclamations to be by him from time to time issued for that purpose, to declare the rule of computation by which the length of the voyage of any ship carrying passengers from such colony to any other place shall be estimated for the purposes of this Act: Provided nevertheless, that this Act shall not, except as respects the West Indies, and except as hereinafter is mentioned, extend or apply to any such voyage, if the length thereof so computed shall not be three weeks or upwards.

XL. That it shall be lawful for the governor or officer administering the government of any of the British colonies to which this Act has, as respects the carriage of passengers by sea therefrom, been hereby extended, or shall have been so extended by proclamation as hereinbefore is mentioned, by any proclamation or proclamations to be by him from time to time issued for that purpose, to substitute for the articles of food and provisions specified in this Act such other articles of food and provisions as shall be a full equivalent for the same.

XLI. Provided and enacted, That every such proclamation as aforesaid, or as hereinafter is mentioned, shall be transmitted by the governor or officer by whom the same may have been issued to Her Majesty, through one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, for Her Majesty's confirmation or disallowance; and in case the same shall be disallowed by any order to be made by Her Majesty for that purpose, with the advice of her Privy Council, then from and after the promulgation of any such order in council within any such colony any such proclamation shall cease to be of any force or authority, but until so disallowed the same shall be duly observed and obeyed: Provided also, that on the production at any one of the colonies aforesaid of an attested copy of any such proclamation as aforesaid, or as hereinafter is mentioned, under the hand of the governor or the officer administering the government of the colony wherein the same may have been issued, and under the public seal of such colony, such attested copy shall, in the colony wherein the same shall be so produced, be received as good and sufficient evidence of the issuing and of the contents of any such proclamation.

XLII. XLIII. Provided and enacted, That as respects voyages from the colonies, it shall not be necessary for the master, owner, or charterer of any ship carrying passengers on any such voyage to enter into any such bond as is hereinbefore required to be entered into by the master and owner or charterer of any ship carrying passengers on any such voyage as hereinbefore is mentioned.

XLV. Provided and enacted, That, except as hereinbefore is excepted with respect to voyages from the colonies, the provisions and regulations of this Act shall extend and apply to voyages from the West Indies of less duration, so computed as aforesaid, than three weeks, but being of not less duration, so computed as aforesaid, than three days, save and except so far as relates to the following subjects (namely):—

Provided also, that as respects such voyages from the West Indies of less computed duration than three weeks, the owner or charterer of a ship may, if he think fit, contract with the passengers engaging passages therein, that they shall respectively provide themselves with necessary food (not including water) for the voyage; and in such case the regulations of this Act respecting the issue of provisions by the master shall not be applicable to such passengers on such voyage.

XLVI. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the governor or officer administering the government of any British colony (other than the West Indies) to which this Act, as respects the carriage of passengers by sea therefrom, has been hereby extended, or shall hereafter be extended by proclamation, as hereinbefore is mentioned, by the same, or by any subsequent proclamation to be by him issued for that purpose, to declare that the enactment hereinbefore contained respecting voyages from the West Indies of shorter duration than three weeks shall extend and apply to voyages from the colony in respect of which such proclamation shall be issued, such voyage being of less duration, so computed as aforesaid, than three weeks, but not of less duration, so computed as aforesaid, than three days; and thereupon such enactment shall extend and apply to such voyage accordingly.

XLIX. That it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council, from time to time, by any Act or Acts to be passed for that purpose, to declare in what manner, and before what authorities, and by what form of proceedings, the penalties imposed and the sums of money made recoverable by this Act shall be sued for and recovered within any places or territories under the government of the East India Company, and to what uses such penalties shall be applied.

L. That the provisions, regulations, penalties, and forfeitures set forth in this Act shall extend and be deemed to extend to foreign vessels carrying passengers upon any voyage from any port or place in the United Kingdom, or in the hereinbefore mentioned islands, to or for any port or place out of Europe, and not being within the Mediterranean Sea, or upon any other voyage to which the provisions of this Act shall for the time being extend.

LI. That wherever the term "Passage" or "Passenger" is used in this Act, it shall be held not to include or extend to the class of passages or passengers commonly known and understood by the name of cabin passages and cabin passengers.

v. That it shall be lawful for any corporation hereby empowered to grant leases, from time to time, with such consent as is hereby declared to be requisite to the validity of any lease to be granted by such corporation under the provisions of this Act, to confirm any lease, grant, or general deed purporting to have been granted or made under the authority of this Act, in any case in which for some technical error, informality, or irregularity in exercising the powers of this Act such lease, grant, or deed shall be voidable or questionable, or to accept an actual or virtual surrender of any lease or grant which shall have been made and executed, or which shall purport to have been made and executed, by virtue of this Act; and so far as regards any mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, watercourses, ways, or other easements, which may be comprised in any such surrendered lease or grant, with such consent as aforesaid, to make any new lease or grant thereof in the same manner from time to time, as if the powers of leasing herein contained had not been previously exercised; and so far as regards any lands and houses comprised in any such surrendered lease which may have been granted for building or repairing purposes, in any case where, at the time when such surrender shall be accepted, one fourth part or more than one fourth part of the term originally granted shall remain unexpired, with such consent as aforesaid, to make a new lease or several apportioned leases of the lands and houses comprised in such surrendered lease, for any time not exceeding the then residue of the term granted, or mentioned or intended to be granted, by such surrendered lease, and at a rent or apportioned rents equal in amount to or exceeding the former rent or rents, yet so nevertheless that no one rent shall be less than 40s., and so that the rent to be reserved by any apportioned lease shall in no case exceed one fifth part of the rack-rent value of the land to be comprised in such lease, and of the houses erected or to be erected thereon, when finished and fit for habitation; and so far as regards any lands and houses comprised in any such surrendered lease which may have been granted for building or repairing purposes, in any case where, at the time when such surrender shall be accepted, less than one fourth part of the term originally granted shall remain unexpired, with such consent as aforesaid, to make any new lease or grant thereof, in the same manner, as far as may be applicable, as if the powers of leasing herein contained had not been exercised; and so also that in the case of the confirmation of any lease, or of the making of any new lease or grant, whether the same shall be a lease of houses for building or repairing purposes, or a lease or grant of any mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, watercourses, ways, or other easements, no fine, premium, or foregift shall be accepted for making or giving any such confirmation, or new lease or grant or apportioned lease respectively, and so as the lessee or grantee, his executors, administrators, or assigns, whose lease or grant shall be so confirmed, or to whom any such new or apportioned lease shall be granted in lieu of any former lease as aforesaid, do consent to accept such confirmation, or new lease or grant, or apportioned lease, and do execute a counterpart thereof.

vi. That it shall be lawful for any ecclesiastical corporation, aggregate or sole, except as aforesaid, from time to time, with the consent or consents hereby required, to grant or demise, by lease, for any term not exceeding sixty years, to take effect in possession, and not in reversion or by way of future interest, any mines, minerals, quarries, or beds belonging to such corporation, together with the right of working or of opening and working the same, and of working any adjacent mine by way of outstroke or other underground communication, and together also with such portion of land belonging to such corporation, and all such rights and liberties of way and passage, and other rights, easements, and facilities for the opening and working of all such mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, and leading and carrying away the produce thereof, or otherwise incident to mining operations, as shall be deemed expedient; and every such lease shall contain such reservations by way of rent, royalty, or share of the produce in kind, all or any thereof, or otherwise, and such powers, provisoes, restrictions, and covenants, as shall be approved by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, due regard being had to the custom of the country or district within which such mines, minerals, quarries, or beds are situate; and no fine, premium, or foregift, nor any thing in the nature thereof, shall be taken for or in respect of any such lease.

vii. That the execution of any lease, grant, or general deed by the person or corporation, or several persons or corporations, whose consent is hereby made requisite to the validity of such lease or grant or general deed, shall be conclusive evidence that the several matters and things by this Act required to be done and performed previously to the granting or making of such lease, grant, or general deed have been duly done and performed, and that the property comprised in such lease, grant, or general deed (as the case may be) does not form any part of the property excepted out of the powers of leasing conferred by this Act, and that the rent reserved by such lease (except an apportioned lease or grant) is the best rent that could be reasonably obtained for the property or rights comprised in such lease or grant, and that no fine, premium, or foregift, or anything in the nature thereof, hath been taken for or in respect of the granting or making of such lease or grant, and (in the case of an apportioned lease) that the rent reserved by each such apportioned lease does not exceed one-fifth part of the rack-rent value of the land comprised in such lease and of the houses erected or to be erected thereon, when fit for habitation.

VIII. That nothing in this Act contained shall restrain any corporation hereby empowered to grant leases and make grants as aforesaid from granting any leases, or making any grants, whether by way of renewal or otherwise, which such corporation might have lawfully and rightfully granted or made, either under the provisions of any public or private Act of Parliament, or under any other authority, or in any other manner whatsoever, in case this Act had not been passed, or from taking any fine, premium, or foregift from the lessees in any renewed or new leases named or to be named, or from their under-lessees, or from any other persons having or claiming an interest in any such renewal, for any such renewed or new leases, save and except that in every lease (other than any lease granted under the powers of this Act) which shall be granted by any such corporation as aforesaid, of any lands or houses which shall have been leased for building or repairing purposes under any of the powers of this Act, there shall be reserved the best improved rent, payable half-yearly or oftener, which can be obtained for the same, without taking any fine, premium, or foregift, or anything in the nature of a fine, premium, or foregift, for making or granting the same.

IX. Provided and enacted, That this Act shall not authorize the granting of a lease, or the laying out or appropriating, for the purposes in this Act mentioned, of the palace or usual house of residence of or belonging to any archbishop or bishop, or any other corporation sole hereby empowered to grant leases as aforesaid, or of or belonging to any corporation aggregate or to any member of any corporation aggregate hereby authorized to grant leases as aforesaid, or of any offices, outbuildings, yards, gardens, orchards, or pleasure grounds to any such palace or other house of residence adjoining or appurtenant, and which may be necessary or convenient for actual occupation with such palace or other house of residence, or the grant or lease of any mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, watercourses, ways, or other easements, the grant whereof may be prejudicial to the convenient enjoyment of any such palace or house of residence, or the pleasure grounds belonging thereto, or the leasing for the purposes aforesaid of any lands which any such corporation, sole or aggregate, or any member of any such corporation aggregate, is expressly restrained from leasing by the provisions of any local or private Act of Parliament now in force.

X. That upon any improvement in the annual value of any see, by means of any lease granted under this Act or otherwise, the annual sum, if any, directed to be charged upon the revenues of such see by any order in council, shall, by the authority provided in an Act passed in the fourth year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled, 'An Act to carry into effect, with certain Modifications, the Fourth Report of the Commissioners of Ecclesiastical Duties and Revenues,' be forthwith directed to be increased to the extent of such improvement; or the annual sum (if any) directed by any like order to be paid to the bishop of such see shall, by the like authority, be forthwith directed to be reduced to the like extent, or to be altogether annulled, if not exceeding such improvement; and if such improvement shall exceed the annual sum so directed to be paid to such bishop, or if no annual sum shall have been directed to be paid by or to such bishop, then a fixed annual sum, equal to the excess in the one case, or to the whole of such improvement in the other case, shall, by the like authority, be forthwith directed to be charged upon the revenues of such see; and the increased or reduced or new payment (as the case may be) shall take effect upon the avoidance of the see next after such improvement, and not sooner.

XI. That the provisions of the said recited Act, and of an Act passed in the fourth year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled, 'An Act to explain and amend Two several Acts relating to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England,' under which provisions the incomes of the deans and canons of the cathedral church of Saint Paul in London, and of the collegiate churches of Westminster and Manchester, are to be so charged as to leave to such deans and canons the average annual incomes respectively specified in the same Acts, shall be extended so as to apply to all other deans and canons of cathedral and collegiate churches (save and except the dean and canons of the cathedral church of Christ in Oxford), whose annual incomes shall be improved beyond the amounts of such average annual incomes respectively; and that upon any improvement in the annual revenues of any cathedral or collegiate church, after the gazetting of any order in council for charging the incomes of the dean or canons thereof, the amount of the charge created by such order shall, by the authority in the first-recited Act provided, be forthwith directed to be increased to the extent of such improvement: Provided always, that any improvement in the annual value of the revenues of the dean and canons of the said cathedral church of Christ in Oxford by means of any lease granted under the provisions of this Act, and not otherwise, shall be subject to the provisions of this Act affecting deans and canons of other cathedral or collegiate churches: Provided also, that no charge so created, nor any increase of any such charge, shall affect the income of any dean or canon in possession at the time of such improvement.

XII. That in the case of any archdeaconry the annual value of which shall be improved by means of any lease granted under this Act, it shall be lawful, by the authority provided in the said first-recited Act, forthwith to direct, that from and after the vacancy of such archdeaconry next following the date of such lease such portion of the rent, royalty, or other consideration reserved by such lease as by the like authority shall be deemed expedient shall be paid, and the same shall accordingly from time to time be paid to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and become and be subject to the provisions of the same Act: Provided always, that the average annual income of the archdeacon shall not be thereby left at a less sum than 500*l*.

XIII. That in the case of any benefice the annual value of which shall be improved by means of any lease granted by the incumbent thereof under this Act, it shall be lawful, by the authority provided in the first-recited Act, at any time within three years from the date of such lease, to direct that from and after the vacancy of such benefice next following such date such portion of the rent, royalty, or other consideration reserved by such lease as by the like authority shall be deemed expedient shall be paid, and the same shall accordingly from time to time be paid to the said Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and shall be by them from time to time applied according to the provisions of the same Act in making additional provision for the cure of souls: Provided always, that notice shall be given to the patron or patrons of such benefice, of any scheme affecting the same, three calendar months previously to such scheme being laid before Her Majesty in Council; and the objections (if any) of such patron or patrons shall be laid before Her Majesty in Council, together with such scheme: Provided also, that the average annual income of such benefice shall not under this provision be left at a less sum than 600*l*. if the population thereof amount to two thousand, nor at a less sum than 500*l*. if the population thereof amount to one thousand, nor in any other case at a less sum than 300*l*.: Provided also, that in making any such provision for the cure of souls out of rent, royalty, or other consideration reserved by any lease as aforesaid, the wants and circumstances of the places in which the lands, mines, minerals, quarries, or beds demised by such lease are situate shall be primarily considered.

xiv. Provided and enacted, That in case of any lease of mines, minerals, quarries, or beds granted under this Act, such portion of the improved value accruing thereunder as by the like authority shall be determined, not being more than three-fourth parts, nor less than one moiety of such improved value, shall forthwith, and from time to time as the same shall accrue, be paid to the said Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and shall be subject to the provisions relating to monies payable to them; and the remainder of such improved value shall be deemed to be an improvement within the meaning of the provisions relating to the incomes of archbishops and bishops, deans and canons, archdeacons, and incumbents of benefices respectively.

xv. That all the powers and authorities vested in Her Majesty in Council and in the said Commissioners by the first-recited Act with reference to the matters therein contained, and all other the provisions of the same Act relating to schemes and orders prepared, made, and issued for the purposes thereof, shall be continued and extended and apply to Her Majesty in Council and to the said Commissioners, and to all schemes and orders prepared, made, and issued by them respectively with reference to all matters contained in this Act, as fully and effectually as if the said powers, authorities, and other provisions were repeated herein.

xvi. That any lease or leases may be granted under the powers of this Act, on the surrender of any existing lease or leases (which shall not have been granted under the provisions of this Act), of all or any part of the premises proposed to be comprised in such new lease or leases, and may be granted either to the person or persons surrendering the existing lease or leases or to any other person or persons whomsoever; and each holder of any existing lease or leases granted otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, of any lands or houses, or of any mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, which, if not in lease, would be capable of being leased under the powers of this Act, is hereby authorized to surrender such lease or leases with a view to the granting of a new lease, or several new leases thereof, or of any part thereof, under the powers of this Act, whether at the time of making such surrender the period at which such existing lease or leases may be legally or accustomedly renewable shall or shall not have arrived; and in the case of any lease granted under the powers of this Act on the surrender of any existing lease or leases as aforesaid, an adequate deduction shall be made from the rent, royalty, or other consideration to be reserved on the new lease, in proportion to the value of the term or interest which shall be surrendered as aforesaid in the lands or houses, mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, or any part thereof respectively, comprised in such new lease.

xvii. That whenever a surrender shall be made of any existing lease for the purpose of taking a new lease or new leases by virtue of this Act, whether the existing lease shall or shall not have been granted under the provisions of this Act, the new lease shall be deemed to be a renewal of the surrendered lease within the scope and meaning of the 6th section of an Act, 4 Geo. 2. c. 28, intituled, 'An Act for the more effectual preventing of Frauds committed by Tenants, and for the more easy Recovery of Rents and Renewal of Leases,' so far as to render unnecessary the surrender of any under-leases previously to the grant of such new lease, and to give full effect to such new lease in all respects, notwithstanding any under-lease or under-leases may not be surrendered: Provided that in any such case as is herein contemplated, if any subsisting unsundered under-lease shall contain any covenant or provision for the renewal or extension of the interest conferred by such under-lease, on payment by the under-lessee of a proportionate part of the fines and fees attending the renewal of the chief lease, the under-lessee shall not compel a renewal of the under-lease under such covenant, except upon the terms of securing to the under-lessee a rent, royalty, or other consideration bearing the same proportion to the whole rent, royalty, or other consideration reserved to the corporation exercising the powers of this Act, upon the new lease granted under this Act, as the amount which upon any ordinary renewal ought to have been paid by such under-lessee of the fines and fees of or attending such renewal, would have borne to the whole amount of the fines and fees attending such renewal.

xviii. That whenever any lease or apportioned leases, or grant by way of lease, is or are intended to be granted or made, or any land or ground is proposed to be laid out or appropriated, under the authority of this Act, a competent surveyor shall be appointed in writing by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, with the consent of the corporation proposing to grant such lease or apportioned leases, or make such grant, or to lay out or appropriate such land or ground (as the case may be); and such surveyor shall make any such report, map, plan, statement, valuation, or certificate, as shall be deemed necessary, and be required by the said Commissioners or by such corporation.

xix. That no person being or having been an ecclesiastical corporation sole, nor the private estate or representatives of such person, shall be liable to the successor of such corporation for or on account of any dilapidations which shall occur in or about any houses or buildings belonging to such corporation whilst the same shall be held under any lease for building or repairing purposes granted under the powers of this Act.

xx. That each lease or grant to be granted or made under the provisions of this Act shall be made with the consent of the said Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and also with such further consent as hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) each lease or grant granted or made by any incumbent of a benefice, with the consent of the patron thereof; and each lease or grant by any corporation, either aggregate or sole, under the provisions of this Act, of any lands or houses, mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, of copyhold or customary tenure, or of any watercourses, ways, or easements, in, upon, over, or under any such lands, where the copyhold or customary tenant thereof is not authorized to grant or make leases or grants for the term of years intended to be created by such lease or grant, without the licence of the lord of the manor, shall be made with the consent of the lord for the time being of the manor of which the same lands or houses, mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, shall be holden, in addition to the other consents hereby made requisite to the validity of such lease or grant, and such consent shall amount to a valid licence to lease or grant the same lands or houses, mines, minerals, quarries, or beds, watercourses, ways, or easements, (as the case may be,) for the time for which the same shall be expressed to be demised or granted by such lease or grant.

XXI. That the consent of each person whose consent is hereby required to any deed to be made under the authority of this Act shall be testified by such person being made a party to such deed, and duly executing the same.

XXII. That in any case in which the consent or concurrence of the patron of any benefice is hereby required, and the patronage of such benefice shall be in the Crown, the consent or concurrence of the Crown shall be testified in the manner hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) if such benefice shall be above the yearly value of 20*l.* in the King's books, the instrument by which such consent or concurrence is to be testified shall be executed by the Lord High Treasurer, or first Commissioner of the Treasury for the time being; and if such benefice shall not exceed the yearly value of 20*l.* in the King's books, such instrument shall be executed by the Lord High Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal for the time being; and if such benefice shall be within the patronage of the Crown in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, such instrument shall be executed by the Chancellor of the said duchy for the time being; and the execution of such instrument by such person or persons shall be deemed and taken, for the purposes of this Act, to be an execution by the patron of the benefice.

XXIII. That in any case in which the consent or concurrence of the patron of any benefice is hereby required, and the right of patronage of such benefice shall be part of the possessions of the Duchy of Cornwall, the consent or concurrence of the patron of such benefice to the exercise of such power shall be testified in the manner hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) the instrument by which such consent or concurrence is to be testified shall, whenever there shall be a Duke of Cornwall, whether he be of full age or otherwise, be under his Great or Privy Seal, or if there be no Duke of Cornwall, and such benefice shall be in the patronage of the Crown in right of the Duchy of Cornwall, such instrument shall be executed by the same person or persons who is or are authorized to testify the consent or concurrence of the Crown; and such instrument, being sealed or executed, shall be deemed and taken, for the purposes of this Act, to be an execution by the patron of the benefice.

XXIV. That in any case in which the consent or concurrence of the patron of any benefice, or of the lord for the time being of any manor, is hereby required, and the patron of such benefice, or the lord for the time being of such manor, as the case may be, shall be a minor, idiot, lunatic, or feme covert, or beyond seas, it shall be lawful for the guardian, committee, husband, or attorney, as the case may be, of such patron or lord, but in case of a feme covert not being a minor, idiot, or lunatic, or beyond the seas, with her consent in writing, to execute the instrument by which such consent or concurrence is to be testified, in testimony of the consent or concurrence of such patron or lord; and such execution shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed and taken to be an execution by the patron of the benefice, or by the lord of the manor, as the case may be.

XXV. That the person or persons, if not more than two, or the majority of the persons if more than two, or the corporation, who or which would for the time being be entitled to the turn or right of presentation to any benefice, if the same were then vacant, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered to be the patron thereof: Provided nevertheless, that in the case of the patronage being exercised alternately by different patrons, the person or persons, if not more than two, or the majority of the persons, if more than two, or the corporation, who or which would for the time being be entitled to the second turn or right of presentation to any benefice if the same were then vacant, shall for the purposes of this Act, jointly with the person or persons or corporation entitled to the first turn or right of presentation, be considered to be the patron thereof.

XXVI. That in all cases in which any person shall sustain more than one or all of the characters in which his execution of or consent to or concurrence in any deed or act is required by this Act, such person shall or may at any time act in both or all of the characters which he shall so sustain as aforesaid, and execute and do all or any of such deeds and acts as are hereby authorized to be executed and done, as effectually as different persons, each sustaining one of those characters, could execute and do the same.

XXVII. That in all cases in which the consent or concurrence of any corporation aggregate having a common seal shall be requisite to any lease, grant, appointment of a surveyor, or other deed, writing, or instrument, to be made in pursuance and for the purposes of this Act, the consent or concurrence of such corporation shall be testified by the sealing of the lease, grant, appointment, or other deed, writing, or instrument with the common seal of such corporation.

XXVIII. That whenever any lands are or shall be vested in any trustee or trustees, in trust or for the benefit of any corporation, aggregate or sole, hereby empowered to grant leases as aforesaid, in such a manner as that the net income, or three-fourth parts at the least of the net income, of such lands is or shall be payable for the exclusive benefit of such corporation, all the powers of this Act which, in case such lands had been legally vested in such corporation for the sole and exclusive benefit of such corporation, might have been exercised by such corporation in relation to or affecting the same lands, shall or may be exercised by such corporation in the same or the like manner as the same might have been exercised by such corporation in case the same lands were legally vested in such corporation as aforesaid; but in order to give legal effect to any lease, grant, confirmation, or general deed to be executed in relation to any such lands in pursuance of this Act, the trustee or trustees of the land intended to be affected thereby shall be made a party or parties to such lease, grant, confirmation, or general deed (as the case may be) in addition to the other parties whose concurrence is hereby declared to be requisite to any such deed, and shall join in the demise, grant, confirmation, or appropriation intended to be thereby made; and the trustee or trustees of any such lands is and are hereby directed and required at all times to execute any deed to which he or they may be made a party or parties, with a view to give legal effect to any such lease, grant, general deed, or confirmation as aforesaid, so soon as the same may be tendered to him or them for execution after the same shall have been duly executed by the corporation beneficially entitled to such lands as aforesaid; and the person or corporation, or several persons or corporations, whose consent is hereby declared to be requisite to the validity of any lease granted by any such corporation, and the fact that any such deed is executed by the other parties whose execution shall be necessary to give effect to the same shall be a sufficient authority for the execution thereof by the trustee or trustees of the same lands, and it shall not at any time afterwards be necessary for such trustee or trustees, or for any other person or persons, to prove that such deed was executed by such other parties, or any of them, prior to the execution thereof by such trustee or trustees; provided that no trustee shall, by due of or under this provision, be compellable to execute any deed whereby he shall render himself in any way liable, further than by a covenant for quiet enjoyment by any lessee or grantee as against the acts of the trustee executing such deed.

xxx. That if, in the case of any lease, grant, or confirmation granted or made under this Act, any fine, premium, or foregift, or any thing in the nature thereof, shall, directly or indirectly, have been paid or given by or on behalf of the lessee or grantee, and taken or received by the lessor or grantor, such lease, grant, or confirmation shall be absolutely void.

XIII. That every person qualified and liable to serve, and who shall be chosen by the Justices to serve, the office of constable, and shall be duly summoned to be sworn, and to take upon him the said office, and who shall refuse, or, without reasonable cause, to be allowed by the said Justices, neglect to attend and to be sworn as constable, or to find a qualified substitute to be sworn in his stead, shall, upon conviction thereof before two Justices forfeit and pay any sum not more than 10*l*.; and every person who, after being sworn as constable, shall refuse or wilfully neglect to act in the execution of his office, shall, upon conviction thereof before two Justices, forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not more than 5*l*.

XV. That the said constables shall have within the whole county, and also within all liberties and franchises, and detached parts of other counties situated therein, and also in every county adjoining to the county in which they are appointed, all the powers, privileges, and immunities, and shall be liable to all the duties and responsibilities, of a constable within his constable-wick, but shall not be bound to act as a constable beyond the parish for which they are severally appointed and sworn, without the special warrant of a Justice of the Peace: Provided always, that in those counties in which any chief constable or superintendent shall have been appointed under the authority of an Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 93, intituled, 'An Act for the Establishment of County and District Constables by the Authority of Justices of the Peace,' or of any Act passed for the amendment thereof, the constables appointed under this Act for any parish within the district for which such chief constable or superintendent shall have been appointed shall be subject to the authority of such chief constable or superintendent.

XVI. That in case of the death or disqualification of any constable during his year of office, of which the overseers shall forthwith give notice to a Justice of the Peace usually acting for the division, or in case any person who shall have been chosen constable shall refuse or neglect as aforesaid to attend and be sworn, or to find a qualified substitute to be sworn in his stead, and shall have been fined for such refusal or neglect, the person who has last served, and shall not then be disqualified or exempt, shall be bound to act in his stead until another constable shall be appointed and sworn to act for the remainder of the year, which shall be done at the next petty session of the peace for the division, of which notice shall be given to all the Justices usually acting for the division; and in case the constable making the vacancy was serving as substitute for some other person, the Justices shall summon the person originally chosen to attend and be sworn, or to find another substitute duly qualified to serve for the remainder of the year; or if the person originally chosen shall be then disqualified, or shall have refused or neglected as aforesaid to attend and be sworn, or to find a substitute, or if the constable making the vacancy was serving after having been chosen, and not as a substitute, the Justices at such session shall choose another qualified person out of the allowed list then in force, to serve the office of constable during the remainder of the year, and shall proceed in all respects as in the original appointment of constables for that year, and the person so chosen shall be bound in like manner, and subject to the same penalty, to attend and be sworn, or to find a substitute to be sworn in his stead to serve for the remainder of the year; and if less than two hundred days shall have elapsed since the first appointment of constables for that year, but not otherwise, the service of the person appointed to act for the remainder of the year shall be reckoned to him as service for that year; and in the first year after the passing of this Act the Justices at the time of first choosing constables shall also choose substitutes to serve in case of vacancies during the year of office until another appointment shall be made.

XVII. That the Justices of the county in General or Quarter Session assembled shall from time to time, subject to the approval of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, settle tables of fees and allowances to the clerks to the Justices for the performance of their duties under this Act, and to the constables for the service of summonses and execution of warrants, and for the performance of such other occasional duties which may be required of the said constables, for which the said Justices shall think that fees ought to be allowed; and whenever any duty for which any such fee or allowance shall have been settled, and for which the payment is not by law charged upon the county rates, shall have been performed by any clerk or by any constable appointed under this Act, the amount of the fee or allowance shall be paid by the overseers of the parish in respect of which such fee has become payable out of any monies in their hands collected for the relief of the poor, upon the order of the Justices in petty session assembled for the division, and under such regulations as shall be made from time to time by the Justices in General or Quarter Session assembled, subject to the approval of the Secretary of State.

XVIII. That it shall be lawful for the vestry assembled for the purpose of making such return as aforesaid to resolve that one or more paid constables shall be appointed for their parish; and if the vestry shall so resolve, a copy of the resolution, and of the amount of salary which the vestry shall resolve on paying to such constable or constables, shall be sent by the overseers to the Justices, with the return hereinbefore mentioned.

XIX. That the Justices at the Session of the Peace holden for the appointment of constables, upon receiving from any parish a copy of any such resolution as aforesaid, if they shall be satisfied with the amount of salary agreed to be paid, shall appoint so many paid constables to act for that parish as shall be agreed to by the resolution, or if the same resolution shall have been agreed to by more parishes than one adjoining each other, may, if they shall think fit, appoint the same paid constables to act conjointly for all such last-mentioned parishes; and in every parish in which a paid constable shall be appointed under this Act the Justices, if they shall think fit, need not appoint any unpaid constable, or may appoint a smaller number of unpaid constables than they had otherwise resolved on appointing for that parish; and every paid constable shall hold his appointment until he shall resign or be dismissed for misconduct by the Justices of the division in petty session assembled, or until the vestry shall rescind the resolution for his appointment at any meeting of vestry holden for making such return as aforesaid.

XX. That the amount of the salary to every such paid constable shall be paid by the overseers out of any monies in their hands collected for the relief of the poor.

XXI. That after the passing of this Act no petty constable, headborough, boraholder, tithingman, or peace officer of the like description under any name of office, shall be appointed for any parish, township, or vill within the limits of this Act, except for the performance of duties unconnected with the preservation of the peace or with the execution of this Act, at any court leet or tory, or otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, or under the provisions of the said Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 93, or of some Act passed for the amendment thereof; but nothing herein contained shall be taken to prevent the appointment of special constables, or to apply to the city of London or the Metropolitan Police District, or to any borough which is within the provisions of an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76, intituled, 'An Act to provide for the Regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales,' or of any charter granted in pursuance of that Act or of any Act made for the amendment thereof, or to any parish, town, or place in which rates are or shall be levied for the payment of constables, under the provisions of an Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 90, making provision for the lighting and watching of parishes in England and Wales, or of any local Act specially applying to such parish, town, or place, and that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be taken to apply to the county palatine of Chester.

XXII. That it shall be lawful for the Justices of the Peace of any county in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, if they shall think fit, to order that lock-up houses for the temporary confinement of persons taken into custody by any constable, and not yet committed for trial, or in execution of any sentence, shall be provided in such places within their county as the said Justices shall think fit; and for that purpose to purchase and hold lands and tenements, or to appropriate to that purpose any lands and tenements belonging to the county which are not needed for the purpose to which they were applied or intended to be applied before such appropriation; or, instead of providing new lock-up houses, to order that the lock-up houses, strong rooms, or cages belonging to any parish be appropriated for the purpose of this Act, and if necessary be enlarged or improved; and the expense of building, hiring, or otherwise providing, repairing, and furnishing such lock-up houses shall be defrayed out of the county rates: Provided always, that notice of the day and hour at which any business relates to providing, enlarging, or improving any such lock-up house will begin at such session shall be given by the clerk of the peace, with the notice of holding the session on the requisition of any five Justices acting for such county; and that no such lock-up house shall be built or otherwise provided, enlarged, or improved, except upon such plan as shall be approved by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State: Provided also, that every such lock-up house shall be within the inspection of the inspectors of prisons.

XXIII. That whenever the Justices shall have provided a lock-up house under this Act, they shall also appoint a superintending constable to have the charge thereof, who shall have all the powers and immunities of a parish constable under this Act, and shall have the superintendence of all the parish constables appointed in such parishes as shall be ordered by the said Justices, and under such regulations as they shall make; and every such superintending constable shall be entitled to hold his office until dismissed by the Justices in General or Quarter Session assembled, and shall receive such salary out of the county rates as the Justices assembled as aforesaid shall order.

By this Act,

After reciting that by an Act, 7 Geo. 4. c. 74. s. 55, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to Prisons in Ireland,' it is provided that each of the inspectors general thereby directed to be appointed shall once at least in every year go round one of the circuits in the said Act mentioned, and visit and inspect (amongst other places) every mad-house and place where lunatics or idiots are confined, whether the same be a public establishment, or kept for profit by any private individual in or within such circuit, and shall report upon the state thereof to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland: And that it is expedient to make further provision for the licensing, regulation, and inspection of private lunatic asylums in Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

I. That the inspectors general of prisons in Ireland for the time being appointed under and by virtue of the said recited Act shall respectively be inspectors of lunatic asylums in Ireland, for the purposes of the said recited Act and of this Act, but without any additional salary or emolument in respect of such office, save for travelling expenses as hereinafter provided; and every such inspector general is hereby required, so far as he lawfully can, to enforce the due execution of the said recited Act and of this Act, and to carry the provisions of the said recited Act and of this Act into effect.

II. That each inspector general shall, before he acts in the execution of his duty under this Act, take an oath to the following effect; (that is to say,)

'I A.B. do swear, That I will discreetly, impartially, and faithfully execute all the Trusts committed unto me by virtue of a 'Act passed in the Sixth Year of the Reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled [insert Title of this Act], and that I will keep 'secret all such Matters as come to my Knowledge in the Execution of my Office (except when required to divulge the same 'by legal Authority), or so far as I shall feel myself called upon to do so for the better Execution of the Duty imposed upon 'me by this Act. So help me GOD.'

Which oath it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to administer to every such inspector general.

III. That from and after the commencement of this Act it shall not be lawful for any person to keep a house for the reception of two or more insane persons in Ireland unless the same shall have been first duly licensed in the manner directed by this Act; and every person keeping a house for the reception of two or more insane persons, not duly licensed, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided always, that no one licence shall authorize any person to keep more than one such house.

IV. That the Justices of the Peace assembled in General or Quarter Sessions in Ireland shall have authority to grant licences (if they shall think fit) in the manner directed by this Act for persons to keep houses for the reception of two or more insane persons, of one or both sexes, as such Justices shall think fit, within their respective counties.

V. That every such licence shall be granted in manner following, and not otherwise; (that is to say,) every such licence shall be granted by the Justices in General or Quarter Sessions assembled for the county wherein the house sought to be licensed shall be situate, and shall be under the hands and seals of three or more of the said Justices in General or Quarter Sessions assembled; and every person who shall apply or intend to apply to have a house licensed for the reception of insane persons shall give notice to the clerk of the peace for the county wherein such house shall be situate fourteen clear days at the least prior to the General or Quarter Sessions where he shall apply for such licence, which notice shall contain the true christian and surname and place of abode of the person so applying and intending to keep such house, and in case such person so applying shall not propose to reside himself in the licensed house, the christian and surname and previous occupation of the superintendent who is to reside therein; and such notice shall state whether the licence so applied for is for the reception of male or of female patients, or of both, and if for the reception of both, shall state the number of each sex proposed to be received, and shew the means by which the one sex may be kept distinct and apart from the other; and such notice shall be accompanied by a plan of such house, to be drawn upon a scale of not less than one eighth of an inch to a foot, with a description of the situation thereof, and the length, breadth, and height of, and a reference by a figure or letter to every room and apartment therein, and a statement of the greatest number of patients proposed to be received into such house, which notice and plan shall be laid by such clerk of the peace before the Justices at such time as they shall take into consideration the application for such licence.

VI. That if there be any place or building detached from any house to be licensed, but belonging to or in anywise appertaining to such house, such place or building shall be considered part of such licensed house for all the purposes of this Act; and that notice of any additions or alterations which shall from time to time be made to or in any house licensed under this Act, shall be given by the person to whom the licence shall have been granted to the clerk of the peace for the county wherein such house shall be situate, within one calendar month next after the completion thereof, accompanied with a plan of all the additions and alterations, to be drawn upon the scale aforesaid; and if any person whose duty it shall be so to do shall (willfully, and with intention to deceive,) not give a full and complete plan of the whole of any house to be licensed, or notice of any and all such additions and alterations as shall have been made in any such licensed house, or if any person shall, in any such notice as aforesaid, wilfully make any false or erroneous statement, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

VII. That every such licence shall be made out by the clerk of the peace of the county wherein the house to be licensed shall be situate, according to the form in Schedule (A.) annexed to this Act, for such time not exceeding thirteen calendar months, as the Justices shall think fit, and shall be signed by two or more such Justices, and shall be duly stamped with a 10s. stamp; and for every licence granted to any person for keeping a house for the reception of insane persons there shall be paid to the clerk of the peace, exclusive of the sum to be paid for the stamp, the sum of 10s. for every insane person proposed to be received into such house, but for no licence to be so granted shall be paid less than 5s., exclusive of the sum paid for the stamp; and such licence shall not be delivered nor be of any avail until the sum so payable thereon shall have been paid.

VIII. That the clerk of the peace for every county shall, within four clear days after the granting of every such licence in such county, transmit to the said inspectors general, or one of them, a true copy of such licence, and of the notice and plan given to him previous to the application for such licence; and in default of so doing, and for every such offence, such clerk of the peace shall be subject and liable to a penalty not exceeding the sum of 5*l*., nor less than 40*s*.

IX. That all monies to be received for such licences shall be paid over, by the clerks of the peace by whom the same shall have been received respectively, to the said inspectors general, at such time and in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, shall direct, and from such monies shall be paid all the fees and expenses required to be disbursed in the execution of this Act; and the said inspectors general shall keep a true account of all such receipts and disbursements, which account shall be made up to the 1st of January in each year, and shall specify the several heads of expenditure, and shall be signed by such inspectors general, and laid before Parliament on or before the 25th of March in every year, if Parliament shall be then sitting, or if Parliament shall not be then sitting, within one month after the then next sitting of Parliament, and the like account shall be transmitted to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, who shall thereupon, if they shall deem it necessary, direct the balance to be paid into the Exchequer to the account of the Consolidated Fund; and if at any time there shall be any balance due to the said inspectors general on account of expenses or liabilities incurred in the execution of or incidental to this Act, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, and they are hereby empowered, from time to time, if they shall think fit, on the application of the said inspectors general, to cause to be issued and paid, out of the Consolidated Fund, to such inspectors general, such a sum of money as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall think necessary to defray the expenses incurred under the provisions of or incidental to this Act.

X. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, from time to time to advance, by way of imprest, to the said inspectors general, such sum or sums of money as to such Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may appear requisite and reasonable for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act, such sum or sum or sums to be accounted for by the said inspectors in their next account.

XI. Provided and enacted, That if any person to whom a licence for keeping a house shall have been duly granted under this Act shall die before the expiration of the said licence, and the legal representatives of such deceased person shall, within ten days next after such death, give notice thereof to the clerk of the peace for the county wherein such house shall be situate, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the Peace at the next General or Quarter Sessions for such county, if they shall think fit, by an order in writing under the hands of any three of them, made in open court, to confirm the said licence, with all the conditions and liabilities annexed thereto, for the term unexpired, to such person as shall at the time of such death be the superintendent of such house, or have the care of the patients therein, or to such other person as such Justices shall think fit; and in the meantime such previous licence shall, notwithstanding the death of such person, remain in full force.

XII. That if any person duly licensed under this Act shall by sickness or other sufficient reason become incapable of keeping such house, or if any such licensed house shall be pulled down, or occupied under the provisions of any Act for public purposes, or shall by fire, tempest, or other unavoidable calamity be rendered unfit for the accommodation of insane persons, it shall and may be lawful for the Justices of the Peace assembled in General or Quarter Sessions for the county in which such house shall be situate, upon the payment of not less than 1*l*. for each licence, exclusive of the sum to be paid for the stamp, to grant a new licence to such other person as they shall think fit; and also to grant to the person whose house has been so rendered unfit a licence to keep such other house for the accommodation of insane persons within the said county as such Justices shall think fit: Provided always, that the notice of such intended change of persons, and all plans and statements of and concerning such new house, shall be given as are required when application is made for a licence for the first time: Provided also, that the cause of such change of house shall be duly specified in writing to the clerk of the peace within seven clear days after the happening thereof.

XIII. That if any of the said inspectors shall recommend in writing to the Lord Chancellor of Ireland for the time being, that any licence granted under this Act should be revoked, it shall be lawful for such Lord Chancellor, after making or causing to be made such inquiries as he shall think necessary, to revoke the same by an instrument in writing under his hand, such revocation to take effect at a period not exceeding three calendar months, from the time notice thereof shall have been given in the Dublin Gazette; and a copy of every such instrument of revocation shall be transmitted to the person to whom such licence shall have been granted, his executors or administrators, or to the superintendent of the house, in case the person to whom such licence shall have been granted shall not reside in the licensed house, before any such publication shall take place: Provided always, that in every case of recommendation for revocation of any such licence, notice in writing thereof shall be given to the person or persons complained of seven clear days previous to the transmission of such recommendation to the Lord Chancellor.

XIV. That no person shall be received into or detained, after the commencement of this Act, in any house licensed for the reception of insane persons in Ireland, without an order under the hand of the person by whose direction such insane person shall have been sent, which order shall be according to the form in Schedule (B.) annexed to this Act; and in it shall be stated the christian and surname and place of abode of, and the degree of relationship or other circumstance of connexion between, such person and such insane person, and the true name, age, place of residence, former occupation, and the asylum or other place (if any) in which such insane person shall have been previously confined, and whether such person shall have been found lunatic or of unsound mind under a commission issued for that purpose by the Lord Chancellor; nor shall any such person be received into or detained in any such house without a medical certificate of two physicians, surgeons, or apothecaries in the manner directed by this Act; and if any person shall knowingly and wilfully receive or detain any insane person or persons represented or alleged to be insane, or to be taken care of or confined in any house licensed under this Act, without such order and medical certificate, and without making, within three clear days after the reception or detainer of such patient, a minute or entry in writing, in a book to be kept for that purpose according to the form in Schedule (C.) annexed to this Act, of the true name of the patient, and also of the christian and surname, occupation, and place of abode of the person by whom such patient shall be brought, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

xv. That every such medical certifi- cal upon which any order shall be given for the confinement of any person in a house licensed under this Act shall be according to the form in Schedule (D.) annexed to this Act, and shall be signed by two medical practitioners not being in partnership, and each of them being a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, who shall have separately visited and personally examined the patient to whom it relates not more than seven clear days previous to such confinement; and such certificate shall be signed and dated on the day on which he or she shall have been so examined, and shall state that such person is insane and proper to be confined; and every such certificate for the confinement of any person in a house licensed under this Act shall, if the same be not signed by two medical practitioners, state the special circumstance which shall have prevented the patient being visited by two medical practitioners; and any patient may under such special circumstance be confined in any such licensed house upon the certificate of one medical practitioner, provided such certificate shall be further signed by some other medical practitioner within fourteen days next after the first signing thereof; and any person who shall, knowingly and with intention to deceive, sign any such medical certificate untruly setting forth any of the particulars required by this Act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided always, that no physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall sign any certificate for the confinement of a patient in any such licensed house who is wholly or partly the proprietor or the regular professional attendant of such licensed house, nor shall any physician, surgeon, or apothecary sign any certificate for the confinement of a patient in any such house of which his father, son, brother, or partner is wholly or in part proprietor, or the regular professional attendant of such house, on pain of being deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

And in order that the inspectors may know when any patient becomes an inmate of any house licensed for the reception of insane persons,— xvi. That the proprietor or resident superintendent of every house licensed under this Act shall, within the space of two clear days next after the day on which any person shall have become an inmate of such house, transmit a copy of the order and medical certificates in that behalf, with a notice, according to the form in Schedule (E.) annexed to this Act, to the said inspectors or one of them; and every proprietor or resident superintendent of any such house who shall knowingly and wilfully neglect so to do shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and the said inspectors are hereby required to preserve all such copies of orders and certificates, and also within five clear days to enter in a register to be provided for that purpose the christian and surname of each insane person so returned to them, and of the persons by whose order and upon whose medical certificates every such insane person is confined, and the house in which every such insane person is confined, according to the form in Schedule (C.) annexed to this Act.

It is Enacted,

xvii. That whenever any patient confined in any house licensed for the reception of insane persons shall escape therefrom or be removed therefrom, or shall die, the proprietor or resident superintendent of such house shall, within two clear days next after such escape, removal, or death, transmit a written notice thereof to the said inspectors or one of them, according to the form in Schedule (F.) annexed to this Act; and in every case of escape such notice shall state the circumstances connected with such escape, and the then state of mind of the patient; and in every case of removal such notice shall state by whom removed, and the then state of mind of such patient so removed, and to what place removed, if known; and if any such patient so escaping or removed shall be received or brought back to such house, such proprietor or resident superintendent shall, within two clear days next after such patient shall be received or brought back, transmit a like notice to the said inspectors or one of them; and all such notices shall be preserved and entered by the said inspectors in like manner as is required in the case of the notice of the admission of any patient into any such licensed house; and in every such case of death, escape, or removal, or return of any patient who shall have escaped or been removed, every proprietor or resident superintendent of any such house who shall knowingly and wilfully neglect to give such notice as in that behalf is required, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

xviii. That every house licensed under this Act, in case such house shall not be kept by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, shall be visited once in every fortnight by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary; and such resident attendant or visiting physician, surgeon, or apothecary is hereby respectively required, once in every fortnight at least, to make and sign a statement of the health of each and every patient in such licensed house, and the condition of the house, according to the form in Schedule (G.) annexed to this Act; and such statement shall be entered in a book to be kept at such house, and be regularly laid before the visiting inspectors for their inspection and signature.

xix. Provided and enacted, That when any house not kept by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall be licensed to receive less than eleven insane persons, then and in such case it shall be lawful for the said inspectors, if they shall so think fit, to direct and permit that such house shall be visited by the physician, surgeon, or apothecary once at least in four weeks, instead of once every fortnight: Provided always, that such permission shall be in writing under the hands of the said inspectors, according to the form in Schedule (H.) annexed to this Act, and shall be subject to such alteration or revocation as the said inspectors shall think fit; and that such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall enter in a book to be kept for that purpose the date of his visit, and the condition of the house, and state of health of each of the patients therein.

xx. That every such licensed house in Ireland shall be visited by one of such inspectors of lunatic asylums once at the least in every six months, on such days, and at such seasonable hours of the day, and for such length of time as he shall think fit.

xxi. XXIII. XXIV. That if the proprietor or resident superintendent of any licensed house shall fraudulently conceal or attempt to conceal any part of such house or premises, or any person detained therein as insane, from any such inspector, or from any medical or other person authorized under the provisions of this Act to visit and inspect any such house and the patients confined therein, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

XXV. That in every house licensed for the reception of insane persons the proprietor or resident superintendent shall keep, in addition to the visiting inspector's book hereinbefore directed to be kept, a book to be called the "Patients' Book," which book shall be produced to the visiting inspector at each visit, and he shall make an entry therein that the same has been so produced, and insert therein such observations as he may think fit respecting the state of mind of any patient in such house, and sign the same.

XXVI. That any proprietor or resident superintendent of any such house omitting at the visit of any such inspector to produce to him such visitors' book and patients' book, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of 20*l*., to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XXVII. That the said inspectors respectively visiting any such licensed house shall carefully consider and give special attention to the state of mind of any patient therein confined as to the propriety of whose detention he shall have cause to doubt, or as to whose sanity his attention shall be specially called by the patient or any other person, and shall, if he shall think the propriety of the detention of such patient requires further consideration, make a minute thereof in the patients' book of such house.

XXVIII. That any such inspector, in case he shall doubt the propriety of the detention of any patient in any such house, shall make a special visit to such patient, accompanied by the managing officer and the medical officer, or, if more than one, the principal medical officer of the nearest district lunatic asylum, on such day and at such hour as he shall think fit; and if after two distinct and separate visits so made it shall appear to such inspector and managing officer and medical officer that such person is detained in such house without sufficient cause, they may give such orders as to them shall seem meet for the discharge of such person at such time as the circumstances of the case may seem to justify: Provided always, that the result of each of such special visits shall be entered in writing in the patients' book of such house; and such entry, and also the order for discharge, shall be signed by such inspector and managing officer and medical officer: Provided also, that each of such special visits must be by the same inspector and managing officer and medical officer.

XXIX. Provided and enacted, That not less than fourteen days shall intervene between the first and second of such special visits, and that such inspector shall, previous to the second of such special visits, give notice thereof to the proprietor or resident superintendent of the house in which the patient intended to be visited is detained, and also (so far as is practicable) to the person by whose authority such patient was received into such house or is then detained therein, such notice to such several parties to be by letter, signed by such inspector, and with his name indorsed on the outside or cover thereof, and sent by post, and to be put into the post fourteen days at least before the day in such notice specified as the day for such second visit; and the master of any post office into which any such letter shall be put shall and is hereby required to give to such inspector a receipt for the same, in the form set out in the schedule hereto annexed, and which receipt shall be prima facie evidence of such letter having been sent to the person to whom the same shall by such receipt appear to have been addressed.

XXX. Provided and enacted, That the notice so required to be given to the proprietor or resident superintendent of the house may, instead of being given by letter as aforesaid, be given by notice in the patients' book of such house, and signed by such inspector.

XXXI. Provided and enacted, That such power of liberation shall not extend to the case of any person who shall have been found idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind under any commission issued for that purpose by the Lord Chancellor, nor to any insane person confined under any order or authority of the Lord Lieutenant, or of any criminal court of justice; but it shall be lawful for such inspectors respectively, if they shall think fit, to examine into the state of mind or condition of any such person, and to report his or their opinion in writing on the state of mind or condition of such person to the Lord Chancellor or to the chief secretary of the Lord Lieutenant, as the case may be.

XXXII. That it shall be lawful for either of the said inspectors, upon receiving information upon oath (which oath they or either of them are and is hereby empowered to administer) that the party making such oath hath cause to suspect and doth verily believe that any malpractice has taken place in any house licensed under this Act, which malpractice cannot be ascertained by examination and inspection during the day, to visit and inspect any such house at such hour of the night as he shall think fit.

XXXIII. XXXIX. That it shall be lawful for the said inspectors respectively visiting any house pursuant to the provisions of this Act, and they are hereby respectively authorized, if they shall so think fit, to select and call in any physician, surgeon, or apothecary, residing within a reasonable distance of such house to visit the same with them respectively; and every such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall be entitled to a fee, not exceeding two guineas for every such attendance, to be paid by the inspectors or inspector by whom such attendance shall have been required; and such inspectors shall have credit in their account of receipts and disbursements under this Act for every such fee so paid: Provided always, that no physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall be so called in to visit any house who shall be, directly or indirectly, interested in such house; and it shall also be lawful for the inspectors respectively visiting as aforesaid any house to require the attendance of the managing officer and the medical officer, or (if more than one) the principal medical officer, of the nearest district lunatic asylum, to visit the same with them respectively; and the travelling expenses of every such managing officer and medical officer shall be paid by the inspector by whom his attendance shall have been required, and the said inspectors shall have credit for the same in their said account.

II. That every Commissioner to be appointed by virtue of this Act shall, before he shall be capable of acting in the execution of any of the powers and authorities given by this Act, take the following oath; (that is to say,)

‘I do swear, That I will faithfully, impartially, and honestly, according to the best of my Skill and Knowledge, execute the several Powers and Trusts reposed in me as one of the Commissioners in Lunacy, and that without Favour or Affection, Prejudice or Malice. So help me GOD.’

And that such oath shall be taken before the Lord Chancellor, in like manner as the usual oaths are administered before the Lord Chancellor to Masters in Ordinary of the said Court of Chancery.

III. Declared and enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time to order and direct that any of the inquiries and matters connected with the persons and estates of lunatics, usually referred to the Masters in Ordinary of the High Court of Chancery, shall be referred to such Commissioners, or one of them; and such Commissioners shall, jointly or severally, have, perform, and execute all the powers, duties, and authorities relating to the said inquiries and matters so to be referred to them as aforesaid, now had, performed, and executed by the Masters in ordinary of the said Court of Chancery, and such other duties for the security and advantage of lunatics and their estates as the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time order and direct.

IV. That the said Commissioners shall, by virtue of their appointments to be such Commissioners as aforesaid, be and become visitors for superintending, inspecting, and reporting upon, under the order and direction of the Lord Chancellor, the care and treatment of all persons found idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind by inquisition, jointly with the three visitors appointed under the authority of an Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 36, intituled, 'An Act to diminish the Inconvenience and Expense of Commissions in the Nature of Writs De lunatico inquirendo; and to provide for the better Care and Treatment of Idiots, Lunatics, and Persons of unsound Mind found such by Inquisition,' and shall severally have, perform, and execute the like powers, duties, and authorities as are had, performed, and executed by the one of the said visitors being a barrister.

v. That the Commissioners to be appointed by virtue of this Act shall execute commissions in the nature of writs de lunatico inquirendo, and shall conduct inquiries connected with lunatics or their estates, and shall perform all other duties to be committed to them by virtue of this Act, either separately or together, and at such places, and within such times, and in such manner as the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time order and direct: Provided always, and it is hereby declared, that nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed or taken to prevent the Lord Chancellor from issuing any commission in the nature of a writ de lunatico inquirendo, addressed to any fit and proper person or persons, in addition to such Commissioners, so to be appointed as aforesaid, if he shall, upon any occasion, deem it proper to do so.

vi. That upon the death, resignation, or removal from office of any such Commissioner as aforesaid to be appointed under the authority of this Act, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to appoint a fit and proper person, qualified as aforesaid, to supply such vacancy.

After reciting that it is expedient to protect from all process against the person such persons as have become indebted without any fraud or gross or culpable negligence, so as nevertheless their estates may be duly distributed among their creditors:

It is Enacted,

1. That if any person, not being a trader within the meaning of the statutes now in force relating to bankrupts, or if any person being such trader, but owing debts amounting in the whole to less than 300*l.*, shall give notice, according to the Schedule to this Act annexed, to one fourth in number and value of his creditors, and shall cause the same notice to be inserted twice in the London Gazette, and twice in some newspaper circulating within the county wherein he resides, he may present a petition for protection from process to the Court of Bankruptcy, if he has resided twelve calendar months in London or within the London district, or to the Commissioner of Bankruptcy in the country within whose district he may have resided twelve calendar months, which petition shall have annexed to it a full and true schedule of his debts, with the names of his creditors, and the dates of contracting the debts, severally, the nature of the debt, and the security (if any) given for the same, and also of the nature and amount of his property, and of the debts owing to him, with their dates, and the names of his debtors, and the nature of the securities (if any) which he may have for such debts, and which petition shall also set forth any proposal which he may have to make for the payment, in whole or in part, of his debts; and it shall thereupon be lawful for the Judge or Commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy to whom, by any order of the Court, as hereinafter provided, the same shall be referred, or for the Commissioner in the country to whom the petition shall be presented, to give, upon the filing of such petition, a protection to the petitioner from all process whatever, either against his person or his property of every description.

which protection shall continue in force, and all process be stayed, until the appearance of the petitioner in court, as hereinafter provided; and upon the presentation of any such petition all the estate and effects of the petitioner shall forthwith become vested in the official assignee who shall be nominated by the Commissioners acting in the matter of the said petition; and such official assignee shall and may forthwith take possession of so much thereof as can be reasonably obtained and possessed without suit; and the said official assignee shall hold and stand possessed of the same in like manner as official assignees hold and possess estates and effects under and by virtue of the statute relating to bankrupts.

II. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall be held or construed to hinder or prevent the said insolvent from being arrested or held to bail under the authority of any Judge's order for that purpose, in like manner as may now by law be done, notwithstanding any protection which may be granted under the authority of this Act.

III. That the Court of Bankruptcy shall appoint a certain rotation in which the Commissioners thereof shall hear the matter of such petitions, and shall make from time to time orders touching such rotation, and touching the reference of such petitions, and also touching the Commissioner to whom the matter of any petition shall be transferred in case of death, resignation, or removal, and also such orders as they may think right touching the notice of meetings and examinations to be given to creditors, and the publication of such notice; provided that such orders shall be approved of by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal for the time being.

IV. That the Commissioner so authorized, or the Commissioner in the country, (as the case may be,) shall, on the day notified by such notice as aforesaid, proceed to examine upon oath the petitioner, and any creditor who may attend such examination, and any witness whom the petitioner or any creditor may call; and the said Commissioner may adjourn the examination from time to time, and summon to be examined before him any debtor of such petitioner, or any creditor of such petitioner, or any other person whose evidence may appear necessary for the purposes of the inquiry; and if it shall appear to the said Commissioner that the allegations in the petition and the matters in the schedules are true, and that the debts of the petitioner were not contracted by any manner of fraud or breach of trust, or any prosecution against the petitioner whereby he had been convicted of any offence, or without having at the time of becoming indebted reasonable assurance of being able to pay the debts, and that such debts were not contracted by reason of any judgment in any proceeding for breach of the revenue laws, or in any action for breach of promise of marriage, seduction, criminal conversation, libel, slander, assault, battery, malicious arrest, malicious suing out a fiat of bankruptcy, or malicious trespass, and that the petitioner has made a full discovery of his estate, effects, debts, and credits, and has not parted with any of his property since the presenting of his petition, it shall then be lawful for the said Commissioner to cause notice to be given that on a certain day, to be named therein, he will proceed to make an order, unless cause be shewn to the contrary; which order shall be called a final order, and shall be for the protection of the person of the petitioner from all process, and for the vesting of his estate and effects in an official assignee, to be named by such Commissioner, together with an assignee to be chosen by the majority in number and value of the creditors who may attend before the Commissioner on such day, or for the carrying into effect such proposal as the petitioner shall have set forth in his petition, provided that the consideration of such final order may be adjourned from time to time by the Commissioner without any fresh notice: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioner, if he shall think fit, to direct in such final order some allowance to be made for the support of the petitioner out of his estate and effects.

V. That at the first examination of the petitioner it shall be lawful for the Commissioner to renew the order for protection, and to renew it from time to time until the final order for protection and distribution.

VI. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioner, by warrant under his hand and seal, to commit to prison any petitioner who shall appear to him to have perjured or made any false statement before him, for such time as he shall think fit, not exceeding one calendar month; and touching all persons other than the petitioner who shall be examined before him, or being lawfully summoned shall refuse or neglect to attend him, the said Commissioner shall have the same powers in respect of commitment as he has by any law now in force relating to bankrupts.

VII. That from and after the passing of the final order the whole estate present and future, as well real as personal, and as well in the colonies, dominions, and plantations belonging to Her Majesty, as in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, all the effects and all the credits of the petitioner, shall become absolutely vested in the official assignee and assignee chosen by the creditors, without any deed or conveyance, which assignees shall hold the same as fully as if the petitioner had been made a bankrupt and they had been assignees under his fiat, and shall sue and be sued as if they had been assignees under such fiat; and as often as any such assignees shall die or be lawfully removed, and a new assignee duly appointed, all estate, real and personal, and such effects and credits, as were or remained vested in such deceased or removed assignee, shall vest in the new assignee, either alone or jointly with the existing assignees, as the case may require, without any deed or conveyance for that purpose.

VIII. Provided and enacted, That where according to any laws now in force any conveyance or assignment of any real or personal property of a petitioner would require to be registered, enrolled, or recorded in any registry office in England, Wales, or Ireland, or in any registry office, court, or other place in Scotland, or any of the dominions, plantations, or colonies belonging to Her Majesty, then in every such case such certificate of the appointment of an assignee or assignees as is described in an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 56, intituled 'An Act to establish a Court in Bankruptcy,' shall be registered in the registry office, court, or place wherein such conveyance or assignment as last aforesaid would require to be registered, enrolled, or recorded; and the registry hereby directed shall have the like effect, to all intents and purposes, as the registry, enrolment, or recording of such conveyance or assignment as last aforesaid would have had; and the title of any purchaser of any such property as last aforesaid for valuable consideration, who shall have duly registered, enrolled, or recorded his purchase deed previous to the registry hereby directed, shall not be invalidated by reason of such appointment of an assignee or assignees as aforesaid, or the vesting of such property in him or them consequent thereupon, unless the certificate of such appointment shall be registered as aforesaid within the times following; (that is to say,) as regards the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, within two months from the date of such appointment, and as regards all other places, within twelve months from the date thereof.

ix. That the said assignees shall be entitled to claim and demand from the said petitioner, at any time after the said final order, any estate and effects acquired by him at any time after such order shall have been made; and all such estate and effects, of what kind soever and wheresoever situate, shall be absolutely vested in such assignees upon their filing a copy of their claim, served upon the petitioner personally, or by leaving it at the place of residence mentioned in his notice of petition, and they shall hold the same in like manner as they held the estate and effects of the petitioner transferred by force of the final order, as hereinbefore provided: Provided always, that no assignee of any insolvent shall be authorized by virtue of this Act to take possession of any estate or effects which the insolvent shall have acquired or become possessed of after the making of the final order herein mentioned, except under the authority of an order of the said Commissioner, or of the Court of Review in Bankruptcy, made for that purpose, and then only to the extent and at the time and in manner directed by such order, and after giving such notices, and doing such acts, matters, and things, as by the rules, orders, and regulations made under the authority of this Act shall be required and directed in that behalf.

x. Provided and enacted, That if any suit or action is brought against any petitioner for or in respect of any debt contracted before the date of filing his petition, it shall be a sufficient plea in bar of the said suit or action that such petition was duly presented, and a final order for protection and distribution made by a Commissioner duly authorized, whereof the production of the order signed by the Commissioner, with proof of his handwriting, shall be sufficient evidence.

xi. That the like evidence of the appointments of assignees shall be received as sufficient to prove such appointments in all courts and places whatsoever as is received by the laws now in force relating to bankrupts to prove such appointments.

xii. That it shall be lawful for any creditor, or official assignee or other assignee, at any time after the final order shall have been made, to give one month's notice to the petitioner, either by personal service, or, if he cannot be found, by service at the place of his residence mentioned in his notice of petition, that such creditor intends to apply by motion to the said Commissioner, or, in case of his death, resignation, or removal, to the Commissioner appointed to succeed him, that the final order be rescinded as far as relates to the protection of the petitioner's person from process, and as far as relates to the effect of such order in bar of suits and actions; and the said Commissioner shall, upon hearing the matter of such motion, and any evidence in support of it, and what the petitioner has to allege against it, and any evidence against it, and upon examining the petitioner, if he shall desire to be examined or if the Commissioner shall think fit, proceed to make such rescinding order as is hereinbefore mentioned, if he sees reason to believe that the petitioner had not before the making of the order sought to be rescinded made a full disclosure of his estate, effects, and debts, or had since the making of such order not given notice to the assignees of any property after acquired by him; provided that on any such motion by a creditor the official and other assignee shall be duly served with a month's notice to attend the said Commissioner; and provided further, that notice of the hearing of such motion shall be given twice in the London Gazette and twice in the same paper in which notice of the petition had been given, or in some other paper circulating in the same county; and provided always, that the said Commissioner, in case he shall refuse to make the rescinding order, shall, if he think fit, order the petitioner's costs of the motion to be paid by the creditor making the motion, or by the assignee chosen by the creditors, in case he shall make the motion, but not out of the petitioner's estate and effects.

xiii. That it shall be lawful for the Judges and Commissioners of the Court of Bankruptcy, or any four of them, to make such orders, rules, and regulations as they shall think fit for the better carrying this Act into execution, and particularly for regulating and appointing the duties of the official assignees and of the other assignees, the auditing of their accounts, the collecting the debts and the realizing the estate and effects of the petitioner, and the notification of the time of hearing petitions or motions in the Gazette or otherwise; which orders, rules, and regulations shall, upon being approved by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper or Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal, be laid before both Houses of Parliament within fourteen days from such approval, if Parliament be then sitting, or if not, within fourteen days from the commencement of the next session of Parliament, and shall in the meantime and from the date of such approval be binding upon the Commissioners in the country, and upon all other persons whatever, until such time as either House of Parliament shall make some resolution in whole or in part disapproving the same.

xiv. That this Act shall not come into operation before the 1st of November next ensuing, except as regards the power of the Commissioners to make orders, rules, and regulations, with consent of the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper or Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal.

xv. Provided and enacted, That this Act may be altered or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

It is Enacted,

I. That the provisions of this Act, unless where otherwise herein specially provided, shall commence and take effect from and after the 11th of November next.

II. That all laws, statutes, and usages shall be and the same are hereby repealed, in so far as they may be inconsistent or at variance with the provisions of this Act; provided always, that the same shall continue in force in all other respects whatsoever.

III. That in every case of a petition for the issue of a fiat in bankruptcy, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to dispense, if he shall think fit, with the bond now required to be given to him by the petitioning creditor, conditioned for proving his debt, and for proving the party to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time of issuing such fiat, and for proceeding upon such fiat; and in such case it shall be lawful to issue the fiat without any such bond having been given.

IV. That every fiat in bankruptcy granted after the commencement of this Act shall, after the granting of such fiat, be forthwith issued and transmitted by the Lord Chancellor's Secretary of Bankrupts, in such manner, and at such cost, as the Lord Chancellor by any general or other order shall direct, to the Court to which such fiat shall be directed under and by virtue of the powers of any Act now in force or of this Act, and shall be forthwith opened, unless such Court shall in its discretion think fit to postpone the opening of such fiat: Provided always, that if such fiat shall not be opened by the petitioning creditor within three days after it shall have been so transmitted, or within such extended time as shall be allowed by the said Court, such Court is hereby authorized to open such fiat, at any time within fourteen days then next following, upon the application of any other creditor to the amount required by this Act to constitute a petitioning creditor, and to adjudicate thereon, upon the proof of the debt of such creditor, and of the other requisites to support such fiat: Provided always, that no such fiat shall be issued to the petitioning creditor, or his attorney or agent.

V. That whenever any fiat in bankruptcy shall have issued against any person, and it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of such fiat that there is probable cause for believing that such person is about to quit England, or to remove or conceal any of his goods or chattels, with intent to defraud his creditors, unless he be forthwith apprehended, it shall be lawful for such Court to issue a warrant, directed to any person or persons such Court shall think fit, whereby such person or persons shall have authority to arrest the person named in such fiat by his body, and also to seize his books, papers, monies, securities for monies, goods, and chattels, wheresoever he or they may be found, and him and them safely keep until the expiration of the time allowed for opening such fiat, or until such person shall be adjudged bankrupt under such fiat, and be thereon dealt with under such fiat, according to the laws relating to bankrupts.

VI. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for any person arrested upon any such warrant, or for any person whose books, papers, monies, securities for monies, goods, or chattels have been seized under any such warrant, to apply at any time after such arrest or seizure to such Court for an order or rule on the petitioning creditor named in such fiat to shew cause why the person arrested should not be discharged out of custody, or why his books, papers, monies, securities for monies, goods, and chattels should not be delivered up to him; and that it shall be lawful for such Court to make absolute or discharge such order or rule, and to direct the costs of the application to be paid by either party; provided that any such order may be discharged or varied by the Court of Review, on application made thereto by either party dissatisfied with such order.

VII. That no person shall be liable to become bankrupt by reason of any act of bankruptcy committed more than twelve months prior to the issuing of any fiat in bankruptcy against him.

VIII. That no fiat in bankruptcy shall be deemed invalid by reason of any act of bankruptcy of the person against whom the adjudication of bankruptcy thereunder shall be made having been concerted or agreed upon between the bankrupt and any creditor or other person, save and except where any petition to supersede or annul a fiat for any such cause shall have been already presented, and shall be now pending.

IX. That the amount of the debt or debts of any creditor or creditors petitioning for a fiat in bankruptcy shall hereafter be as follows; that is to say, the single debt of such creditor or of two or more persons being partners petitioning for the same shall amount to 50*l.* or upwards, and the debt of two creditors so petitioning shall amount to 70*l.* or upwards; and the debt of three or more creditors so petitioning shall amount to 100*l.* or upwards; and that every person who has given credit to any trader upon valuable consideration for any sum payable at a certain time, which time shall not have arrived when such trader committed an act of bankruptcy, may so petition or join in petitioning as aforesaid, whether he shall have had any security in writing for such sum or not.

X. That all livery stable keepers, coach proprietors, carriers, ship-owners, auctioneers, apothecaries, market gardeners, cow-keepers, brick-makers, alum-makers, lime-burners, and millers shall be deemed traders, and subject and liable as traders to this and to the other statutes relating to bankrupts.

XI. That if any creditor of any trader, within the meaning of this or any other statute relating to bankrupts now or hereafter to be in force, shall file an affidavit in the court authorized as hereinafter provided to act in the prosecution of fiats in bankruptcy in the district (to be described as hereinafter mentioned) in which such debtor shall reside, or in the Court of Bankruptcy, if such debtor shall not reside in any such district, in the form specified in Schedule hereunto annexed (A. No. 1.), of the truth of his debt, and of the debtor, as he verily believes, being such trader as aforesaid, and of the delivery to such trader, personally, of an account in writing of the particulars of his demand, with a notice thereunder requiring immediate payment thereof, in the form specified in the said Schedule (A. No. 2.), it shall be lawful for the Court in which such affidavit shall be filed, as the case may be, to issue a summons in writing, in the form specified in the said Schedule (A. No. 3.), calling upon such trader to appear before such Court, and stating in such summons the purpose for which such trader is called upon by such summons to appear as hereinafter provided.

XII. That upon the appearance of any such trader so summoned as aforesaid it shall be lawful for such Court to require such trader to state whether or not he admits the demand of such creditor so sworn to as aforesaid, or any and what part thereof, and if such trader shall admit such demand or any part thereof to reduce such admission into writing, in the form specified in the Schedule hereunto annexed (B. No. 1.), and such admission so reduced into writing such trader is hereby required to sign, and the same is thereupon to be filed in such court; and it shall also be lawful for such Court to allow such trader upon his said appearance to make a deposition upon oath, in writing under his hand, to be filed in such court, in the form specified in the said Schedule (B. No. 2.), that he verily believes he has a good defence to the said demand, or to some and what part thereof.

XIII. That if any such trader so summoned as aforesaid shall not come before such Court at the time appointed (having no lawful impediment made known to and proved to the satisfaction of the Court at the said time, and allowed), or if any such trader, upon his appearance to such summons as aforesaid, or at any enlargement or adjournment thereof, (as the case may be,) shall refuse to admit such demand, and shall not make a deposition, in the form hereinbefore mentioned, that he believes he has a good defence to such demand, then and in either of the said cases, if such trader shall not, within fourteen days after personal service of such summons, or within such enlarged time as may be granted to him in that behalf, pay, secure, or compound for such demand to the satisfaction of such creditor, or enter into a bond, in such sum and with two sufficient sureties as such Courts shall approve of, to pay such sum as shall be recovered in any action which shall have been brought or shall thereafter be brought for the recovering of the same, together with such costs as shall be given in such action, every such trader shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after service of such summons, provided a fiat in bankruptcy shall issue against such trader within two months from the filing of such affidavit.

XIV. That if any such trader so summoned as aforesaid upon his said appearance shall sign an admission of such demand in the form aforesaid, and shall not, within fourteen days next after the filing of such admission; pay, or tender and offer to pay, to such creditor the amount of such demand, or secure or compound for the same to the satisfaction of the creditor, every such trader shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after the filing of such admission, provided a fiat in bankruptcy shall issue against such trader within two months from the filing of such affidavit.

XV. That if any such trader so summoned as aforesaid shall upon his said appearance sign an admission for part only of such demand in the form aforesaid, and shall not make a deposition in the form hereinbefore required that he believes he has a good defence to the residue of such demand, then and in such case, if such trader, as to the sum so admitted, shall not, within fourteen days next after the filing of such admission, pay, or tender and offer to pay, to such creditor the sum so admitted, or secure or compound for the same to the satisfaction of the creditor, and as to the residue of such demand shall not, within fourteen days after personal service of such summons, or within such enlarged time as may be granted to him in that behalf, pay, secure, or compound for the same to the satisfaction of such creditor, or enter into a bond, in such sum and with two sufficient sureties as such Court shall approve of, to pay such sum as shall be recovered in any action which shall have been brought or shall thereafter be brought for the recovery of the same, together with such costs as shall be given in such action, every such trader shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after service of such summons, provided a fiat in bankruptcy shall issue against such trader within two months from the filing of such affidavit.

XVI. Provided and enacted, That if any such trader so summoned as aforesaid shall, upon his appearance before such Court, refuse to sign the admission in that behalf required as aforesaid, whatever may be the nature of his statement, or whether he makes any statement or not, it shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, that every such trader thereby refuses to admit such demand: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for such Court, upon reasonable cause shewn, to enlarge the time for calling upon such trader to state whether or not he admits such demand, or any part thereof, and for entering into such bond, or for either of such matters, for such time as such Court shall think fit.

XVII. Provided and enacted, That an admission of any debt made after such summons as aforesaid, and signed by any such trader elsewhere than before such Court, may be filed in such Court, and shall be of the same force and effect to all intents and purposes as an admission signed by such trader so summoned as aforesaid on his appearance in such court, provided there be present some attorney of one of Her Majesty's superior courts of law on behalf of such trader, expressly named by him and attending at his request, to inform him of the effect of such admission before the same is signed by such trader; and provided also, that such attorney do subscribe his name thereto as a witness to the due execution thereof, and in such attestation declare himself to be attorney for the said trader, and state therein that he subscribes as such attorney, and that such admission shall be made in the form of Schedule (C.) hereunto annexed.

XVIII. That where any trader against whom an affidavit of debt is filed as aforesaid shall be summoned to appear before the Court in which such such affidavit shall be filed, as the case may be, every such trader shall have such costs and charges as such Court in its discretion shall think fit.

XIX. That in every action brought after the commencement of this Act, wherein any such creditor is plaintiff and any such trader is defendant, and wherein the plaintiff shall not recover the amount of the sum for which he shall have filed an affidavit of debt under the provisions of this Act, such defendant shall be entitled to costs of suit, to be taxed according to the custom of the Court in which such action shall have been brought, provided that it shall be made appear to the satisfaction of the Court in which such action is brought, upon motion to be made in court for that purpose, and upon hearing the parties by affidavit, that the plaintiff in such action had not any reasonable or probable cause for making such affidavit of debt in such amount as aforesaid, and provided such Court shall thereupon, by a rule or order of the same Court, direct that such costs shall be allowed to the defendant; and the plaintiff shall, upon such rule or order being made as aforesaid, be disabled from taking out any execution for the sum recovered in any such action, unless the same shall exceed, and then in such sum only as the same shall exceed, the amount of the taxed costs of the defendant in such action; and in case the sum recovered in any such action shall be less than the amount of the costs of the defendant to be taxed as aforesaid, that then the defendant shall be entitled, after deducting the sum of money recovered by the plaintiff in such action from the amount of his costs so to be taxed as aforesaid, to take out execution for such costs in like manner as a defendant may now by law have execution for costs in other cases.

XX. That if any plaintiff shall recover judgment in any action personal for the recovery of any debt or money demand, in any of Her Majesty's courts of record, against any such trader, and shall be in a situation to sue out execution upon such judgment, and there be nothing due from such plaintiff by way of set-off against such judgment, and such trader shall not, within fourteen days after notice in writing personally served upon him requiring immediate payment of such judgment debt, pay, secure, or compound for the same to the satisfaction of such plaintiff, he shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after service of such notice: Provided always, that if such execution shall in the meantime be suspended or restrained by any rule, order, or proceeding of any court of justice having jurisdiction in that behalf, no further proceeding shall be had on such notice, but that it shall be lawful nevertheless for such plaintiff, when he shall again be in a situation to sue out execution on such judgment, to proceed again by notice in manner before directed.

XXI. That if any decree or order shall be pronounced in any cause depending in any court of equity, or any order shall be made in any matter of bankruptcy or lunacy, against any such trader, ordering such trader to pay any sum of money, and such trader shall disobey such decree or order, the same having been duly served upon him, the person entitled to receive such sum under such decree or order, or interested in enforcing the payment thereof pursuant thereto, may apply to the Court by which the same shall have been pronounced to fix a peremptory day for the payment of such money, which shall accordingly be fixed by an order for that purpose; and if such trader, being personally served with such last-mentioned order fourteen days before the day therein appointed for payment of such money, shall neglect to pay the same, he shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after the service of such order.

XXII. That if any such trader shall file in the office of the Lord Chancellor's secretary of bankrupts a declaration in writing (in the form of Schedule (D.) hereunto annexed), signed by such trader, and attested by an attorney or solicitor, that he is unable to meet his engagements, every such trader shall be deemed thereby to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time of filing such declaration, provided a fiat in bankruptcy shall issue against such trader within two months from the filing of such declaration; and a copy of such declaration, purporting to be certified by the said secretary or his clerk as a true copy, shall be received as evidence of such declaration having been filed.

XXIII. That before notice of any adjudication of bankruptcy under any fiat in bankruptcy issued after the commencement of this Act shall be given in the London Gazette, and at or before the time of putting in execution any warrant of seizure which shall have been granted upon such adjudication, a duplicate of such adjudication shall be served on the person so adjudged bankrupt personally, or by leaving the same at the usual place of abode or place of business of such person, and that such person shall be allowed five days from the service of such duplicate to shew cause to the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of the fiat under which such adjudication shall have been made, against the validity of such adjudication; and that if such person shall within the time hereby allowed in that behalf shew to the satisfaction of such Court that the petitioning creditor's debt, trading, and act of bankruptcy upon which such adjudication shall have been grounded, or that any or either of such matters, are insufficient to support such adjudication, and upon such shewing no other creditor's debt, trading, and act of bankruptcy sufficient to support such adjudication, or such of the said last-mentioned matters as shall be requisite to support such adjudication in lieu of the petitioning creditor's debt, trading, and act of bankruptcy, or any or either of such matters which shall be deemed insufficient in that behalf, as the case may be, shall be proved to the satisfaction of such Court, such Court shall thereupon cause a memorandum in writing to be filed with the proceedings under such fiat that such adjudication is annulled, and the same shall thereby be annulled accordingly; but if at the expiration of the said time no cause shall have been shewn to the satisfaction of such Court for the annulling of such adjudication, such Court shall forthwith, after the expiration of such time, cause notice of such adjudication to be given in the London Gazette, and shall thereby appoint two public sittings of such Court for the bankrupt to surrender and conform, the last of which sittings shall be on a day not less than thirty days and not exceeding sixty days from such advertisement, and shall be the day limited for such surrender: Provided always, that if such person so adjudged bankrupt shall, after such adjudication, and before the expiration of the time so allowed for shewing cause as aforesaid, surrender to such fiat, and give his consent, testified in writing under his hand before such Court, to such adjudication, and that the same may be advertised, such Court, after such consent so given as aforesaid, shall forthwith cause notice of such adjudication to be advertised, and appoint the sittings for the bankrupt to surrender and conform in manner aforesaid; and such person so adjudged bankrupt shall be free from arrest or imprisonment by any creditor in coming to surrender, and after such surrender during the time by this Act limited for such surrender, and such further time as shall be allowed him for finishing his examination, and for such time after finishing his examination until his certificate be allowed and confirmed, as such Court shall from time to time, by indorsement upon the summons of such bankrupt, think fit to appoint, provided he was not in custody at the time of such surrender; and if such bankrupt shall be arrested for debt or on any escape warrant in coming to surrender, or shall after his surrender be so arrested within the time aforesaid, he shall, on producing his summons signed as required by this Act to the officer who shall arrest him, and giving such officer a copy thereof, be immediately discharged; and if any officer shall detain any such bankrupt after he shall have shewn such summons to him, such officer shall forfeit to such bankrupt, for his own use, the sum of 5*l.* for every day he shall detain such bankrupt, to be recovered by action of debt in any court of record at Westminster, in the name of such bankrupt, with full costs of suit; and it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of such fiat, at the time appointed for the last examination of the bankrupt, or any enlargement or adjournment thereof, to adjourn such examination sine die; and in such case he shall be free from arrest or imprisonment for such time not exceeding three months as such Court shall from time to time by indorsement upon the summons of such bankrupt appoint, with like penalty upon any officer detaining such bankrupt after having been shewn such summons.

XXIV. That if the bankrupt shall not (if he were within the United Kingdom at the date of the adjudication), within twenty-one days after the advertisement of the bankruptcy in the London Gazette, or (if he were in any other part of Europe at the date of the adjudication) within three months after such advertisement, or (if he were elsewhere at the date of the adjudication) within twelve months after such advertisement, have commenced an action, suit, or other proceeding to dispute or annul the fiat, and shall not have prosecuted the same with due diligence and with effect, the Gazette containing such advertisement shall be conclusive evidence in all cases as against such bankrupt, and in all actions at law or suits in equity brought by the assignees for any debt or demand for which such bankrupt might have sustained any action or suit had he not been adjudged bankrupt, that such person so adjudged bankrupt became a bankrupt before the date and suing forth of such fiat, and that such fiat was sued forth on the day on which the same is stated in the Gazette to bear date, saving all rights which shall have accrued to any such person as aforesaid previous to the commencement of this Act, and in respect of which any proceedings shall be pending at the time of the commencement of this Act, which shall be adjudged and determined as if this Act had not been passed.

XXV. That in the event of the death of any witness deposing to the petitioning creditor's debt, trading, or act of bankruptcy, under any fiat in bankruptcy already issued or hereafter to be issued, the deposition of any such deceased witness, purporting to be sealed with the seal of the Court of Bankruptcy, or a copy thereof purporting to be so sealed, shall in all cases be receivable in evidence of the matters therein respectively contained.

XXVI. That if the assignees commence any action or suit for any money due to the bankrupt's estate before the time allowed by this Act for the bankrupt to dispute the fiat shall have elapsed, any defendant in any such action or suit shall be entitled, after notice given to the assignees, to pay the same or any part thereof into the court in which such action or suit is brought; and all proceedings with respect to the money so paid into court shall thereupon be stayed, until the time aforesaid shall have elapsed; and if within that time the bankrupt shall not have commenced such action, suit, or other proceeding as aforesaid, and prosecuted the same with due diligence, the money shall be paid out of court to the assignees, but otherwise shall abide the event of such action, suit, or other proceeding as aforesaid, and upon such event shall be paid out of court, either to the assignees, or the person adjudged bankrupt, as the Court shall direct, and that after such payment so made into court, it shall not be lawful for the person so adjudged bankrupt to proceed against the defendant for recovery of the same money.

XXVII. That it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of any fiat in bankruptcy, whenever such Court shall think fit, at or after the sitting appointed for the last examination of the bankrupt named in such fiat, to audit the assignees' accounts, and to make a declaration of dividend under such fiat, subject nevertheless to such advertisement and such other provisions relating to such audits and dividends as are now required in respect of audits and dividends under bankrupts' estates, except such provisions as relate to the limitation of time in any manner respecting such audits and dividends, or the appointment thereof.

XXVIII. That when any bankrupt under a fiat issued after the commencement of this Act, shall have been indebted at the time of issuing the fiat against him to any servant or clerk of such bankrupt in respect of the wages or salary of such servant or clerk, it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of such fiat, upon proof thereof, to order so much as shall be so due as aforesaid, not exceeding three months wages or salary, and not exceeding 30*l.*, to be paid to such servant or clerk out of the estate of such bankrupt, and such servant or clerk shall be at liberty to prove under the fiat for any sum exceeding such last-mentioned amount.

XXIX. That when any bankrupt under a fiat issued after the commencement of this Act shall have been indebted, at the time of issuing the fiat against him, to any labourer or workman of such bankrupt in respect of the wages or labour of such labourer or workman, it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of such fiat, upon proof thereof, to order so much as shall be so due as aforesaid, not exceeding 40*l.*, to be paid to such labourer or workman out of the estate of such bankrupt, and such labourer or workman shall be at liberty to prove under the fiat for any sum exceeding such last-mentioned amount.

XXX. That in all cases where it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of any fiat in bankruptcy, that there is reason to suspect and believe that property of any bankrupt is concealed in any house, premises, or other place not belonging to such bankrupt, such Court is hereby directed and authorized to grant a search warrant to any person appointed by the Court in which the adjudication against such bankrupt shall have been made, and it shall be lawful for such person to execute such warrant according to the tenor thereof; and such person shall be entitled to the same protection as is allowed by law in execution of a search warrant for property reputed to be stolen or concealed.

XXXI. That if any person adjudged bankrupt after the commencement of this Act shall at the time of his bankruptcy be a member of a firm, it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of the fiat against such bankrupt to authorize the assignee, upon his application, to commence or prosecute any action at law or suit in equity in the name of such assignee and of the remaining partner, against any debtor of the partnership, and such judgment, decree, or order may be obtained therein as if such action or suit had been instituted with the consent of such partner, and if such partner shall execute any release of the debt or demand for which such action or suit is instituted such release shall be void; provided that every such partner shall have notice given him of such application, and be at liberty to shew cause against it, and, if no benefit is claimed by him by virtue of the said proceedings, shall be indemnified against the payment of any costs in respect of such action or suit, in such manner as such Court upon his application shall direct; and that it shall be lawful for such Court, upon the application of such partner, to direct that he may receive so much of the proceeds of such action or suit as such Court shall direct.

XXXII. That if any person adjudged bankrupt after the commencement of this Act shall not, upon the day limited for the surrender of such bankrupt, and before three of the clock of such day, or at the hour and upon the day allowed him for finishing his examination, after notice thereof in writing to be left at the usual or last known place of abode or business of such person, or personal notice in case such person be then in prison, and notice given in the London Gazette of the issuing of the fiat, and of the sittings of the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of the fiat against him, surrender himself to such Court, and sign or subscribe such surrender, and submit to be examined before such Court from time to time upon oath; or if any such bankrupt, upon such examination, shall not discover all his real and personal estate, and how, and to whom, upon what consideration, and when he disposed of, assigned, or transferred any of such estate, and all books, papers, and writings relating thereunto (except such part as shall have been really and bond fide before sold or disposed of in the way of his trade, or laid out in the ordinary expense of his family); or if any such bankrupt shall not upon such examination deliver up to the said Court all such part of such estate, and all books, papers, and writings relating thereunto, as shall be in his possession, custody, or power (except the necessary wearing apparel of himself, his wife, and children); or if any such bankrupt shall remove, conceal, or embezzle any part of such estate to the value of 10*l*. or upwards, or any books of account, papers, or writings relating thereto, with intent to defraud his creditors; every such bankrupt shall be deemed guilty of felony, and be liable to be transported for life, or for such term, not less than seven years, as the Court before which he shall be convicted shall adjudge, or shall be liable to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, in any common gaol, penitentiary house, or house of correction, for any term not exceeding seven years.

XXXIII. That the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of any fiat in bankruptcy shall have power, as often as such Court shall think fit, from time to time, to enlarge the time for the bankrupt named in such fiat surrendering himself for such time as such Court shall think fit, so as every such order be made six days at least before the day on which such bankrupt was to surrender himself.

XXXIV. That if any bankrupt shall, after an act of bankruptcy committed, or in contemplation of bankruptcy, or with intent to defeat the object of this or any other statute relating to bankrupts, and after the commencement of this Act, have destroyed, altered, mutilated, or falsified any of his books, papers, writings, or securities, or made or been privy to the making of any false or fraudulent entry in any book of account or other document, with intent to defraud his creditors, every such bankrupt shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor, and being convicted thereof shall be liable to be imprisoned in any common gaol or house of correction for any term not exceeding three years, with or without hard labour.

XXXV. That if any bankrupt shall within three months next preceeding his bankruptcy, and after the commencement of this Act, under the false colour and pretence of carrying on business and dealing in the ordinary course of trade, have obtained on credit from any other person any goods or chattels with intent to defraud the owner thereof, or if any bankrupt shall within the time aforesaid, with such intent, have removed, concealed, or disposed of any goods or chattels so obtained, knowing them to have been so obtained, every such person so offending shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor, and being convicted thereof shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour.

XXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of any fiat in bankruptcy issued after the commencement of this Act, upon the request in writing of at least three creditors (not being partners) who shall have respectively proved debts of the amount of 50*l*. or upwards under such fiat, to direct the assignees of the bankrupt named in such fiat, if he shall be suspected of or charged with the commission of any of the offences specified in this Act, to institute and carry on a prosecution of such bankrupt for such offence, and to order that the costs and expenses to be incurred in such prosecution shall be paid out of the estate and effects of the said bankrupt, and such assignees shall thereupon institute and carry on such prosecution; and in case the said assignees shall refuse or neglect to institute and carry on to conviction such prosecution, having no lawful or reasonable impediment made known to and allowed by the said Court, the said Court may order the same to be instituted and carried on either by the official assignee alone, or by the creditors making such request as aforesaid, as the said Court may think fit.

XXXVII. That every bankrupt who shall have duly surrendered and in all things conformed himself to the laws in force at the time of issuing the fiat in bankruptcy against him shall be discharged from all debts due by him when he became bankrupt, and from all claims and demands made proveable under the fiat, in case he shall obtain a certificate of such conformity so signed and allowed, and subject to such provisions as hereinafter mentioned; and no certificate of such conformity by any such bankrupt shall release or discharge such bankrupt from such debts, claims, or demands, unless such certificate shall be obtained, allowed, and confirmed according to such provisions: Provided always, that no such certificate shall release or discharge any person who was partner with such bankrupt at the time of his bankruptcy, or was then jointly bound or had made any joint contract with such bankrupt; and provided also, that nothing herein contained shall affect the validity of any certificate allowed by the Lord Chancellor or Court of Review previous to the commencement of this Act.

XXXVIII. Provided and enacted, That no bankrupt shall be entitled to the certificate under this Act, and that any such certificate, if obtained, shall be void, if such bankrupt shall have lost by any sort of gaming or wagering in one day 20*l*., or within one year next preceding his bankruptcy 200*l.*, or if he shall within one year next preceding his bankruptcy have lost 200*l.* by any contract for the purchase or sale of any government or other stock, where such contract was not to be performed within one week after the contract, or where the stock bought or sold was not actually transferred or delivered in pursuance of such contract; or if such bankrupt shall, after an act of bankruptcy, or in contemplation of bankruptcy, or with intent to defeat the object of this or any other statute relating to bankrupts, have concealed, destroyed, altered, mutilated, or falsified, or caused to be concealed, destroyed, altered, mutilated, or falsified, any of his books, papers, writings, or securities, or made or been privy to the making any false or fraudulent entry in any book of account or other document, with intent to defraud his creditors, or shall have concealed any part of his property; or if any person having proved a false debt under the fiat, such bankrupt being privy thereto, or afterwards knowing the same, shall not have disclosed the same to his assignees, within one month after such knowledge.

XXXIX. That it shall be lawful for the Court authorized to act in the prosecution of any fiat in bankruptcy already issued or hereafter to be issued, on the application of the bankrupt named in such fiat, to appoint a public sitting for the allowance of such certificate to the bankrupt named in such fiat (whereof and of the purport whereof twenty-one days' notice shall be given in the London Gazette and to the solicitor of the assignees); and at such sitting any of the creditors of such bankrupt may be heard against the allowance of such certificate; but it shall not be requisite for such certificate to be signed by any of the creditors of such bankrupt; and such Court, having regard to the conformity of the bankrupt to the laws relating to bankrupts, and to the conduct of the bankrupt as a trader before as well as after his bankruptcy, shall judge of any objection against allowing such certificate; and either find the bankrupt entitled thereto, and allow the same, or refuse or suspend the allowance thereof, or annex such conditions thereto as the justice of the case may require: Provided always, that no certificate shall be such discharge unless such Court shall, in writing under hand and seal, certify to the Court of Review that such bankrupt has made a full discovery of his estate and effects, and in all things conformed as aforesaid, and that there does not appear any reason to doubt the truth or fulness of such discovery, and unless the bankrupt make oath in writing that such certificate was obtained fairly and without fraud, and unless the allowance of such certificate shall, after such oath, be confirmed by the Court of Review, against which confirmation any of the creditors of the bankrupt may be heard before such Court.

XL. That any contract or security made or given by any bankrupt or other person unto or in trust for any creditor, or for securing the payment of any money due by such bankrupt at his bankruptcy, as a consideration or with intent to persuade such creditor to forbear opposing or to consent to the allowance or confirmation of such certificate, shall be void, and the money thereby secured or agreed to be paid shall not be recoverable, and the party sued on such contract or security may plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence.

XLI. That if any creditor of a bankrupt shall obtain any sum of money, or any goods, chattels, or security for money, from any person, as an inducement for forbearing to oppose or for consenting to the allowance or confirmation of the certificate of such bankrupt, every such creditor so offending shall forfeit and lose for every such offence the treble value or amount of such money, goods, chattels, or security so obtained, (as the case may be,) to be recovered as hereinafter provided.

XLII. That any bankrupt who shall, after such certificate shall have been confirmed, be arrested, or have any action brought against him for any debt, claim, or demand proveable under the fiat against such bankrupt, shall be discharged upon entering an appearance, and may plead in general that the cause of action accrued before he became bankrupt, and may give this Act and the special matter in evidence; and such bankrupt's certificate, and the confirmation thereof, shall be sufficient evidence of the trading, bankruptcy, fiat, and other proceedings precedent to the obtaining such certificate; and if any such bankrupt shall be taken in execution or detained in prison for such debt, claim, or demand, where judgment has been obtained before the confirmation of his certificate, it shall be lawful for any Judge of the Court wherein judgment has been so obtained, on such bankrupt's producing his certificate, to order any officer who shall have such bankrupt in custody by virtue of such execution to discharge such bankrupt without exacting any fee, and such officer shall be hereby indemnified for so doing.

XLIII. That no bankrupt, after such certificate shall have been confirmed, shall be liable to pay or satisfy any debt, claim, or demand from which he shall have been discharged by virtue of such certificate, or any part of such debt, claim, or demand, upon any contract, promise, or agreement made or to be made after the suing out of the fiat, unless such contract, promise, or agreement be made in writing signed by the bankrupt, or by some person thereto lawfully authorized in writing by such bankrupt.

XLIV. That every bankrupt who shall have obtained his certificate under any fiat issued after the commencement of this Act, if the net produce of his estate in hand shall by any order of dividend (with or without prior dividend) pay the creditors who before or at the time of making such order have proved debts under the fiat 10*s.* in the pound, shall be allowed and paid 5*l.* per centum out of such produce, provided such allowance shall not exceed 400*l.*; and every such bankrupt, if such produce shall (with or without prior dividend) pay such creditors 12*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, shall be allowed and paid as aforesaid 7*l.* 10*s.* per centum, provided such allowance shall not exceed 500*l.*; and every such bankrupt, if such produce shall (with or without prior dividend) pay such creditors 15*s.* in the pound or upwards, shall be allowed and paid as aforesaid 10*l.* per centum, provided such allowance shall not exceed 600*l.*; and provided always, that such allowance as aforesaid shall not be payable to any bankrupt until after the expiration of twelve months from the date of the fiat, and such allowance shall then be payable only in the event of the dividends paid to the creditors who at any time before the expiration of such twelve months shall have proved debts under the fiat being of the requisite amount in that behalf aforesaid; and if at the expiration of such time the dividends paid as aforesaid shall not amount to 10*s.* in the pound, it shall be lawful for the Court to allow such bankrupt so much as the assignees and Court shall think fit, not exceeding 3*l.* per centum and 300*l.*

XLV. That in all joint fiats under which any partner shall have obtained his certificate, if a sufficient dividend shall have been paid upon the joint estate, and upon the separate estate of such partner, he shall be entitled to his allowance although his other partner may not be entitled to any allowance.

And after reciting that fiats in bankruptcy against traders residing within a limited distance from London are usually exclusively directed to the Court of Bankruptcy, and such distance may, in consequence of the increased facility of communication, be without inconvenience considerably extended; and it is expedient to make better provision for the prosecution of flats in bankruptcy not directed to the Court of Bankruptcy:—

It is Enacted,

XLVI. That every fiat in bankruptcy issued after the commencement of this Act, not directed to the Court of Bankruptcy, shall be directed to such one of the Courts authorized to act in the prosecution of flats in bankruptcy in the country, as hereinafter provided, as the Lord Chancellor, or as the Master of the Rolls, one of the Vice Chancellors, or one of the Masters of the Court of Chancery acting under any appointment of the Lord Chancellor to be given for that purpose, by such fiat may think fit to nominate, to be prosecuted in such court, and that every such fiat shall be thereupon prosecuted in the Court to which the same shall be so directed, and it shall be lawful for such Court to proceed thereon in all respects as Commissioners of Bankrupt acting in the prosecution of a fiat in bankruptcy elsewhere than in the Court of Bankruptcy before the passing of this Act, save and except as such proceeding may be altered by virtue of this Act; and that in every bankruptcy prosecuted in any such court every such Court shall have all the power, jurisdiction, and authority, and be subject to the duty, by any Act of Parliament now in force vested in or imposed upon such Commissioners, in all respects as if such Court were Commissioners of Bankrupt returned and appointed under the said recited Act, save and except as may be otherwise directed by this Act.

XLVII. That every fiat in bankruptcy prosecuted in the country, and the proceedings under such fiat, or any part of such proceedings, or copies or minutes of every such fiat and proceedings, or part thereof, at such time and in such manner and form as the Lord Chancellor shall direct, shall be transmitted by the Court acting in the prosecution of such fiat to the Court of Bankruptcy in London, to be there filed and kept among the records of the said Court.

XLVIII.
